

Hartford Gorillas And Adams Central Winners In Sectional Openers

By Pete Reynolds

The Hartford Gorillas and Adams Central Greyhounds emerged victorious in opening games of the Adams Central sectional tourney Wednesday night before a near capacity house.

The Gorillas eliminated the Decatur Catholic Commodores, 55-53, in the tourney opener, and the Greyhounds ousted the Geneva Cardinals, 62-45, in the nightcap.

First round play will be concluded with a pair of contests tonight. In the opener at 7 o'clock, the Pleasant Mills Spartans will tangle with the Decatur Yellow Jackets, defending sectional champions. The second game will send the Monmouth Eagles against the heavily favored Berne Bears.

There will be no tickets for sale at the gym tonight, as all ducks for the season were sold out Wednesday.

No games will be played Friday, under the two-bracket setup, with tomorrow devoted to the sale of tickets for the Saturday sessions to the four schools still in the running.

Hartford and Adams Central will meet in the first semi-final at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon, followed by the winners of tonight's two contests.

The championship game will be played at 8:15 p.m. Saturday between the Saturday afternoon winners.

Commodores Ousted
The Commodores never held the lead as they bowed to the Gorillas in the tourney lid-lifter. Tom Moser hit the first basket of the game, and Jim Heimann collected his only two-point shot of the night for a 2-2 tie after two minutes of play.

The Commodores were only two points in arrears at 10-8 with 50 seconds to go in the first quarter, but a three-point play by Phil Hoover gave the Gorillas a 14-8 advantage at the end of the period.

The Decatur lads twice pulled within three points in the second quarter but could get no closer and Hartford walked off the floor at the half with a 26-18 bulge.

The Gorillas beat back every Commodore challenge throughout the rest of the game. Hartford's lead was cut to five points at the end of the third period, 37-32, and the Commodores moved to within four at 47-43 with 3:50 of the game to play, but the Gorillas stayed ahead from four to as many as nine points, with the Commodores cutting it to the final two-point margin just before the final buzzer.

The game developed into a two-man scoring duel, with Phil Hoover taking the honors with 29 points, while Don Baker closed out a great high school career with 28 markers for the losing Commodores. Hartford won the game at the foul line as the Commodores outscored their opponents from the field, 19-17. Hartford converted 21 of 34 free throws, the Commodores 15 of 28. There were 24 personals and two technicals called on the Commodores, 20 personals on the Gorillas. Hartford lost Gene Grogg on fouls, the Commodores Steve Omlor and Jim Heimann.

Greyhounds Advance
The Adams Central Greyhounds, after trailing until late in the second quarter, bounced back after the half-time intermission to eliminate the Geneva Cardinals, 62-45.

After an early 2-2 tie, the Cardinals went ahead and had built up a 16-11 lead at the end of the first quarter. Larry Foreman's field goal at 2:35 of the second quarter put Adams Central ahead for the first time, 25-24, and the Greyhounds had a 28-24 advantage at the half.

The Cardinals were limited to only eight points in the third quarter, while the Greyhounds scored 13 to take a 41-32 advantage into the final eight minutes of play.

The Greyhounds continued to increase their margin throughout the final quarter to take the victory by the 17-point bulge.

Larry Foreman topped scoring honors as the big Greyhound center poured in 23 points, 14 in the second half. He was given fine scoring assistance by Jerry Hirsch, who wound up with 17 markers. Larry Baumer topped Geneva with 17, followed by Sheldon Dynes with 13 and Larry Laux with 10.

Two Of Bloomfield's Players Have Measles

BLOOMFIELD, Ind. (UPI)—Bloomfield, the winning team in the Indiana prep tourney sectional, with a 24-1 record, prepared for its state tourney opener Friday night with its two big players in bed with the measles.

Officials said it was doubtful whether 6-4 Jack Spinks and 6-3 Dan Roach would be able to play in their team's opener.

Tourney Notes

By Bob Wall

To open the sixth sectional basketball tourney at Adams Central last night, most of the fans were wondering if Berne could be stopped, and if Decatur's Yellow Jackets were the team to stop them.

Adams Central and Hartford fans were pretty insistent that they might have a word or two to say in matter, as well.

To begin with and to never say another word in this column again about the officiating, it would be best to say that the two fellows out there on opening day just had a bad night. For three quarters of the opening ball game, they called a pretty good game, a little heavy on the whistle, but fairly consistent. The pressure, however, took its toll in the last four minutes, and Butts and Farrar lost no composure but a little of the skill that they had shown earlier.

Tourney-wise, rebounding took a prominent role in both contests as did foul shooting. Off the boards, big Larry Foreman, Greyhound center, grabbed 15 to lead in that department. His team captured a total of 32, which was second to date, to Decatur Catholic, which took 33 of during its loss to Hartford Center.

Foul-wise, we must approach that tender topic of technical fouls. Commodore coach Al Lindahl took two in that hectic fourth period, but was certainly not entitled to the first one. After Steve Omlor had fouled out, Lindahl was instructing a substitute on some strategy. The shorter of the two officials blew the technical while Lindahl was still issuing the last second instructions. It is the opinion of this column that a coach has that right. In a tight contest, he should have the right to give a new man a few seconds of directed talk. The official did not want the coach, he did not walk over and tell him to hurry, he just blew the foul—and you can take that any way you like it.

Gene Grogg, of Hartford, was the first player to sit out the sectional because of fouls, when he had his fifth blown at 6:32 of the fourth quarter against the Commodores. Besides Steve Omlor, the Commodores also lost Jim Heimann on fouls. Hartford had 22 fouls called, while DCHS had 22. And the Gorillas sewed up the game at the free throw stripe.

Geneva's Cardinals bowed as they looked like a team with only four men. The loss of guard Doyle Long, who sat glumly on the bench with his knee in a cast and crutches at his side, was too much for the little school to match.

Shooting-wise, Hartford netted 17 of 56 for 30 per cent; the Commodores had 19 of 68 for 28 per cent; Geneva had 18 of 55 for 32 per cent, and the Greyhounds led with 24 of 60 for a tough 40 per cent.

Mistakes—Greyhounds: only 4; Cardinals, 8; Commodores and Gorillas both 8.

For a final tribute to Don Baker, two-time county scoring champ, who played his last ball game for the green and gold last night. We think that the Commodore guard is the best player in the county, and could star at any northeastern Indiana high school, including Fort Wayne. Baker, who has the softest touch from 15-20 feet away, got to driving in his last few ball games, and should become quite an asset to any medium-sized college in the country.

In the annual Hothouses Drug Co. sectional contest, Berne was the heavy favorite to capture the right to enter the Fort Wayne regional. Of the 1,200 entries, 55 per cent tabbed the Bears as the likely winner. Adams Central followed with 19 per cent and local fans backed the Jackets, 16 per cent. Hartford, still very much alive, had only 1 per cent backing as did Monmouth. The 6 per cent

State Champ Attucks Loses To Shortridge

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI)—Crispus Attucks' seven-year monopoly of the Indianapolis high school basketball scene lay shattered today, but most of the other "name" teams were just warming up as sectional warfare in the state tourney spread to all 64 centers.

Although given only an outside chance to retain their state title, the Flying Tigers were shot down by fired-up Indianapolis Shortridge before nearly 15,000 Butler Fieldhouse fans Wednesday night, 69-36, setting the stage for the crowning of a new "King of the Hoosier Madness."

Attucks and 136 other hopefuls for 64 sectional titles to be awarded Saturday night were eliminated on the first day of the golden anniversary state tourney, and 149 others from an original field of 694 will call it quits by tonight.

West NIHS champion East Chicago Washington, No. 4 in the state, had an afternoon date with Hammond Tech, the 1940 state champion. Tonight, games involving season-long powerhouses include Jasper-Ireland at Huntington, Indianapolis Manual-Greenfield at Southport, Roosevelt-Tolleston at Gary, and Bloomington-Mooreville at Martinsville.

Shortridge Never Trained
Three-time state champ Attucks, 15-5 for the season and ninth in the final United Press International coaches' ratings, couldn't match inspired Shortridge, which raced to a 7-0 lead. The Blue Devils, 58-57 winners over Attucks during the season, led at all stops and refused to be demoralized when Attucks tied the score at 31-31 early in the third period.

Ray Satterfield, Paul Henry and Lou Williams were the sparkplugs who drove time and again through Attucks' defense. And when they lined up for the final period with Shortridge leading, 50-36, the huge crowd sensed that Attucks, sectional titlist for seven consecutive years, was about to abdicate.

Henry had 16 points and Satterfield 15, while Don Swift of Attucks was high with 17. Lack of defense and a slow start led to Attucks' downfall, thought coach Bill Garrett. Shortridge's jubilant coaches, Cleon Reynolds and Bob King, said it was a team effort, good rebounding and scouting that kept their team in the running.

It also was sweet revenge for last year's 63-62 loss to Attucks in the local sectional semi-finals.

Lee Hits 52
Third-rated Madison, with top-ranking and tourney favorite Muncie Central the only unbeaten in the month-long grind, ran its winning streak to 19 at the expense of Austin at Scottsburg, 86-43. Harold (Buster) Briley canned 34 points for the Cubs, who won as they pleased.

New Castle, conqueror of highly-regarded Kokomo last Friday, showed its prowess by smashing Lewisville and state scoring champion Marion Pierce, 94-59. Johnny Lee pumped in 52 points for the Trojans, probably tops for the night, while Pierce was held to 30.

In all, seven defending sectional winners bowed out.

Martinsville, a three-time state champ but winner only twice during the season, was upended by Eminence in the tourney's first triple overtime, 60-58. A pair of freethrows by Dave Leonard put the skids under the Artesians on their home floor.

Attucks lost to Perryville at Williamsport, 69-63; Williamsburg shaded Hagerstown at Richmond, 60-59, on Bob Hall's jump shot with eight seconds left; Gary Chessers' layup with four seconds to go gave Evansville Central a 64-62 thriller over city foe Bosse, whose Russ Grieger poured in 35 points; Dunkirk, which whipped Hartford City by 28 points during the season, lost to the Airedales at Portland, 62-59, and host Salem lost to Morgan Twp., 58-49.

Highland is 21-1
Bosse and Coal Creek Central, which lost to Crawfordsville, 66-54, were other former state champs to be sidetracked, and Attucks was the first regional titleholder to be bounced.

Little Highland made it 21-1 and 13 in a row for the season, reaching the sectional semi-finals by besting Dyer and Hammond Clark at East Chicago. Hammond also passed its first two tests at East Chicago, thanks to a 70-66 upset over city foe Noll.

Jack Belcher's 40 points piloted Springs Valley, state finalist two years ago, to an 88-60 rout of Birdseye at Huntington.

At Muncie, Yorktown's Delaware County champions couldn't lick Gaston for the third time in one season and were derailed, 55-49.

At Elkhart, somebody pulled a switch by mistake and plunged the fieldhouse into darkness. The boner was rectified quickly, however, and Middlebury spanked Penn, 65-61.

who backed Geneva and the 2 per cent, who chose the Commodores, have fallen by the wayside.

The traffic count for the Decatur Daily Democrat-Citizens Telephone Co. score service totalled 1,738 calls for the first night.

Kansas State Moves To Lead In Big Eight

By United Press International
Kansas State is going all out to assure the hometown fans of a local entry for the NCAA's Midwest regional basketball tournament at Manhattan, Kan., March 11.

The Wildcats, bidding for their third straight Big Eight Conference crown, took over undisputed possession of first place in the league Wednesday night by whipping Kansas, 68-57.

Kansas State atoned for a previous loss to the Jayhawks this season by grabbing an early advantage and staying ahead all the way.

Tournament tension continues to build tonight as West Virginia opens its bid for the Southern Conference berth in the NCAA and Utah and Utah State fight for the Skyline Conference crown.

Coach Fred Schaus has virtually written his sixth-ranked Mountaineers into the NCAA Eastern regionals.

"It would take an awful good club to keep us from the title," Schaus said as West Virginia met Virginia Military Institute in an opening round of the Southern Conference tourney.

Utah plays Brigham Young and Utah State plays Montana as they prep for their all-important meeting this Saturday.

St. Bonaventure and Villanova, having secured NIT bids, romped to victory in other big games Wednesday night. The Bonnies, paced by Tom Stith's 29 points, downed Duquesne, 76-70, while sophomore Hubie White canned 26 points in Villanova's 74-52 decision over Toledo.

In other games, South Carolina nipped Clemson, 66-65; Oklahoma beat Oklahoma State, 59-53; St. Joseph's (Pa.) routed Bucknell, 83-63; Dayton defeated Xavier (Ohio), 91-82; and Syracuse won over Colgate, 83-71.

Continue City Golf League As Last Year

Luke Majorki, pro-manager of the Decatur Golf course, announced today that a recent poll taken among players who participated in the City golf league last summer, indicated preference to operate the league under the same procedure as last year.

Three questions were included in the questionnaires. The first one asked if the players favored operating as in the past, and the ratio was 5 to 4 in favor of no change. Ninety-five per cent of the questionnaires were returned.

The second question outlined a proposed new system, and the third query had reference to the golf association.

Majorki stated that replies showed considerable interest in the golf association and it is hoped to make progress on this line this year.

A meeting of captains of last year's league teams will be held in the near future to determine rules and prize awards.

Plans are now being made to set up the schedule with eight teams, which will be sponsored.
