Soviet Premier Nikh Bulganin continues his expressions of hope that the four great nations of the world may some way, some day, get together and really work towards peace but it will never come until he and the other leaders of Russia really show such a tendency and we hope that day comes soon. They certainly have "muffed" the opportunities so far.

Watch for tomorrow's Daily Democrat. There will be several pages of Christmas opening advertisements and we believe that every shopper who takes advantage of the many values offered by Decatur merchants during the Christmas shopping season will save many dollars. Read the ads of Decatur merchants and do your Christmas shopping where you know you will receive full value for each dollar spent.

The Buckeye boys from over at Columbus upset Michigan's football team Saturday and sent Michigan State to the Rose Bowl. It was a great season for the leading contestants of the Big-Ten and provided plenty of pep for the fans. The Wolverine fans and a few of the players showed their feelings in the latter moments of Saturday's game by hurling snow balls at the Ohio players and some of the officials. But it was a tough game to lose and a great one for Ohio to take, their first in some 15 years at Ann Arbor.

Thursday, December 1 is to be set aside as S. D. meaning an observation of Safe Driving day and we hope there isn't a single accident that day but that leaves a lot of days in which there may not be any special effort towards being careful. We would think a campaign should be made to make every day a special one to avoid accidents. It would mean much to this nation. We doubt if being careful only one day will help much unless it shows that it can be done and we follow by eventually becoming more careful each day of the year.

We have noticed with a smile that recently there have been several paid optometrist business cards appearing in the Fort Wayne newspapers. This is the group, whose leaders a few years ago, determined it was unethical to advertise, unless they could get it free, and caused all business card advertisements of their profession to be eliminated from newspapers. Maybe they as a group again are beginning to realize that it pays to advertise. Maybe now the newspapers ought to look into each eyeman's qualifications and ability before the advertisements are accepted.

The Industrial Development Clinic held recently at Columbus, O. under auspices of the Ohio State Chamber of Commerce has come up with thirteen points used for selection of sites for new industries. They are worth the considered study of all people of this community because all of us are interested in seeing Decatur continue its steady and healthy growth. Here are the important points considered by industry in choosing a location for a new manufacturing plant:

Economic proximity to natural resources; Availability of utilities including gas, water and electricity; transportation facilities; zoning, including protection of residential and industrial sites; building codes; attitude of local government toward industry; reasonable regulations pertaining to industrial waste disposal; attitude of present industries concerning new industries; labor market availability; history of labor relations; adequacy of the site proper; climatic conditions; availability of good housing, churches, schools and recreational facilities; cost of land. This just about covers the points in question when an industry seeks a new location. Now the question is, what must Decatur and her citizens do to meet these tests? It is certainly worth some deep thought if we want to grow.

Renovating a Leather Coat
When a leather coat has become faded, try applying a stain made of walnut hulls. Put the hulls into a kettle of water and boil until the water is slightly thick. Then strain it and apply with a paint brush. If necessary, apply two or three coats, after each subsequent coat is dry.
Water Stains
If marks have formed in the lavatory basin by water dripping from the faucets, try rubbing with a brush and some powdered chalk mixed with a little liquid ammonia.
Soiled Feathers
If the feathers on a hat are soiled, cover them with warm pipe clay and allow to stand for several days. Then beat out the powder.

Modern Etiquette
BY ROBERTA LEE

Q. When a house guest wishes to give his hostess a little gift of appreciation, when should he present it?
A. He may bring it along and present it soon after his arrival, at some opportunity during his visit, or send it to her soon after his return home. This, of course, does not relieve him of his obligation to write that important "bread-and-butter" letter to his hostess promptly after his visit.
Q. When a man meets a girl on the street and they stop to chat for a few minutes, which one should make the first move to walk on?
A. The girl. The man should keep chatting until she shows an inclination to leave.
Q. When should the bridegroom give his gifts to his best man and ushers?
A. These gifts are usually put at the men's places at the bachelor dinner.
