

September Ends On Cool Note In State

United Press International
September ends today on a cool note in Indiana, with below-normal temperatures and dry weather scheduled to prevail into next weekend.

The mercury dipped into the 40s over the state's north portion this morning as a cool front moved in on the heels of several days of showery and turbulent conditions.

Partly to mostly cloudy conditions featured today's weather and were expected to continue Thursday and Friday, with no rain expected until "around Sunday."

The five-day outlook covering this final day of September and the first few days of October called for temperatures average 3 to 7 degrees below normal. That would mean highs ranging from around 65 to 75 and lows ranging from around 40 to 55.

"Continued cool with only minor day-to-day changes," the outlook said.

Precipitation, when it resumes after a few days' respite, will average one-half to one inch in showers, the outlook said.

Goshen's 44 was the lowest temperature recorded this morning. South Bend had 45, Lafayette 49, and Fort Wayne 50, and Evansville's 56 and Indianapolis' 57 were more moderate.

Before the temperature dropped to the overnight low points it reached 84 at Louisville and 81 at Cincinnati Tuesday. Elsewhere, readings were in the 60s and 70s. South Bend recorded 67, Lafayette 68, Fort Wayne 70, Indianapolis 74 and Evansville 75.

Today's highs will range from the mid 60s to near 70, tonight's lows from the mid 40s to the mid 50s, and Thursday's highs from the mid 60s to near 70.

Jury Holds Initiation Death As Accidental

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A coroner's jury has voted, 12-1, that the death of a college student who choked on raw liver during a fraternity initiation was accidental.

The panel also ruled Tuesday that the death of Richard T. Swanson, 21, was free of any criminal responsibility. The University of Southern California dental student died Sept. 17 after trying to swallow oil-smeared liver during hazing activities at the Kappa Sigma fraternity.

LITTLE TURTLE

and the battle of Fallen Timbers, which made the northwest safe for 17 years, resulted.

Wayne then proceeded to the source of the Maumee river and built Fort Wayne, named by Col. Hameranck, the first commander. He then followed the St. Mary's river through Adams county, camping near where Decatur is today located, and returned finally to Fort Greenville, where the treaty of 1785 was signed the next summer.

Last Year

Little Turtle then retired as a war chief, and in a home built by the Americans on the Eel river, and at the home of his adopted son, Col. William Wells in Fort Wayne, he spent his remaining years when not traveling.

He visited Washington the Quakers at Philadelphia and many other places. He lived like a white man divorcing his old squaw, whom he kept as a servant, and marrying a young Indian girl, and kept a large retinue of colored slaves. He contracted the gout, which finally took his life in 1812.

Holycross showed slides of the grave of Little Turtle, and explained how it was discovered.

In summing up the life of Little Turtle, Holycross called him, "a great Hoosier, a great statesman, great general, famous traveler, and fine citizen of Whitley county."

Federal Gas Tax Increase Thursday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Today is the last chance for the nation's motorists to fill up their tanks and escape an additional penny-a-gallon federal tax on gasoline starting at midnight.

Virtually all dealers were expected to pass the tax increase on to their customers.

The increase was enacted by Congress to help keep the interstate highway program on schedule. The penny increase now brings the total federal tax to 4 cents a gallon.

1,271 Rail Crossing Deaths During 1958

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Interstate Commerce Commission reported today that 1,271 persons were killed in a total of 3,099 collisions at railroad highway crossings last year.

The ICC said 3,160 persons also were injured in various types of accidents, including pedestrians as well as motor vehicles and trains, at rail-highway intersections in 1958.

"Continued cool with only minor day-to-day changes," the outlook said.

Precipitation, when it resumes after a few days' respite, will average one-half to one inch in showers, the outlook said.
