Farm Land Value In U.S. At Record High

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The spread between sales prices for good and poor quality farm land widened in the year ending July 1 as average farm real estate values rose again to a new record high, the Agriculture Department reported today.

Total value of U.S. farm land and buildings rose to $118,700,000,000 July 1, capping an advance of 2 per cent in the previous four months and 5 per cent over July 1, 1957.

The department said good crops and income prospects and a steady demand for farm land were among factors responsible for the continued rise in land prices. The increase over one year earlier was a little smaller than for most previous years.

Officials said the price of good quality land advanced in more areas than the price of poor quality land. The spread between prices of good and poor land increased to about 50 per cent, the department said.

The real estate report said about 60 per cent of all farm sales during the year ended July 1 were made to active farmers, mostly to operators increasing the size of their enterprises.

In other highlights of the report the department said: —About one-third of the active farmers who bought farms were tenants becoming owners. Tenant purchases declined in relative importance in the Southeast but increased sharply in the Delta, northern Plains and Pacific areas.

—Sharpest farm real estate price increases in the past year came in the southeastern and northern Plains states. The smallest increases came in the corn belt and lake states. Florida topped the nation with a 15 per cent increase while Pennsylvania and Iowa trailed with 3 per cent increases.

—Limited access super-highways will add little if any value to most farm land they cross, a departure from past experience with standard highways which usually increased farm values. A special department report said the biggest farm gainers from the new super-highways will be owners located near interchanges and access roads.

The report also noted that, the new interstate highway system will greatly increase the amount of land available for urban and industrial expansion by bringing fast transportation to remote farm areas.

Ben Gerke Cow Is High In September

Monthly Report Of Dairy Association

BEN GERKE COW IS

According to the dairy herd improvement association report for the month of September, a cow owned by Ben Gerke produced 90.8 pounds of butterfat, the county's highest individual animal production for the past month.

Heading the list for the ten highest herds in the county was the Rolandes Liechty herd, with an average production of 46.8 pounds of butterfat. Both Gerke and Liechty led the county in the association last month, but both the individual and herd production were lower than during the month of August.

September's high production for individual animals came from these herds (names of the owners or farms, and production in pounds of butterfat follow): Lehman Yager, 88.0; Harry Williamson, 86.2; Ben Gerke, 85.8; Martin Habegger, 85.0; Martin Habegger, 84.0; Ben and Noah Mazelin, 84.0; Eugene Coffee, 82.5; Ben Gerke, 82.4; and Dale Moses and sons, 79.4.

Herds from the second to the tenth high, and their production in average pounds of butterfat follow: Sal Mosser, 46.7; Martin Habegger, 44.3; Franklin Steury, 44.3; Kenneth Beer and sons, 42.1; Mary Briggs, 41.6; Ben and Noah Mazelin, 41.1; Chris Stahly, 38.5; Roy and Edison Lehman, 37.3; and Becher and Yager, 36.6.
