Drive To Start
Any person in Adams county who is interested enough in good, listenable music to spare a couple of hours a month during the winter attending locally-held concerts will be interested to know that next week is the civic music association drive.

Mrs. Clark Mayclin and Mrs. Leo Kirsch are heading the drive to obtain members. They have a headquarters set up in the community building with a telephone—number 3-3130.

This drive lasts just one week. It is the only time you can join. You must be a member to attend the sessions.

The civic music association brings some of the best names in professional entertaining to Decatur. The programs are very well attended by those "in the know"—the people who have been to one or more.

Even such outstanding features as the Indianapolis symphony orchestra, one of the ten best orchestras in the United States, may be thought to be dull, until you've actually heard its remarkable performance. Those who have heard it are unanimous in its praise. And other artists—individuals, duets, choruses—are brought to Decatur through the winter season.

These programs have enriched the lives of those who have been members in the past. Are you going to join? If so, you must attend to it immediately, or lose your opportunity for another year.

College Stars And Peoria In Final Tonight

DENVER (UPI) — A magnificent team of collegiate basketball greats plays the Peoria Cat-erpillars, AAU champions, tonight for the privilege of a summer trip to Rome to represent the United States in the Olympic Games.

The NCAA University All Stars — and Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati University, Jerry West of West Virginia and their teammates are all true stars — drubbed a strong Akron Goodyear team, 103-88, in the Olympic trial semifinals at the Denver Coliseum Friday night.

And the Peoria Cats put down the NALA (small college) All Stars, 89-68, to set up what promises to be one of the greatest tests of amateur basketball skill ever seen.

The final game of the trials will start at 11:30 p.m. e.s.t.

Talented Teamwork
Robertson and West, working together as if they had been doing so all season, led the University All Stars to a 26-12 lead, scoring 17 points between them, in 10 minutes.

Then 6-11 Walt Bellamy of Indiana and 5-11 Jimmy Darrow of Bowling Green took charge of the offense while Robertson and West, each charged with three fouls, relaxed on the bench.

Akron was behind 51-50 at half-time, having made some headway against the collegians' second platoon. But coach Pete Newell of California sent Robertson and West back into action as the second half began.

Settle Goodyear's Hash
In just six minutes, the Big O and the wily West had the Goodyear's hash settled, 70-54. With seven minutes to play, the All Star lead was 88-70.

Robertson scored 29 points, West 22, and Bellamy 17. Peoria's National Industrial League club was down, 1-7, before Tom Meschery and Bob Boozer got them going against the small college team. Meschery's follow shot at the seven and a half minute mark put the Cats permanently ahead, 11-9.

At intermission Peoria's lead had been extended to 44-29. Meschery and Boozer each had 12 points. Neither did much in the second half, but the Cats did not need another shot in the arm.

The small college team, tough talented, could not get organized as it did in the second half of its first round win.

Monmouth Merry Maids
The Monmouth Merry Maids met for their second meeting of the year Thursday at the Monmouth school.

The meeting was opened with the installation of officers. The roll call was called and answered with "my pet peeve." Old and new business was then discussed. Demonstrations were given by Sally and Betsy Schnepf and Connie Bergman. Sally and Betsy Schnepf served refreshments to conclude the meeting. The next meeting is scheduled for April 12.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Warfare, the 1959 juvenile champion and 4 to 1 second choice in the Kentucky Derby, will miss all three of this year's racing classics for three-year olds because of a bone chip.

NOTES FROM AFTER THIRTY

By JACK HELLER

SUSPICIONS CONFIRMED
When Terje Strom went to Fort Wayne last week to appear on television, Bob Heller went along to provide the transportation and make the proper introductions. As Terje was before the cameras, Bob spent his time in the monitor room, with all the technical equipment needed to transmit television. Some of the budgets and gauges didn't mean much, but one thing Bob could read were the volume indicators. Sure enough, when the commercials came on, the volume was upped.

F LIKE IN PONY . . .
Last Sunday the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Haley visited in Decatur, and her grandmother hurried her off to Sunday school at the Presbyterian church. When she arrived, the teacher introduced her to the children in the class, and asked her what church she attended in her home town. The little girl replied that she was a member of the Methodist Sunday school. When grandma found this out later, she asked the young lady why she had said that, when she actually attended a Presbyterian Sunday school at home. The little girl replied that she thought the teacher would ask her to spell the name of her church, and she couldn't spell Presbyterian yet.

REAR VIEW MIRROR
Bill McColly has put quite a few miles on a car, and like all of us, likes to think he is a careful and safe driver. This week, Bill had attended some of the basketball tourney games at Pleasant Mills and was driving back to Decatur. He was cruising along within the legal speed limit when a car following started blinking its lights. The first thought that came to Bill was that it was a provincial gendarme, so he slowed down to about 45 and proceeded on his way. The lights continued to blink all the way to Decatur, but nothing else happened. The next day, Gerald Girardot started razzing Bill about what a careful driver he was on the highway. "Strick" had been blinking his lights to attract Bill's attention.

Then Charlie Kent got in the act. Charlie was driving in Fort Wayne one time and came to a blinker light. The blinker happened to hit the eye on his automatic dimmer and Charlie's lights kept going from bright to dim and back again. The car in front of Charlie was occupied by a young man and his female friend, and Charlie said they were occupying only enough space for one person. When the lights on Charlie's car started blinking, the young couple must have had the same thoughts as Bill, for the girl immediately scooted over to the right side of the car. It's interesting how the conscience reacts to blinking lights.

BREAK IN THE WEATHER
Note to anyone who happened to overhear the afternoon coffee break of six or eight men Friday afternoon: No, we hadn't been drinking. It's just that spring is finally here, and with the week-end approaching, everyone felt good, and it's surprising how uninhibited a group of supposedly staid, supposedly businessmen can get in the spring.

Note to poor homebound wives who wonder what in the world the husband can be talking about all this time when they try to get him on the phone and are told repeatedly that he is still on a coffee break: the conversation is really more enlightening and intelligent than you would think (at least we like to think it is). Larry Anspaugh and Dick Bies are Civil War buffs, and I have been known to converse on the subject, too.

Deane Dorwin and brother Dick are horticulturists, and plan their (and everybody else's) flower and vegetable gardens. Bob Wall, Gerald Strickler, Bill McColly and Bob Anderson have the pennant winners already picked, although they consistently overlook the fact that the Cubs have an eight-game winning streak. Bill Schnepf doesn't talk baseball, just the Yankees, take care of the fishing. Naturally, since every American is an expert on everything, each conversation overlaps into the others' field, and when politics are brought up, it's a free-for-all. Ray Fager, Dick Walter and Carl Braun have shot more pheasants on a coffee break than can be found in the state of Indiana (that's because they are planning an expedition to South Dakota). But, along the way, civic matters are discussed, and probably more than would be thought, church affairs are considered.

Note to poor homebound wives: what in the world are you using the telephone for when we finally get back to work and are notified we are supposed to call you? Iron frying pans do not a prison make, as long as there's the telephone.

Three Plead Guilty To Traffic Charges
Three cases were disposed of in justice of the peace court in Decatur Thursday and Friday, and all pleaded guilty and received fines totaling $18.75 each. Two more cases were set for trial.

Robert E. Springer, 39, of Fort Wayne, arrested by the state police at 3:25 p.m. Sunday, for driving 45 miles an hour through Preble, appeared Thursday.

Dwight L. Brunner, 18, of route 3, arrested Feb. 15, for reckless driving in Pleasant Mills at 3:25 p.m., was also fined $18.75.

Anthony C. Gillig, 20, of 612 N. Second street, arrested March 16 at 5:45 p.m. for disregarding a stop sign at U.S. 27 and the Winchester road, appeared Friday.

Joseph A. Dague, 32, of Fort Wayne, arrested at 6:45 p.m. in Monmouth for driving 45 miles an hour in a 30 mile zone, will appear later today.

Clarence L. Boring, 16, 1235 Lewis street, arrested March 28 at 8:50 p.m., 3.4 miles south of Decatur on highway 27 for reckless driving into and against the property of another, will appear in court April 6.
