

MCDOUGALD STARTS A ROUT—Gil McDougald, Yankee second baseman, comes across the plate in the third inning to a welcome by shortstop Tony Kubek '10 and the bat-boy after breaking up a pitching duel between Bob Turley and Lew Burdette with a home run in the fifth World Series game. Gil later dropped a ground-rule double into the Braves' bull-pen in the 6-run sixth, scoring Yogi Berra and Elston Howard ahead of him. The series now moves to Milwaukee.

Detroit Lions Trade Layne To Pittsburgh

DETROIT (UPI) — A coach's "dream" turned into a Texas-sized nightmare for George Wilson so he traded veteran quarterback Bobby Layne to the Pittsburgh Steelers for Earl Morrall and a high draft choice for both 1959 and 1960.

When Wilson took over as head coach of the Detroit Lions last year, he was presented with not one, but two brilliant quarterbacks—Layne of Texas and Tobin Rote of Rice.

The one - two combination gave the Lions the strongest quarterbacking in professional football. Rote's presence paid off handsomely when Layne broke his ankle in the second last game of the regular season.

Rote guided the Lions to three straight victories, including play-off and title wins.

Luster Wears Thin

But the luster of having two "No. 1" men was wearing thin before Layne was hurt. Neither liked the idea of playing second fiddle. Both Layne and Rote had become accustomed to being the "big" men on their teams.

Layne had piloted Detroit to a pair of NFL titles and three divisional crowns before Rote came on the scene. Rote didn't have any title clubs at Green Bay.

During the 1957 season, Rote went to Lion President Edwin J. Anderson with the complaint he wasn't playing enough.

Anderson admitted there was friction between the two Texans but no one knew how much.

"Both thought they should start every game," Anderson said. It was Wilson's practice to alternate the starting assignments, depending on who looked best in practice the week before a game.

Chooses Younger Rote "They got along fine, openly," Anderson said. "But they must have been some resentment. No one knows how wide the breach was because they never discussed it."

Wilson said he picked Rote to start because he's two years younger than Layne who will be 33 in December. He said it was a "hard decision because I'm the one who got Bo McMillan to get Bobby and he's always been a close friend."

"I think Bobby will do a great job at Pittsburgh, he's one of the greatest," Wilson said. Layne is in his 11th season in the NFL.

The trade was met with mixed emotion for both Wilson and Anderson. It was on Layne's shoulders the Lions rose to the top. "It was a decision that just had to be made though," Wilson said.

Heads, hearts and hands well directed could settle the differences of the world much better than arms.

Reserve District No. 7 State No. 731

REPORT OF CONDITION OF The First State Bank of Decatur

of Decatur, Adams County, Indiana, a member of the Federal Reserve System, at the close of business on September 24, 1958, published in accordance with a call made by the Federal Reserve bank of this district pursuant to the provisions of the Federal Reserve Act.

ASSETS

| | |
|---|------------------------|
| Cash, balances with other banks, including reserve balance, and cash items in process of collection | $2,466,657.95 |
| United States Government obligations, direct and guaranteed | 7,241,127.63 |
| Obligations of States and political subdivisions | 925,746.13 |
| Other bonds, notes, and debentures | 65,000.00 |
| Corporate stocks (including $15,000.00 stock of Federal Reserve bank) | 15,000.00 |
| Loans and discounts (including $45.96 overdrafts) | 4,899,968.17 |
| Bank premises owned $5,100.00 | |
| Furniture and fixtures $43,039.01 | |
| Other assets | 8,906.74 |
| TOTAL ASSETS | $15,670,545.63 |

LIABILITIES

| | |
|---|------------------------|
| Demand deposits of individuals, partnerships, and corporations | $5,332,896.66 |
| Time deposits of individuals, partnerships, and corporations | 7,718,612.19 |
| Deposits of United States Government (including postal savings) | 80,007.88 |
| Deposits of States and political subdivisions | 1,184,389.18 |
| Deposits of banks | 115,849.73 |
| Other deposits (certified and officers' checks, etc.) | 51,089.83 |
| TOTAL DEPOSITS | $14,482,845.47 |
| Other liabilities | 71,784.14 |

TOTAL LIABILITIES $14,554,629.61

CAPITAL ACCOUNTS

| | |
|-------------------|------------|
| Capital | 400,000.00 |
| Surplus | 450,000.00 |
| Undivided profits | 265,916.02 |

Reserves (and retirement account for preferred capital) none

TOTAL CAPITAL ACCOUNTS 1,115,916.02

TOTAL LIABILITIES AND CAPITAL ACCOUNTS $15,670,545.63

*This bank's capital consists of:

First preferred stock with total par value of $ none, total retable value of $ none.

Second preferred stock with total par value of $ none, total retable value of $ none.

Capital notes and debentures $150,000.00

Common stock with total par value of $250,000.00

MEMORANDA

Assets pledged or assigned to secure liabilities and for other purposes $493,000.00

(a) Loans as shown above are after deduction of reserves of 153,323.96

(b) Securities as shown above are after deduction of reserves of none

I. H. H. Krueckeberg, Cashier of the above-named bank, hereby certify that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief.

H. H. KRUECKEBERG,
Correct—Attest: T. F. Graliker,
E. W. Busche,
Earl C. Fuhrman,
Directors.

SPORTS

Yanks Finally Catch Up To Lew Burdette

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — To gamble or not to gamble—that's the question that confronts rival managers Fred Haney and Casey Stengel today when they name their starting pitchers for the sixth game of the World Series. Haney, his world champion Milwaukee Braves still on top, three games to two, had a well-rested Bob Rush to throw at the New York Yankees but apparently was undecided whether to go with Bob Buhl, an 18-game winner in 1957 who was out with an arm injury most of this year.

And Stengel, still insisting his Yankees could come on to win the series, had an equally-well-rested Don Larsen, the perfect game pitcher, ready but wondered whether he could afford to gamble with relief ace Ryne Duren or right-hander Art Ditmar.

Announces Pitchers Today

Haney, and probably Stengel, too, probably will announce the big decisions this afternoon. Haney said he would reveal his sixth game choice after a Braves workout. Stengel also indicated he'd make up his mind after a night's sleep.

Rush, a 10-game winner during the National League season, lost the 4-0 third - game decision to Larsen but allowed only two runs in the six innings he worked. Larsen retired after seven shutout innings and Duren completed the game.

Duren started only one game for the Yankees this year but Stengel pointed out: "I can just ask him to throw as hard as he can as long as he can and follow him with anybody I need. I've got a lot of pitchers and they've got all winter to rest so nobody's going to be spared."

It seemed certain, however, that Haney would hold out two-time winner Warren Spahn for the seventh game — if one is necessary.

Stengel Breathes Defiance Stengel breathed defiance despite the still - desperate position of the Yankees because he had finally seen the American League's chicanery at the greatest nemesis in their history. Lew Burdette, in the 7-0 fifth game.

"I'm being said all along we're not out of this thing," he said. "And I still say we'll win it."

Burdette, four times a winner over the Yankees, finally got his come - uppance Monday when he was kayoed in a six-run sixth-inning rally. He had been hit sharply during the early innings but had allowed only one run—Gil McDougald's third - inning homer — until the roof fell in on him in the big sixth.

A single by Hank Bauer started the rally and Mickey Mantle followed with a single after Jerry Lumpe tried unsuccessfully to bunt on the third strike. Yogi Berra's double, a walk and Bill Skowron's single routed Burdette and brought on Juan Pizarro, who was tagged for a two-run double by McDougald and a two-run single by Bob Turley before he retired the side.

It was the angular Scotsman who, during the past eight years, has made it possible for Casey Stengel to be a platooning genius. It was he, too, who sparked the club early the past season as it piled up a walkaway lead in the American League pennant race.

And it was McDougald, playing despite a painful groin rash, who showed the Yankees Monday how to get rid of their long-time nemesis, Lew Burdette.

McDougald Homers

Burdette had stood them on their ears four times, running three times as the Yankees lost the 1957 series to these same Braves and once again in the second game of the classic this time around. And for the first two innings Monday he had them eating out of his hand again.

Until McDougald stepped up to the plate to lead off the third inning.

Then the 30-year-old father of four whipped his bat into one of Burdette's fast ones and the ball arched high through the sunlight and struck the screen of the left field foul pole for a home run and a 1-0 Yankee lead.

It was all that pitcher Bob Turley was going to need, as it finally turned out, even though the Yankees ran up six more in the sixth with a McDougald double sending home two more runs.

"I knew I hit it solidly," the freckle-faced infielder said later. "The only question in my mind was whether it was going to curve foul."

Ends Batting Slump

Thus did McDougald, the "glue man" of the Yankee infield, come out of a harrowing slump in which he had labored through the last two months of the season.

"I was going great guns early in the year," he recalled. "I was hitting about .375 and then the bottom fell out."

It did. He wound up batting a feeble .250 for his worst season in Yankee flannels. But afieid he still was the take charge guy, able to second. Many thinks he is the best player defensively at every one of those positions in the entire league.

Pesky Is Appointed Knoxville Manager

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Johnny Pesky, a Boston Red Sox infielder for 10 years, has been named manager of the Knoxville Smokies of the Class A South Atlantic League and Bob Bonifay, general manager of Augusta last season, has been named to a similar post with Knoxville. The club recently signed a working agreement with the Detroit Tigers.

Meet Thursday To Form Church League

A meeting will be held at the Monroe Methodist church Thursday at 7:30 p.m. to organize the Adams county church basketball league and to plan schedule of play for the season. Letters with information have been sent to ministers of the churches and to representative of teams which played last year. If there are any who did not receive this information and would like to have a team entered, they should be present at the meeting Thursday with their entry fee ready for payment.

Charles Workinger, president of the league last year, called a meeting a few weeks ago to make tentative plans for the schedule this year. It has been indicated that play will begin soon after the first of November, with most games scheduled on Thursday nights. It is planned that a tourney will be held in the spring following the regular season play. A total of 12 teams from the county were entered from churches throughout the county last year and it is anticipated that there will be a few interested this year who did not enter last year.

Deadline for entry this year will be October 9 at 7:30 p.m. when the meeting is held at the Monroe Methodist Church. A team representative must be present and the entry fee of $50 must be in the hands of the secretary of the league, the Rev. John D. Mishler. Ministers of churches and other interested persons are welcome to attend the meeting.

Announces Pitchers Today

Haney, and probably Stengel, too, probably will announce the big decisions this afternoon. Haney said he would reveal his sixth game choice after a Braves workout. Stengel also indicated he'd make up his mind after a night's sleep.

Rush, a 10-game winner during the National League season, lost the 4-0 third - game decision to Larsen but allowed only two runs in the six innings he worked. Larsen retired after seven shutout innings and Duren completed the game.

Duren started only one game for the Yankees this year but Stengel pointed out: "I can just ask him to throw as hard as he can as long as he can and follow him with anybody I need. I've got a lot of pitchers and they've got all winter to rest so nobody's going to be spared."

It seemed certain, however, that Haney would hold out two-time winner Warren Spahn for the seventh game — if one is necessary.

Stengel Breathes Defiance Stengel breathed defiance despite the still - desperate position of the Yankees because he had finally seen the American League's chicanery at the greatest nemesis in their history. Lew Burdette, in the 7-0 fifth game.

"I'm being said all along we're not out of this thing," he said. "And I still say we'll win it."

Burdette, four times a winner over the Yankees, finally got his come - uppance Monday when he was kayoed in a six-run sixth-inning rally. He had been hit sharply during the early innings but had allowed only one run—Gil McDougald's third - inning homer — until the roof fell in on him in the big sixth.

A single by Hank Bauer started the rally and Mickey Mantle followed with a single after Jerry Lumpe tried unsuccessfully to bunt on the third strike. Yogi Berra's double, a walk and Bill Skowron's single routed Burdette and brought on Juan Pizarro, who was tagged for a two-run double by McDougald and a two-run single by Bob Turley before he retired the side.

It was the angular Scotsman who, during the past eight years, has made it possible for Casey Stengel to be a platooning genius. It was he, too, who sparked the club early the past season as it piled up a walkaway lead in the American League pennant race.

And it was McDougald, playing despite a painful groin rash, who showed the Yankees Monday how to get rid of their long-time nemesis, Lew Burdette.

McDougald Homers

Burdette had stood them on their ears four times, running three times as the Yankees lost the 1957 series to these same Braves and once again in the second game of the classic this time around. And for the first two innings Monday he had them eating out of his hand again.

Until McDougald stepped up to the plate to lead off the third inning.

Then that 30-year-old father of four whipped his bat into one of Burdette's fast ones and the ball arched high through the sunlight and struck the screen of the left field foul pole for a home run and a 1-0 Yankee lead.

It was all that pitcher Bob Turley was going to need, as it finally turned out, even though the Yankees ran up six more in the sixth with a McDougald double sending home two more runs.

"I knew I hit it solidly," the freck