

Warns Public Apathy Polio's Best Friend

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) An official of the Indiana State Board of Health warned today that "polio is not licked and unless the proper action is taken, it never will be."

Dr. A. L. Marshall Jr., director of the Division of Communicable Disease Control, said public apathy is polio's best friend.

Writing in the current issue of the Board of Health's monthly bulletin, Marshall said the old adage of "out of sight-out of mind" is particularly applicable to polio.

During peak years of polio, before the discovery of the Salk vaccine, "there was a cry and prayer for a vaccine to protect us from the killing and crippling disease," Marshall said.

"Today vaccine is plentiful, manufacturers have slowed their production or are selling their vaccine to foreign buyers because the folks at home are not using it."

At Least 10 Killed In Indiana Traffic

United Press International Indiana went through the first 18 hours of the weekend without a single traffic fatality, but a rash of accidents late Saturday and Sunday sent the death toll soaring to at least 10.

Marshall said physicians long ago realized that polio "is as common a disease as measles, mumps or chickenpox."

"Everyone during his lifetime was exposed to polio and was infected," he said. "Those having the most severe cases were the unfortunate who were paralyzed or died. The milder cases have been classified as non-paralytic cases because patients either experienced no paralysis or made complete recovery."

Marshall said the limited use of the Salk vaccine demonstrates that it is better than 85 per cent effective.

He warned that the disease is more hazardous during adult life than it is during childhood.

"As a result in the coming years we can expect to see more deaths and crippling of adults by this disease," Marshall said.

Marshall said most people would hesitate to drive their cars without insurance protection, yet many are facing the polio season without being immunized.

"Polio is not licked nor will it ever be until more people take the vaccine—and if more people do not take the vaccine we can be sure that we will see 'polio in the papers' as a continued epidemic threat," Marshall predicted.

Many State Budgets

At All-Time Highs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — State legislatures reached into taxpayers' wallets for hundreds of millions of dollars this year to keep state bank accounts in the black and finance record budgets.

Lawmakers in almost all of the 46 states with legislatures meeting in 1959 have approved or still must approve budgets at an all-time high. In some cases, they found that the tax take from economic growth or the bounce-back from the 1958 recession would cover the increased drain on the treasury.

In an order delaying new state construction in Illinois, Stratton had Michigan in mind when he and California Gov. Edmund C. Brown on the Democratic side, they included Republican Govs. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and William G. Stratton of Illinois and Democratic Gov. Michael D. Daley of Ohio.

A Democratic exception was Gov. George Docking of Kansas who recommended a small reduction from last year's budget and cutting the sales tax from 2½ to 2 per cent. The GOP Legislature refused to make the tax reduction and made some increases in the Docking budget but left it still $2,500,000 below the total for last year.

rolled backwards over Phillips.

Other weekend fatalities included an Indianapolis bus driver, a Decatur teenager, and an Indianapolis truck driver.

Delasko Reeves, 41, Indianapolis, was killed when his car hit a tree along a Lebanon street.

A motorcycle accident killed David Myers, 17, Decatur. Myers' cycle went out of control on a curve south of Decatur and hit a tree.

Freddy L. Dean, 30, Indianapolis, was killed and his wife injured seriously when their truck skidded and overturned on U.S. 52 in Clinton County south of Lebanon.

But in many other states, the legislatures glumly agreed that they had to raise taxes. Some tried new tax gimmicks but most of them simply raised income taxes, sales taxes or excises on liquor, beer and tobacco.

New York, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina and Utah joined the federal government and about a dozen other states which impose withholding taxes on paychecks to help insure collection of income taxes. Idaho levied a $10 head tax on each income tax return filed.

Four Tax Lodging Colorado, Ohio, Maine and Utah put a tax on hotel and motel bills. Nebraska levied a new tax on pari-mutuel betting. The heretofore dry state of Oklahoma legalized liquor, and the Legislature promptly taxed it $2.40 a gallon to yield an estimated $3,500,000 a year.

Cigarette smokers were a favored target in the search for new revenue. Of states which increased cigarette taxes this year, Iowa and Wyoming went to 4 cents a pack; Idaho, New York, Ohio, South Carolina and South Dakota to 5 cents; Minnesota 5½; Pennsylvania and Washington, 6; and Vermont 7 cents. According to the Tobacco Institute, 25 states now collect cigarette taxes of 5 cents or more per package on top of the 8-cent federal tax. California started this year with a 3-cent tax.

In Minnesota, the Legislature boldly approved a slight increase in the beer tax, which had been untouchable for 25 years. Although it balked at a withholding tax, it also raised taxes on personal and corporate income, liquor, cigarettes and other tax sources as part of a 45-million-dollar tax package.

States with six-figure tax increases packages this year included: Ohio, 275 million dollars; New York, 273 million; California, 222 million; Illinois, 135 million, and Washington, 112 million dollars.

In the crisis-ridden state of Michigan, the Legislature appears to be moving toward a sales tax increase from 3 to 4 or 5 per cent with an exemption for food if it goes to 5. Action along this line would kill off Gov. G. Mennen Williams' proposal for a new state income tax as part of his 140-million-dollar tax plan.

Gas Largely Untouched

After the recent rash of state gasoline tax increases, fewer states reached for the motorist this year. Among those which did were New York with a gas tax increase from 4 to 6 cents a gallon; Ohio from 5 to 7, and New Hampshire and West Virginia from 6 to 7.

Bob Rosburg Is Winner Of PGA Tourney

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — Bob Rosburg, the new PGA champion who finally won "the big one I've been looking for," wasn't sure today whether his triumph came on merit or "little Jerry's mistakes."

Little Jerry is the 43-year-old, five-foot, five-inch, 138-pound Jerry Barber, who blew the PGA championship Sunday when he bogeyed the last two holes.

"I gave the tournament away," Barber said. "When I put my approaches on the last two holes in sand traps, I blew it."

But he didn't take anything away from the bespectacled Rosburg, who with three children, ages eight, seven and six, wanted to win "a big one" in the hope he will get a good job with a golf club so he will be able to spend more time at home, rather than travel the tournament golfing trail.

"When you shoot a 66 like Bob did, you deserve to win," Barber said. "But when it looked like I had frosting on the cake going to the 17th hole, it turned out to be only dough."

Started 6 Strokes Behind

Rosburg, who has been making his living playing golf since he turned professional in 1953, was hit six strokes behind the leading Barber going into Sunday's final round. But that four-under-par 66 gave him a 72-hole total of 271, one stroke better than Barber and Doug Sanders. Sanders, one stroke behind Barber going into the final round, carded a two-over-par 72 for the second place tie.

Defending champion Dow Finwald was fourth at 280. He shot a fourth-round par 70. Tied for fifth at 281 were the favored Mike Souchak, whose putter failed him again, Bob Goalby and Ken Venturi. Next at 282 came Sammy Snead and Cary Middlecoff. Souchak came in with a two-over-par 74 and, with only six players left in the field, there were only three golfers in the running — Rosburg, Barber and Sanders.

Sanders, who was in the tournament on a pass, shot a final-round 72. He lost his chance when he three-putted from 22 feet on the 17th hole.

Souchak went out of the running when he bogeyed three of the first four holes.

Closed Gap Early

At the nine-hole turn, Rosburg had picked up those six strokes on Barber by going out in 30 against little Jerry's 36.

So going to the 10th Rosburg and Barber were all even. Rosburg was in the clubhouse when he heard that Barber had parred the 16th. It looked like Tiny Jerry was home free. He needed only two pars to win. But he took two bogeys instead.

Reminded that he still won $31,562.50, Barber remarked:

"Well, that will buy a lot of groceries. But to hell with those groceries — I like money, who doesn't? — but I wanted to win for more than money."

Rosburg's victory was worth $8,250, giving him a total money winning purse for the year of $26,098.

Back of Snead and Middlecoff came Gene Little at 284. Doug Ford, Porky Oliver and Billy Maxwell were at 285 with Arnold Palmer, Paul Harney and Tommy Jacobs at 286.

DOCTOR'S GIRL HELD

Carol Tregoff, 22, weeps dejectedly in jail in West Covina, Calif., handcuffed to the wall after being fingerprinted. She was arrested and accused of murder along with Dr. Bernard Finch, 41, in the gunshot killing of his wife Barbara, 33. The arrest came after her testimony at doctor's hearing showed discrepancies on what happened.

They are (from left) Paul, 9; Peter, 2; Richard, 12; George, 10. The decision is up to Judge Thomas E. Kluczynski. Parents, on jobs in Moscow, are Mr. and Mrs. Georgi Kozmin.

Columbus Man Killed In Fall From Bridge

COLUMBUS, Ind. (UPI) — Noah George, 70, Columbus, was killed early Sunday when he fell from a Pennsylvania Railroad bridge over White River here. A witness said George was crossing on an improvised walkway when a section collapsed, dropping the elderly man 25 feet to the river bank below.

Stolen Vehicle Is Found Near Geneva

Decatur city police, in conjunction with marshal Preston Pyle of Geneva, recovered the apparently stolen car of Victor Porter, of 324 Lime street, Decatur, Sunday afternoon about four hours after it was reported to the police as stolen.

Porter said the 1955 station wagon was last seen at his home at 12:30 a.m. Sunday and he missed it at 10:55 a.m. when he reported to the police. Chief James Borders sent out an alarm on the car, giving its description to all law enforcement agencies in a three-state area.

Marshal Pyle discovered the automobile, out of gas, at the south edge of Geneva at 3:15 p.m. Sunday.
