Jobs Well Done

Two Decatur men finished four-year terms on the city plan commission this week. Although they were asked to continue to serve by the new mayor, both declined, feeling that the honor of serving the city should be passed around to others.

The plan commission has a tough job. They make the blue print by which the city develops. Naturally no blue print can foretell every new development, and changes must be made from time to time. All of these are problems to the citizens of Decatur, and intelligent, dedicated men give their free time to decide the questions.

Two of these men are Deane T. Dorwin, Decatur school teacher, and Charles W. Kent, Decatur realtor. They have both done excellent jobs, and the city will miss them on the board.

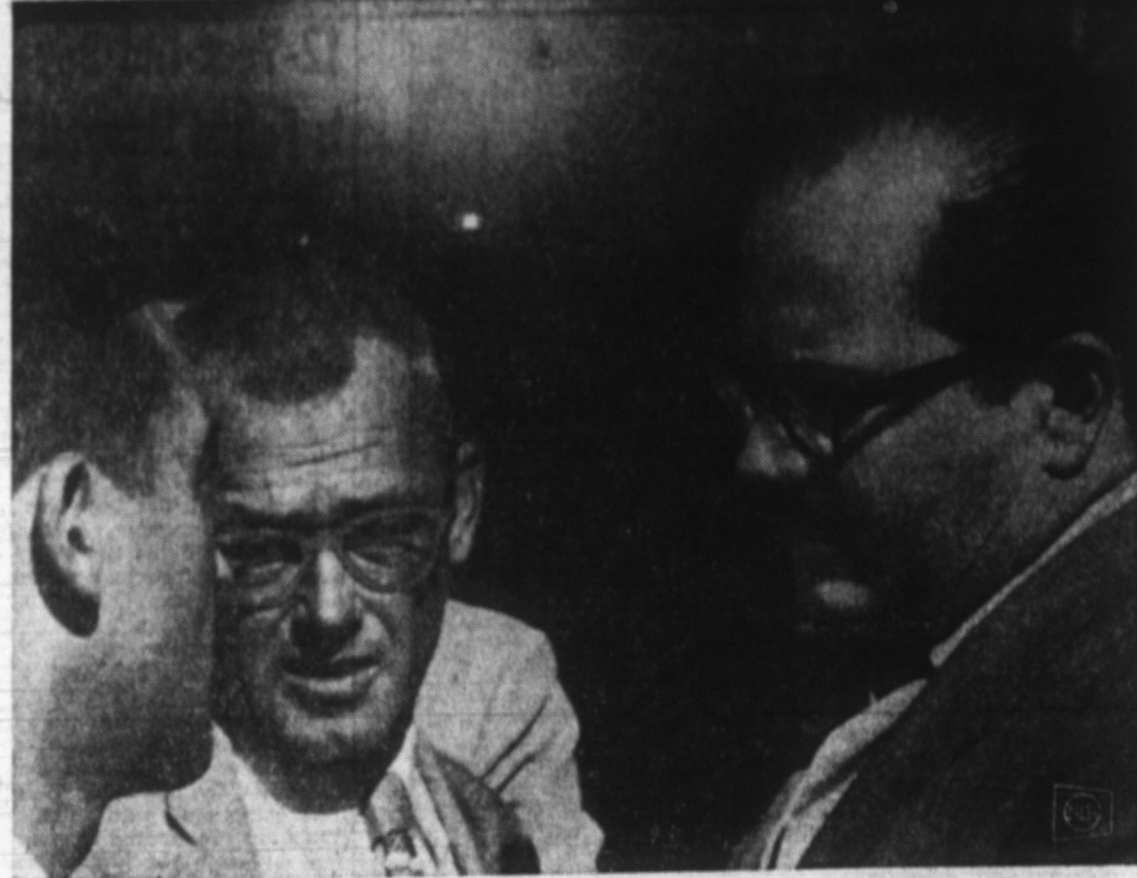

New board members are Al Beavers, former city councilman and service station owner, and Harold Teeters, former council candidate and employe at Fritz Ellsworth's Hi-Way Service. Both are deeply interested in civic affairs and can be expected to do good jobs. Beavers also will go on the board of appeals as one of the lay members representing the plan commission. He will replace Walter Gilliom, a registered engineer who has done a very fine job on that board.

Decatur has every right to be very proud of the job done in the past by the plan commission and the zoning board of appeals, and to thank heartily those who have served so well on them.

NOTES FROM AFTER THIRTY

By JACK HELLER

YOU NAME IT

One of the most useful books in Decatur is the telephone directory. While it is normally consulted for telephone numbers and addresses, on a dreary Sunday afternoon, it can reveal some interesting things about this fair city and county—if a person uses a little imagination.

One of the basic desires of all people is to have a home, and Decatur has many artisans. There are Carpenters for construction of the Walls. Painters and Plasterers can choose colors for decoration: Black, Brown, Gray, Green and White. Maybe a Stone house is your desire. A Carver can work on the Beam to help beautify our Castle. Out in front runs the Stone-street. Better add a nursery, as the Stork may bring a little Darling.

If you get hungry, step into the Kitchen. A good cup of Coffee is always satisfying (according to the commercials). Then the Cook can mix up some Mulligan stew with Rice for us to Chew on. If you aren't on a diet, there is a Peck of potatoes to Fry. For after dinner, relax with some Scherry.

A step down the Hall is the music room. Here we can find Lutes, Reeds and Bells, and some Drums for the kids. If you want someone else to do the work, enjoy the program by the Fifers and Singers.

Illumination is no problem with Watts to Light the house (whether we "sell it" or not). In fact, we can take our pick of Rays or Beams—if there's any difference.

The Hunter can harken to the Call of the Hunt and the Chase. There is a Bird to shoot, but if you like a larger target, there are Beavers, a Rabbit, Foxes and a Wolf for the big-game enthusiast.

In Case you enjoy boating, be a Seaman and spend some time before the Mast sailing the Lake. Beware of a hidden Reef. (This gets worse before it gets better.)

Driving back from the Lake we can travel in a Ford, Nash or Essex (payola). Better watch the speed limit and don't drive too Fast, or Marshal Erp will have us up before the Judge as he Guards our Justice. (If he can get his horse out of the Corral). A look at the countryside shows three very prosperous Mills keeping 53 Millers busy supply flour for 24 Bakers.

Some Folk prefer their outdoor pleasures in the form of a Hike through the Shady Woods and Gay Meadows to admire the Flora (On Blythe spirit). Or perhaps a walk down the Lane to the High Hill overlooking the Dell. Just to sit on a Stump and view the fields of Hay, or the sky without a Cloud, is restful. (This had better end soon, or I may need a Patch of Gauze from catching someone's Knuckles on a Long left Hook).

Mentally and economically, our town runs the gamut. We have the Rich through the Pordman. Some of us are Dull, but occasionally you will find a Wiseman. (The latter doesn't happen to write this column, though.)

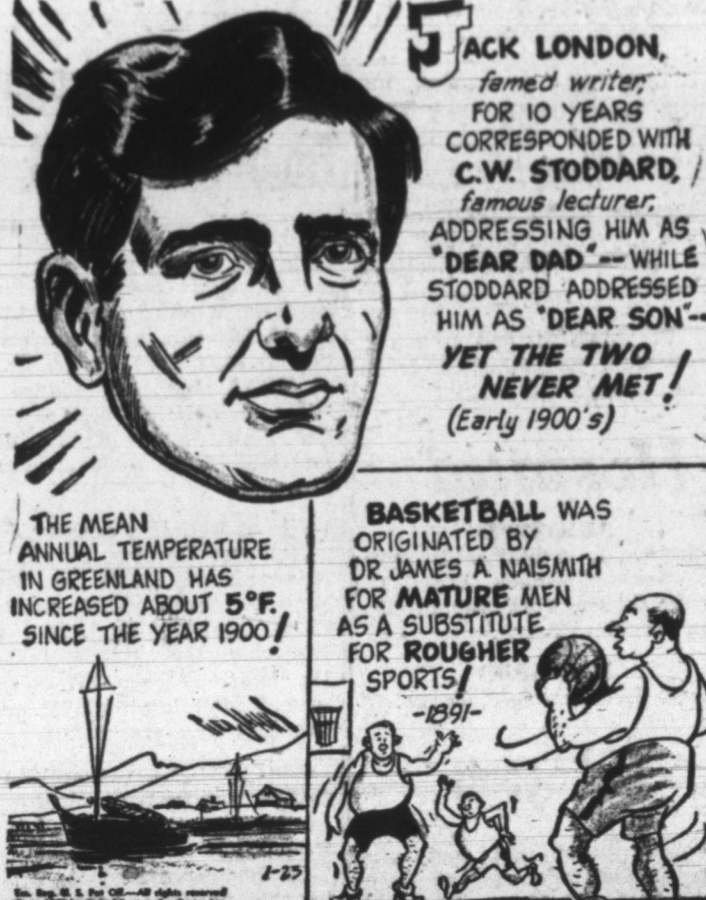

Most of the local people put their trust in the Lord, as we are well aware of Death and the Graves. But, as in any town, we have our share of Hellers. (And this one will cease striking Rash Sparks.)

Q. When the bride wears a veil over her face into the church, when is it proper for the veil to be lifted, and who should do this?
A. The maid-of-honor performs this task, and she also stoops and straightens out the bride's train—just before the bride starts down the aisle.

Q. My husband and I recently attended a party given by his niece and her husband. She introduced us to her friends as, "Mr. and Mrs. Allen Long." Shouldn't she have introduced us as her "aunt and uncle"?

A. Definitely, yes.

Q. Is it proper for a young man to accept a cigarette offered to him by a girl?
A. This is quite all right.

20 Years Ago Today

Jan. 23, 1940—Five new directors were elected at the annual meeting of the Decatur Homesteads Assn., Inc. They were E. W. Lanekau, W. L. Linn, Gordon Acheson, John Flier, and Miss Marion Neprud, representing the federal government.

Ed Hurst, Decatur fire chief, urged local citizens not to use blow torches in attempts to thaw out frozen water pipes, pointing to the danger of fire.

Anthony Kohne, 61, well known retired farmer, died at his home in this city of a cerebral hemorrhage.

A number of kindergarten pupils are absent from classes due to severe colds or chicken pox.

Earl Browder, general secretary of the Communist party in the United States, was sentenced to four years in prison for falsifying a passport application.

Churches Planning For Blanket Drive

Overseas refugees will get a helping hand from Decatur area residents Sunday in a drive to provide 575 blankets in Adams county for the state wide drive for 100,000 blankets.

More than 20 local churches of the Christian Church of the Brethren, Evangelical and Reformed, Presbyterian, Baptist, Methodist, and E. U. B. denominations are taking part in the Indiana Council of Churches program.

"Share Blankets, Save Brothers" is the theme of the drive, which is sponsored by the Indiana council of churches in cooperation with the united clothing appeal of the national council of churches.

New or clean used blankets will be collected at every local church tomorrow. The blankets then will be taken to regional centers for pickup and subsequent shipment overseas. Donors are asked to contribute a quarter with each blanket—about eight cents a pound—to defray the handling and shipping costs.

According to Dr. Grover Hartman, executive secretary of the Indiana council, $2 million would not buy all the blankets needed to meet emergencies overseas. Among those who will receive them are Tibetan refugees who fled from the Chinese Communist invaders, east zone refugees in West Germany, flood victims in Pakistan, Chinese refugees in Hong Kong, Algerian refugees in Tunisia and Morocco, Arab refugees in Jordan and Egypt, and typhoon victims in Japan.

Seek Reduction In Committee Number

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — The 1961 Indiana Legislature will be asked to reduce the number of committees in both houses in an all-out effort to speed up the passage of vital legislation.

Lawmakers, particularly in the lower house, have been concerned in recent years with the growing number of committees. The House now has 43 committees and the Senate 39.

Most of the important work of the General Assembly is done in committee. Because of the unwieldy number of committees, each legislator is required to serve on a half dozen or more.

Committee hearings usually are held at the end of each daily session and it is not unusual for 10 or more committees to be meeting at the same time. If a lawmaker is on more than one committee meeting at the same time, he must arbitrarily decide which one to attend. The result is that more than one committee has had to cancel a public hearing because it could not come up with a quorum.

To solve the problem, the Legislative Processes Committee this week approved a plan whereby the committees in each house would be trimmed to 27.

To achieve the lower figure, many of the long-standing committees were consolidated with other committees dealing with the same general matter.

For example, the House has a Committee on Patronage, a Committee on Invocation, a Committee on Mileage and Accounts and a Committee on Public Libraries, Buildings and Printings. Under the proposed plan, all four would be consolidated into the Committee on Appointments and Claims.

Arrested On Charge Of Drowning Bride
COOKSVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Ralph Anderson, 21, a student at Tennessee Tech, was arrested on murder charges Friday night in the drowning of his 20-year-old bride. Police charged Anderson drove his car into Burgess Falls Lake and shoved his wife back into the water after she had climbed out of a window.

IN WABASH, A SLUM AREA was eliminated and symbolic "out-houses" burned as the city broke ground for a new sewage treatment plant. James E. Loer, president of Henry B. Steeg Associates (left), consulting engineers on the project and C. L. Yost (right) president of Yost Construction company, Decatur, contractors for the 2 1/4 million dollar project, show Wabash Mayor Robert Mitten where to dig the first shovel. The project, part of an over-all plan to clean-up the Wabash river, is scheduled for completion this year.

Travelogues Found Home On Television

By VERNON SCOTT

UPI Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — As the sun slowly sinks in the West, travelogues can flick on their sets, sit back and take in a travelogue — a flourishing TV pastime.

Like practically everything else once shown in motion picture theatres, travelogues have found a home in video. Color is the only element missing in jazzed up versions of the famed James A. Fitzpatrick specialty.

Top travelogue producer in Hollywood today is Bill Burrud, a 35-year-old film-maker who travels around the world filming three travel-adventure series.

His final product is sort of a national geographic with a plot. Syndicated in more than 50 cities are "Treasure," "Wanderlust" and "Vagabond"—all three in current production. A fourth series, "Flight to Adventure," gets underway next month.

"The travelogue business has changed a great deal, with the move to television," Burrud said. "We're not just filming scenery. It's impractical on TV. The screen is too small to show scenery to advantage."

"Instead of relying on panoramic backgrounds, we try to have a point of view. Along with a story line we insert entertainment value."

Burrud wasn't being fair to old travelogues. Remember the story line in the oldies? Usually they began with a bunch of tenderfeet saddling up spavin-legged nags for a ride into the mountains somewhere in the Rockies west of Denver.

Frequent stops were made to enjoy the view. At the end of the film, sure enough, the sun would sink in the West as our travelers watched from a mountain top.

"We're trying to bring photo journalism to TV screens," Burrud said.

"Most of our footage is shot by our own cameramen; the rest is purchased from free-lance photographers. I appear in about one-third of the shows, and narrate all of them."

To date, Burrud has yet to ride a horse into the sunset.

how to eliminate the funeral bill at time of sorrow

Instead of letting the burden of funeral expense devolve on the family when bereavement comes, why not prepare for sorrow in advance by prearranging funeral costs. This not only eliminates lump-sum payment but also protects the family from emotional overspending. Call Zwick's today for full particulars.
