Top Ranking Teams Slowed By Injuries

By TIM MORIARTY
United Press International
Top ranked Army and second-ranked Ohio State both are "hurting" for their important battles with sectional rivals Saturday.

The unbeaten Cadets were most concerned over the condition of halfback Pete Dawkins when they took off today for their date with the University of Pittsburgh, which will be televised throughout the East. Dawkins sustained a pulled thigh muscle in last Saturday's game against Virginia and hasn't even been near the practice field all week.

With fullback Harry Walters lamed up with a sprained ankle and Dawkins regarded as a doubtful starter, Coach Earl Blaik indicated the Cadets will depend on their new-found air power against Pitt.

"This is a more crucial game for us than the one with Notre Dame," Blaik declared. "And the only possible way we can win it, considering our injuries, is by throwing the ball."

Four Walking Wounded
Ohio State, meanwhile, will have four "walking wounded" in its lineup against Wisconsin. Halfback Don Clark has a sore shoulder, while fullback Bob White, center Dan Frank and tackle Jim Tyrer have lingering leg injuries.

However, the Buckeyes, like Army, are one touchdown favorites to maintain their perfect record.

South Carolina knocked off previously unbeaten Clemson, 26-6, in their "Big Thursday" brawl Thursday, leaving only eight major colleges on the perfect record list. In addition to Army and Ohio State, they are Texas, Northwestern, Louisiana State, Mississippi, Colorado and Rutgers.

Texas, ranked fourth nationally, meets Rice in a "pick 'em" game that should have a major bearing on the Southwest Conference race. The Owls suffered their only conference defeat at the hands of Texas last year and would like to return the compliment Saturday.

Iowa Over Wildcats
Sixth-ranked Iowa is a 10-point pick to hand Northwestern its first defeat, but all the other perfect record teams are heavy favorites. LSU is 12 over Florida, Ole Miss is 14 over Arkansas, while the odds makers declined to quote prices on Colorado's meeting with Nebraska and Rutgers clash with Lehigh.

Once-beaten Notre Dame, with fullback Nick Pietrosante and halfback Norm Odyniec listed as doubtful starters, was a slim two-point choice over Purdue in the Midwest regional TV game.

Auburn, the nation's No. 3 team, is expected to wallop Maryland by at least two touchdowns while eighth-ranked Oklahoma is a four-touchdown choice over Kansas State.

Here is the lineup of other leading Saturday games:

East: Princeton at Cornell; Dartmouth at Harvard; Navy at Penn; Columbia at Buffalo; Rhode Island at Brown; Colgate at Yale; Syracuse at Penn State; Boston U. at Holy Cross; Connecticut at Delaware.

Midwest: Michigan State at Illinois; Minnesota at Michigan; Bradley at Drake; Miami (Ohio) at Indiana; Iowa State at Missouri.

Southwest: Tulsa at North Texas State; Texas A & M at Baylor; Wichita at Hardin-Simmons.

Far West: Oregon State vs. Washington at Portland, Ore.; Stanford at UCLA; Southern California vs. Washington State at Spokane, Wash.; Idaho at Arizona; Utah at Air Force Academy; New Mexico at Wyoming.

Tebbetts Slated As President Of Braves

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — George (Birdie) Tebbetts, who claims he's no longer "funny and facetious," is likely to be the next president of the Milwaukee Braves "within about two years."

The current president, Joseph Cairnes, made that prediction Thursday when he along with other members of the Braves' official family introduced Tebbetts to newsmen at a luncheon.

Cairnes said Tebbetts, who now is executive vice president, will be running the club when Cairnes is in Florida heading a multi-million dollar real estate project backed by "Braves' owner Lou Perini."

"I may be gone 80 or 90 per cent of the time. When I'm gone, Birdie is in charge. And eventually, possibly two years, he may be the president of the ball club," Cairnes said, "because my duties will require that I be in Florida fulltime."

Cairnes, General Manager John Quinn and Tebbetts went to great lengths to disprove any reports of discontent in the Braves' front office because of Tebbetts' giant stride from manager of the Cincinnati Redlegs to "their apparent" to the presidency of the Braves.

Quinn said he was content in his job and didn't feel bypassed by Tebbetts' hiring. "I don't care about titles, I'm interested in winning," said the man credited with putting together the squad that has won two straight National League pennants and a World Series.

"We're happy to have Birdie Tebbetts with us. He's a very capable fellow," said Quinn.

Cairnes said Tebbetts' 25 years as a manager and player will be a great asset to Quinn. He said the two men will work as a team.

Tebbetts said he will work side-by-side with Quinn and he once again emphasized that at the present time he has no desire to ever again manage a baseball team.

Gene Conley Signs To Play Basketball

BOSTON (UPI) — Milwaukee Braves pitcher Gene Conley, who ignored the warnings of the baseball club against signing a basketball contract with the Boston Celtics, turned all his attention today to his new job.

The 6-foot, 8-inch hurler had only a deaf ear for the rumblings in Milwaukee where Braves General Manager John Quinn commented that by playing basketball Conley would violate his baseball contract.

"We have not given him permission to play basketball," Quinn said Thursday after he was informed that Conley had signed with the Celtics. He said any punitive action would be discussed "later."

Conley, meanwhile, was jubilant over his new post. "I felt all along I could make this team," he said, "and what a club it is. It's a pleasure to be on the same floor with this team."

He turned aside all questions on the Braves objections by saying, "I haven't heard anything from Milwaukee and the least said about that the better. I don't want to make an issue of it."

Asked if he intended to talk with Quinn he said, "I don't know when I'll see him."

Conley was slated for a final tuneup with the rest of the Boston club today before leaving for New York where the Celts open their season against the Knickerbockers in Madison Square Garden Saturday night.

He said he "intended" to be in uniform and "ready to play" in the game.

Celtics coach Red Auerbach said Thursday after Conley had signed his contract that he intended to use Conley as a "starter." Earlier, in an evaluation of his team, he said that Gene "look fine" thus far but lacks experience while away from the game for four years.

Conley played 39 games with the Celtics in the 1952-53 season, scoring 88 points and making 171 rebounds. He is especially valuable in the latter department.

During the Celtics exhibition tour this year, Conley played in six games and averaged 10 points in each.

Fair, Cool Weather Forecast In State

Little Temperature Change Indicated

United Press International
A weekend of sunny skies and mild temperatures were promised Hoosiers today, giving them perhaps the last chance to take advantage of Indiana's fall foliage show.

The weatherman said fair and cooler conditions tonight will be followed by fair and a little warmer Saturday, and generally very light showers were recorded in some areas this morning. But the showery pattern soon was dissipated.

The mercury climbed to highs ranging from 65 at Fort Wayne to 71 at Evansville Thursday and dropped to lows ranging from 42 at Fort Wayne and Indianapolis to 47 at Evansville during the night. Highs today will range from the 50s to the 60s, lows tonight from 33 to 45, and highs Saturday in the 60s.

The five-day outlook indicated temperatures will average about 4 degrees above normal in the north and near normal in the south. Normal highs are 57 to 67, and normal lows are 38 to 45.

"A little warmer Saturday and Sunday with little temperature change indicated Monday through Wednesday," the outlook said. "Precipitation will average near two-tenths of an inch in showers about Monday or Tuesday."

Ask Stocks Savings Plan Be Prevented

Request Is Made By Labor Union Leader

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A labor union leader has asked the Securities & Exchange Commission (SEC) to prevent a stock savings plan proposed by Westinghouse Corp. from going into effect.

The request was made by James B. Carey, president of the International Union of Electrical Workers. He said Thursday the description of the Westinghouse plan filed with the SEC was misleading.

Carey said the workers who were asked to participate in the plan would lose benefits worth 10 cents an hour while the plan would cost the company less than 10 cents an hour per worker.

He said the company did not reveal it could profit by purchasing stock with employees' money.

Indiana Undergoes Another Time Shift

Two Border Areas To Standard Time

United Press International
Indiana's ragged time pattern will undergo another change Sunday when two border areas switch from "fast" to "slow" time.

A populous area around and near Lake Michigan will follow the lead of Chicago in setting back clocks and watches an hour.

Another area around Louisville will do the same thing when that Kentucky City moves off the daylight saving time shift.

The latest time-tinkering, coming a month after most of the rest of Hoosierland turned back its clocks in compliance with a law establishing "slow" time as the legal time for the state after the last Sunday in September, will leave only a handful of cities and towns on "fast" time.

Northeastern Indiana, following Fort Wayne's example, and Indianapolis, will remain on "fast" time all winter.

Shelbyville, one of the Indianapolis "satellite" cities which defied the capital city's lead and remained on "slow" time, had no official plans to change its mind despite a poll of workers in four big factories this week which showed more than 73 per cent favored "fast" time to conform with Indianapolis.

Poses Question On Money For Schools

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI) — The Arkansas attorney general expected today to receive a letter from the state education commissioner posing questions about the integration dispute.

One was whether the commissioner would be in federal contempt if he withholds state money from the four high schools closed by Gov. Orval E. Faubus to prevent integration.

Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett said he had "heard" such a letter was en route from Education Commissioner Arch Ford.

"But I'm not commenting until I see it," Bennett said.

One of the anti-integration laws passed by the Legislature in August states that any school closed by threat of integration will not get any state money.

Meanwhile, about 240 more students were technically back in school after signing up for sophomore classes at the Little Rock Private School Corporation's high school. The final day of registration at a Baptist private school brought the school's total student body to "over 500."

Classes for the sophomores and more teachers are found and more juniors won't start until about 30 buildings are acquired.
