Boiling Hot

The political melting pot, as March 24, the deadline for filing before the primary approaches, is beginning to boil again. A number of candidates have already announced and/or filed.

Several others are planning to file, according to gossip, as soon as they have talked it over with a number of precinct committeemen and other Democratic leaders.

Party leaders and the candidates themselves always prefer to have only one or two men file for each office—the public usually prefers to have a wide choice of candidates.

This is understandable. The candidate does not particularly relish the expense and time expended in a primary campaign. And there is always the danger of making friends of the other candidates mad, not to mention the danger of losing to him.

The public, on the other hand, does not like to feel that it is being forced to vote for hand-picked candidates. The purpose of primaries rather than county conventions is to allow the public to make the choice. Therefore, two or more people should file for every office in both primaries, the public feels, so that there is a choice.

The Adams county Democratic primary will include a number of races with two or more candidates this May 3. So far only two Republicans, other than precinct committeemen or delegates, have announced. The remaining two weeks will decide who enters the primary.

Leading Candidates Are Urged To File

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI)—Indiana Secretary of State John Walsh today sent letters to the leading presidential candidates of both parties urging them to enter Indiana's May 3 presidential preference primaries.

Walsh noted that with more than half the filing period now over, no candidate has filed his intention to run.

The deadline for filing is March 24.

Walsh said that even though the results of the Indiana primaries are binding on the delegates for only one ballot, he personally felt that the results would and should impose an obligation on the delegates, "especially if a large number of the voters express themselves for a candidate."

The letters were sent to Vice President Richard M. Nixon and to Democratic Sens. Stuart Symington of Missouri, John Kennedy of Massachusetts, Lyndon Johnson of Texas and Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota.

In his letter to the four fellow Democrats, Walsh said "many of us will actively work to keep Indiana on your team, even after the first ballot, if you are successful in the Indiana primary, as we feel a moral obligation to the voters of Indiana who will have taken the time to express themselves."

Nixon and Kennedy have indicated they will enter.

Repay Controversial Legislative Pay

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI)—Former State Rep. Otto Pozgay, South Bend Democrat, has repaid his controversial legislative pay, a spokesman for the state auditor's office said today.

Atty. Gen. Edwin K. Steers had ruled that if Pozgay accepted both his pay as a legislator and his St. Joseph County, he would be pay as a deputy prosecutor for violating the State Constitution, which prohibits dual job-holding.

Pozgay returned $426, the spokesman said, which represented pay minus deductions for the first quarter of 1960.

Citizens Telephone Officials, Workers In Tribute To Bell

Officials and employees of the Citizens Telephone Co. paused Thursday to pay recognition to Alexander Graham Bell, who, 84 years ago, one March 10, 1876, in the attic of a Boston boarding house, spoke the first sentence of speech over a pair of wires when he uttered those immortal words, "Dr. Watson, come here, I want you!"

"Historians," said Charles D. Ehinger, Citizens president, "have rightly described the invention of the telephone as 'one of the most brilliant scientific achievements ever recorded' and as 'the most single valuable patent in the world.'"

"It is a far cry from that original crude instrument of Bell's to today's modern communications systems," said Ehinger. "We of the Citizens Telephone Co. are happy to be a part of this great industry and we are glad to join in honoring the memory of a man who left such lasting footsteps in the sands of time."

Religious Academy Building Destroyed

CICERO, Ind. (UPI)—Fire companies from two counties fought for eight hours today to control a fire which destroyed the furniture manufacturing facilities of the Indiana Academy at an estimated loss of $200,000.

The academy is a 41-year-old religious institution operated by the Seventh Day Adventists. It is a boarding school at high school level, attended by approximately 200 boys and girls with a faculty of 18.

About 40 of the students were employed in a furniture factory, which is part of the academy's facilities. The plant and its equipment were a complete loss but other buildings at the academy were saved despite the apparent failure of the institution's fire-fighting system.

The school recently completed a $60,000 fire-fighting system, including a large gravity flow tank and underground pipes. Below-freezing temperatures also contributed to the troubles of firemen.

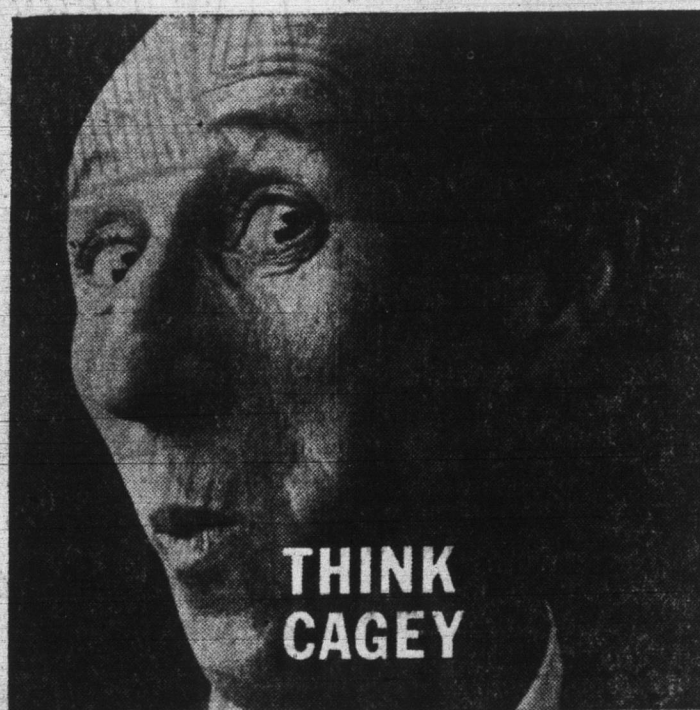

When a night watchman, Joe Velting, discovered a small blaze early today at the rear of the plant, he called Arcadia and Cicero firemen. When they connected their hoses to the school fire system, they couldn't get water.

The firemen then ran their hoses to nearby Morse Reservoir and sprayed other buildings on the school grounds, saving them. Other fire units joining in the battle were from Noblesville, Tipton, Castleton, Sharpsville and Indianapolis.
