Read Testimony To Murder Trial Jury

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Dr. R. Bernard Finch's emotion-packed recital of how his wife was killed will be read in a calm atmosphere today to a murder trial jury considering the fate of the wealthy surgeon and his paramour Carol Tregoff.

Finch's testimony last month brought tears to the eyes of spectators and a couple members of the jury of seven women and five men. About 500 pages of that testimony now was being read in the courtroom cleared of spectators. Finch and Miss Tregoff were brought from their jail cells for the reading.

The jury asked for the reading Saturday before continuing its deliberations on whether Finch, 42, and Miss Tregoff, 23, are guilty of the July 18 slaying of Barbara Jean Finch. The jury received the case Friday afternoon.

Only about 63 pages of the transcript were read Saturday before the jurors recessed until today. It was estimated reading of the testimony would delay resumption of deliberations until late today or Tuesday.

LESS WORK TO BUY ANNUAL FARM BASKET—Wage earners had to work about three-fourths as many hours to pay for the market basket of farm foods in 1959 as they did in 1947-49. Though dollar cost has risen 11 per cent, wage rates have increased and farmers' prices have declined. Chart is based on annual purchases of farm foods by urban families in 1952; retail cost, marketing spread and farm value are divided by average net hourly earnings of manufacturing workers. Data: Agriculture Department's agriculture marketing service.

ACCUSED—Mrs. Nellie Lassiter, 38, a former model, faces newsmen in Detroit after she was accused of hiring three men to kill her wealthy husband, Parvia (Bill) Lassiter, 38. Lassiter was shot and bludgeoned to death last April.

National 4-H Club Week Observed Over Nation

This week Adams county 4-H members are joining with more than 87,000 other Indiana 4-H youths and more than two million in the United States in observing national 4-H club week. This week is designated as national 4-H club week to call public attention to 4-H club work, to enroll new members, and to help all club members realize their opportunity for service to their community and country.

4-H club work will this year center around the theme of "Live, learn, serve through 4-H." Nearly 1,000 Adams county boys and girls between the ages of 10 to 21 will be enrolling and re-enrolling in 4-H club work. The membership goal for the county is 1,000. The deadline for Adams county 4-H enrollment is March 15 and membership cards are available from local club leaders or the county extension agent.

The 4-H club program is now the largest rural youth organization in the United States. It is not only organized in the rural areas, but many clubs are organized in towns and cities. Boys and girls learn to work and play together under the guidance of local club leaders and the county extension workers. Leo N. Seltzer, county agricultural agent and Lois Folk, home demonstration agent.

Boys and girls are organized into clubs with their own elected officers and "learn by doing" under the guidance of their leaders. Twenty-nine local 4-H clubs are organized in Adams county. The members each carry a project and study the 4-H bulletins. Members pay nothing to join a 4-H club, but local clubs sometimes charge dues for their own use if they choose to do so. All report forms and project bulletins are free. They attend meetings and take part in programs. They participate in other 4-H activities, camps, achievement days, field days, tours, fair and exhibits, demonstrations and judging. 4-H club work is based on the needs and interests of the club members.

The 4-H club emblem is a four-leaf clover with the letter "H" on each leaf. The four "H's" stand for head, heart, hands and health. The leaves of the clover and the "H's" are white. The national 4-H colors are green and white. The white is for purity and green is nature's most common color.

4-H club members have as their motto "To Make the Best Better" and the pledge which is recited at most all 4-H gatherings is:

I pledge
my head to clearer thinking,
my heart to greater loyalty,
my hands to larger service,
my health to better living,
for my club, my community and my country.
