The first of a proposed long line of featured attractions for Decatur Knights of Columbus meetings will take place Monday with a 27-minute colored film, "Noble Heritage."

General program chairman Dave Terver has outlined several stellar inducements to coincide with the regular meetings for future dates. Members and guests will be invited to this film, dealing with the conception of the K. of C. and its purpose. The film will start about 9:30 p.m., following the regular meeting at the local lodge hall.

Autumn Arrives In
Unseasonable Heat

United Press International

Autumn arrives this afternoon amid unseasonably mild temperatures in Indiana, a trend expected to continue most of this week.

The new season arrives officially at 2:09 p.m. c.d.t., the U. S. Weather Bureau at Indianapolis said, replacing one of the warmest summers in recent Hoosier history.

Although Indiana got a preview of chilly fall weather last week when the mercury skidded to 27 degrees at Wabash, forecasters predicted afternoon highs today will range from the low to the high 80s, with somewhat cooler weather Thursday.

But the outlook for Friday called for "continued warm."

Temperatures around Hoosierland Tuesday ranged from 84 at Lafayette to a high of 89 at Evansville, and overnight readings were from 61 at Indianapolis to a balmy 70 at Goshen.

No additional precipitation was reported, but the weatherman said there was a chance scattered thundershowers will hit northern sections late today or early tonight and the central portion Thursday night.

The five-day outlook for the period ending next Monday called for near-normal temperatures north and slightly above normal south. Normal highs range from 69 north to 80 south, normal lows from 48 to 60.

Little precipitation was expected.
