Follow Withdrawal Of Henry Schricker

INDIANAPOLIS (INS) — Possible candidates for the Democratic senatorial and gubernatorial nominations next year appeared to sprout today, as had been anticipated following the withdrawal of former Governor Henry F. Schricker from the contest for governor.

Marshall Hanley, Muncie attorney, seemed to be interested in the senatorial bid. He has served as president of the Indiana Young Democrats, law clerk for Sherman Minton when the present supreme court justice was a federal district judge at Chicago, and as assistant federal district attorney when state senator Matthew Walsh, of Vincennes, a gubernatorial hopeful, was district attorney.

Hanley, however, may be blocked by Claude Wickard, of Camden, former secretary of agriculture, who appeared to be groomed by national chairman Paul M. Butler to stress the farm price issue in the election next year, possibly as a senatorial nominee.

Butler, at the meeting of the Indiana Democratic editorial association at French Lick last week end, announced that Wickard will head the national Democratic advisory committee on agriculture which will meet in Chicago on Sept. 19. Also attending will be former Agricultural Sec. Charles Brannan.

In fact, there have been reports of a combination of Hanley for senator, Welsh for governor and John Hurt, Martinsville and Indianapolis attorney and former Democratic state committee secretary, for state chairman. In the event that Charles E. Skillen resigns or is ousted as state chairman.

Hurt said he had no comment on the report. The Skillen issue, which arose after it was disclosed he had obtained a substantial sum of money as counselor for a beer wholesaler, may not be settled until after the municipal elections this fall, some observers said.

The municipal elections likewise may determine the fate of two others mentioned for governor. They are Mayor Ralph Tucker, of Terre Haute, and Charles Boswell, campaign manager of Philip Birt, former mayor and now the party's candidate for Indianapolis mayor.

Tucker is seeking to serve three consecutive terms as Terre Haute mayor. He was defeated in a bid for the nomination for secretary of state last year.

Begin Rebuilding Plans At Whiting

Normal Operations Within Two Weeks

WHITING, Ind. (INS) — Standard Oil Co. hopes to resume normal operations within two weeks at its Whiting, Ind., refinery which was the scene of a multimillion dollar fire.

Frank O. Prior, Standard Oil president, said today that only two small fires continued to burn inside the refinery itself.

In a televised report, Prior said Monday night that rebuilding operations already have begun.

He pledged continuation of the safety precautions which have given the plant a notable safety record.

Prior also said that compensation for damages to the families of the two dead and 55 injured are proceeding rapidly. He added that the company also is prepared to repair the damage caused by the explosion in the community of Whiting.

A. F. Endres, plant manager, said that 7,000 of the 8,000 normal work force was back on the job cleaning up debris.

All but 125 families forced to evacuate from their homes when a giant 36 story hydroformer exploded Saturday and caused the giant fire, have moved back to their Whiting homes.

The AFL union was reported today to have withdrawn its deposits of more than a million dollars from a Philadelphia bank because a bank director heads a firm where the union has been fighting to organize employees.

The accounts, totaling some $1,500,000, reportedly were taken out of the Tradesmen's Bank and Trust Co., and redeposited in other banks. A spokesman said the union refused to do any more business with Tradesmen's because it has as a director Edwin K. Daly, president of Horn & Hardart Baking Co.

For six months the AFL has been trying to organize H. & H. employees in a campaign punctuated by violence.

Purdue Degree For William W. Sadler

Lafayette, Ind. William W. Sadler, R. 1. Monroe, was one of 335 students completing requirements for a degree at Purdue University during the summer session, according to a listing of these graduates by the office of the registrar. Although this summer session officially ended Aug. 6, several students are given time extensions to complete a thesis or other requirements due to the brevity of the summer term and the official list has just been released.

Sadler is the recipient of the degree of bachelor of science in agriculture. Although appropriate diplomas are mailed to summer session graduates upon completion of their work, they are counted as members of the class of 1956. They may participate, if they desire, in the commencement exercises of June, 1956, for the public conferring of their degrees.
