Ohio State's Win Is Termed Game Of Week

NEW YORK (INS) — Ohio State's crushing defeat of Michigan not only was the game of the week in the eyes of International News Service's grid experts but produced the player and coach of the week as well.

The INS panel of experts today singled out Ohio State's 17-to-0 ruination of Michigan's Rose Bowl dreams as more exciting and significant than even such counter-attractions last weekend as Notre Dame's come-from-behind, 17-to-14 victory over Iowa, UCLA's 17-to-7 conquest of Southern Cal, Syracuse's 20-to-13 lacing of West Virginia and the 7-to-7 tie of Illinois by winless Northwestern.

For the first time this year a player was elected a second time and the balloting was split down the line for a coach of the week.

Seven days after he was so honored for his brilliant performance against Iowa, Buckeye All-American halfback Howard (Hopalong) Cassady received the player of the week designation again.

The experts also singled out these other "Best of the Week" performances:

Coach of the week — Woody Hayes of Ohio State and Bud Wilkinson of Oklahoma.

Play of the week — Notre Dame's 17-to-14 victory over Iowa on Paul Hornung's 28-yard field goal with two minutes, 15 seconds remaining.

Here is the evidence considered by the panel of East-West Shrine game scouts Bernie Bierman, Andy Kerr and Francis J. Powers; INS columnist Bob Considine, INS sports editor John Barrington and sportscaster Harry Wismere:

GAME OF THE WEEK

It seems that everything of the world hinged on the outcome of the Michigan-Ohio State game. For Michigan it meant the Rose Bowl. For Ohio State it meant the Big Ten championship and revenge. For Michigan State it meant a chance to return to Pasadena.

The Buckeyes, paced by All-American Hopalong Cassady, held the mighty Wolverines scoreless for the first time this year while posting their first victory in 17 years at Ann Arbor. A crowd of 97,369 watched the Bucks rip the conference's second best defensive team for 337 yards and 20 first downs to 199 and five, respectively, all the while keeping the Wolverines outside the Ohio 49-yard line. The Buckeyes gave Michigan State, not Michigan, a ticket to the Rose Bowl.

PLAYER OF THE WEEK

Cassady, the remarkable halfback who wants to coach, ended his college playing career in a blaze of glory. Ohio State's greatest all-time player outgained the entire Michigan team with 146 yards in 28 twisting, churning rushes.

Hoppy also intercepted a Wolverine.

Michigan Players Apologize For Act

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (INS) — Letters of apology were enroute today from Michigan athletic director Fritz Crisler to Ohio State regarding the ejection of two players from Saturday's football game.

They were sent to Howard L. Bevis, president of Ohio State university, and Dick Larkins, Buckeye athletic director, regarding the wild finish of the game which OSU won, 17 to 0.

Coach Bennie Oosterbaan said the two Michigan players expelled from the game had apologized to their teammates and coaches but stressed that tackle Al Sigman and end Ron Kramer were ejected for arguing with officials, not for fighting.

Crisler's letter said:

"Michigan regrets very deeply the events which occurred in the final minutes of the game. The players ejected—not for any physical act—but for arguing with officials, have apologized."

In Detroit, referee Tony Skover, who officiated the game, said he and his colleagues did everything allowed by the rules to keep order, including assessing penalties and finally ejecting the two Wolverine players.

Dodgers Discontinue Mobile Agreement

NEW YORK (INS) — The Brooklyn Dodgers are discontinuing their working agreement with Mobile of the Southern Association.

Vice president Fresco Thompson announced Monday night the termination was by mutual consent because "the collapse of many lower classification leagues has made it increasingly difficult to supply players for two class AA AA affiliates."

The Dodgers own the Fort Worth club in the class AA Texas league outright.

Altogether, the slash will reduce U. S. forces in Japan by 4,100 men. On Nov. 3, the army announced a reduction in its combat forces from 20 to 19 divisions. Both reductions were described as necessary in the army's program to reduce total strength from 1,132,000 to 1,025,000 men by next June 30.

Pittsburgh Is Named To Play In Sugar Bowl

NEW ORLEANS (INS) — The University of Pittsburgh was named today the team which will play a Southeastern Conference team in the annual Sugar Bowl Classic Jan. 2.

Officials will fly to New Orleans today to sign contracts for the game.

The Southeastern team will be named after Saturday's games are played. It will be from among these four: Georgia Tech, Mississippi, Auburn and Vanderbilt.

The New Orleans mid-winter sports association began considering Pitt after it beat West Virginia.

Pitt coach John Michelosen said his team was "very happy to be selected for the Sugar Bowl."

Digby, managing director of the mid-winter sports association, said two others teams—Army and Navy—had been seriously considered for the Sugar Bowl.

He said the association was unable "to get a commitment" from Navy and was afraid to wait longer to choose a team to play in the Bowl.

There has been speculation that Navy will go to the Cotton Bowl if it receives a bid.

About Army, Digby said:

"Army has lost several games this year and we didn't think it would accept, so we didn't invite them."

Speculation has been rampant in New Orleans that Pitt would be chosen but some observers felt another team would be selected because Pitt has a negro player. A negro player has never participated in the Sugar Bowl before.

Digby said this fact never entered into consideration.

The player, fullback Bob Grier, was a standout in the game last week against Penn State, which Pitt won 20-0. He was injured earlier in the season, however, and was unable to play in the game with West Virginia.

Coach Michaelson said Grier is aware of the fact that he must obtain separate quarters from his teammates, but that he has no objection. Hotels in New Orleans are segregated.

The last time Pitt was selected for a bowl game was in 1937, when it opposed Washington State in the Rose Bowl classic.

Purdue Names Krupa As Most Valuable

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (INS) — Tackle Joe Krupa was chosen Tuesday night as the most valuable player on the Purdue football team for the season just completed.

The rugged lineman also was elected honorary co-captain for the year along with fullback Bill Murakowski, who had to sit out the Indiana University game.

Halfback Jim Whitmer and center Don Fife were chosen, also by teammates, as the best back and lineman in the IU game.
