Loes Stars As Giants Defeat Cubs In 14th

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press International

The San Francisco Giants, proud owners of two quick dividends from unpredictable Billy Loes, now know there is absolutely nothing wrong with his arm or his bat, for that matter, either.

Some skeptics felt Loes had lost his stuff when the Baltimore Orioles traded him and Billy O'Dell to the Giants last December for Jackie Brandt. They thought the 30-year-old Loes was merely a "throw-in" to keep the Giants happy.

He kept them happy, all right, Sunday and kept them in a first-place tie with the Dodgers by pitching hitless ball in relief, producing a key hit and scoring the winning run in a 14-inning, 4-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Loes, credited with his first National League victory since 1955 when he was with the Dodgers, took over for Jack Sanford in the 12th and struck out four men in the last three innings.

Perfect At Bat
Loes, who didn't collect a single hit with the Orioles all last season, did a perfect job at bat also. He led off the 11th with a single to right off loser Ben Johnson, advanced to second on a sacrifice bunt, and scored on Jim Davenport's single. Orlando Cepeda tied the score at 3-3 with a two-run homer off starter Bob Anderson in the sixth.

The victory was the Giants' fourth in five games and the Dodgers kept pace with a 7-5 decision over the Cardinals, who dropped their fifth straight. The Braves beat the Phillies, 8-4, and the Pirates swept a doubleheader from the Reds, 5-0 and 6-5.

Home runs by Gil Hodges, Duke Snider and Wally Moon helped Los Angeles to its victory over the slumping Cardinals. Larry Sherry, the Dodgers' relief ace of 1959, started for the second time in a week and received credit for the triumph although lifted after six innings. Stan Musial and Alex Grammas homered for St. Louis. Ernie Broglio was the loser.

Eddie Mathews led a Milwaukee assault on Robin Roberts of the Phils with a homer, triple and a double. Ray Boone highlighted a four-run rally in the sixth when he drove in three runs with a double. Bob Buhl limited Philadelphia to six hits, including two homers by Harry Anderson and one by Bobby Del Greco.

Pirates Win Two
Pittsburgh won its nightcap against Cincinnati the hard way, coming up with six runs in the ninth inning after trailing 5-0. Hal Smith socked a pinch-three-run homer during the uprising and Bob Skinner hit a two-run homer. Bill Henry and loser Ted Wiscand bore the brunt of the attack after Don Newcombe and Raul Sanchez blanked the Pirates over the first eight frames.

Bob Friend held Cincinnati to four hits in the opener and Bob Clement's two-run homer in the first inning was all the margin he needed. Southpaw Joe Nuxhall was the loser.

American League clubs wound up their exhibition season with the Red Sox defeating the Yankees, 2-0; the Indians beating the White Sox, 2-1; the Tigers nipping the Athletics, 5-4, in 10 innings, and the Orioles topping Richmond of the International League, 8-2.

Sam Snead Winner Of Greensboro Open

GREENSBORO, N. C. (UPI)—Sam Snead, already involved in the year's top golf controversy, left today with $2,500, his seventh Greater Greensboro crown, and a snore for the Starmount Forest Country Club course.

Snead birdied the last two holes Sunday for a final round 35-34-69. The two-under-par gave him first place with a 72-hole total of 270.

The finish before a gallery of some 9,000 was par for the end of a Greater Greensboro Open.

Dow Finsterwald, 29, of Tequesta, Fla., the 1959 winner, finished with a 68 for a 272 and second-place money of $1,900. After winning last year, when he played with Snead in a final-round threesome, Finsterwald indicated he would not return. He said the gallery was so pro-Snead that heckling by the Slammer's admirers interfered with his game.

It was Snead's turn to expound this year.

"I hope it will finally get to (Edward) Benjamin to do something about his golf course," the White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., star told the amazed gallery. He had been handed a microphone system after carding his final round Sunday.

Snead said the course was "lousy" and, cocking his Panama hat at the gallery, added, "You deserve more than you're getting." The latter was in reference to the lack of "name" players at the tournament this year, including Masters champion Arnold Palmer.

Benjamin is president and main stockholder of the Starmount Corp.

Don Whitt of Borrego Springs, Calif., took $1,400 third money in 1959. He finished 277. Len Woodward of Sydney, Australia, on his first PGA tour, was fourth with 278 for $1,200. Bradley Anderson of Greensboro was the top ranking amateur with a 293.

All-Star Basketball Roster Is Completed

INDIANAPOLIS — The Indiana All-Star basketball roster was completed Saturday with the addition of five players to round out what is probably one of the most talented line-ups ever gathered to battle Kentucky's finest in the traditional series for the benefit of the blind.

The latest to be announced are: No. 6: 6-foot Mel Garland, highest scoring player ever at Arsenal Technical high school, the state's largest high school.

No. 7: John Dampier, 6-foot, 2-inch long-shooter and probably the state's finest ball-handler from Muncie Central high school.

No. 8: Phil Dawkins, 6-foot, 2½-inch hard-driving competitor who carried Washington of East Chicago past Muncie for 1960 state championship.

No. 9: Big (6-5½, 215 pounds) Jeff Blue, the rebounding-scoring star of little Bainbridge whose doorway is well-worn by college scouts.

No. 10: Hot-shooting Emanuel (Mannie) Newsome, a 5-10, 145-pound package of scoring wizardry from Gary Roosevelt.

College Champion Boxer Dies Sunday

MADISON, Wis. (UPI)—Charlie Mohr, an altar boy who became a champion college boxer, died Sunday of injuries he suffered a week earlier in the ring.

The deeply religious 22-year-old University of Wisconsin senior was knocked out in the finals of the NCAA tournament here April 10 in defense of his 165-pound title. Charlie walked to his dressing room after the fight and collapsed. He suffered a massive brain injury and was unconscious until his death at 8:40 a.m. Sunday.

Mohr was a model for college boxing and a model individual. His coach, Vern Woodward, described Mohr as "angelic." Former UW boxer Gene Rankin, a friend of Mohr, said "He should have been a priest. He was too good."

Mohr was kept alive by medical science. His breathing was done by a resuscitator. His body temperature was controlled by hypothermia and a new drug called urea was used to control pressure on his brain.

An hour before Mohr's death he had no pulse or blood pressure. Damaged mid-brain tissue failed to respond.

The body will be taken to the Fulton and Son Funeral Home, Freeport, Long Island, and burial will be at nearby Merrick, N.Y., where the Mohr family lives.

Harvey Kuenn And Colavito Swap Uniforms

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Frank Lane finally got Harvey Kuenn from Detroit and now stands to get a lot more from Cleveland fans for trading away their "pet" home run hitter, Rocky Colavito.

American Leaguers generally agreed today that the Tigers got the better of the swap and Cleveland fans were even more sure of it. The Cleveland Press reported that the reaction of fans calling in was more than 10 to 1 against the trade.

It could turn out to be a rough deal for Lane unless Kuenn, the 1959 American League batting champion, makes Cleveland fans forget all about the home run heroics of the 26-year-old Colavito.

That's going to be no mean trick.

Indians' Big Gun
Colavito, probably the most popular and exciting player to appear in a Cleveland uniform since Bob Feller, bid farewell to the Indians Sunday by slamming a home run in a 2-1 exhibition game victory over the White Sox at Memphis, Tenn.

The 29-year-old Kuenn, on the other hand, led the league with a .353 average, but the majority of his hits were singles and doubles. He hit only nine homers and drove in 111 runs.

Casey Stengel, in New York, was among those who liked the Tigers' end of the deal.

Tigers Get "Dandy"
"They sure got themselves a dandy in Colavito," he said. Yankee catcher Elston Howard couldn't understand Cleveland's thinking on the trade.

"How can they give away a guy who hits 42 homers and knocks in 111 runs even for someone like Kuenn?" he asked. "Harvey doesn't hurt you like Colavito."

Lane had been trying to obtain Kuenn all winter. Negotiations with Tiger President Bill DeWitt broke down several times, chiefly because Lane also wanted a pitcher thrown in. But they were completed Sunday over the telephone with Lane speaking from Memphis and DeWitt from St. Louis.

The two players officially will change uniforms when the Tigers and Indians open their seasons here.

Branch Rickey Threatens To Raid Majors

By EARL WRIGHT
United Press International

Branch Rickey, heading a call for "more positive action" by baseball Commissioner Ford Frick, provided plenty of it today with a threat that the Continental League may raid the American and National leagues to get players.

Rickey, however, said such raids would be made only if the Continental League was "forced to do so."

Rickey, 78-year-old president of the Continental League, raised the possibility of such drastic action in response to a question put to him Sunday by William Peer, moderator of "Metropolitan Probe," a program of New York's WNEW-TV station.

Sounds Raising Threat
"If we're forced outside the canopy (organized baseball), we'll sign players anywhere we can," Rickey said when asked by state senators MacNeil Mitchell (R-N.Y.) and Thomas Mackell (D-N.Y.) what action he might take if refused the cooperation of organized baseball.

Rickey's threat came shortly after Frick called on the Continental League to make fewer complaints and take more positive action to qualify as a major league. Frick issued his challenge from Los Angeles, where he presented the World Series pennant to the Dodgers.

Frick said organized baseball had "spelled out" the requirements for qualification as a major league last year.

"So far, there has been no indication that the Continental League has qualified on a single point," Frick said. "Certainly they have made no applications; they have made no statements of progress and they have submitted no factual information which would justify any further action on the part of organized baseball."

New League's Problem
"Meantime, I wonder if it wouldn't help a little if we had fewer complaints, less alibing and a little more positive action."

When informed later of Rickey's threat to raid the majors for players if forced to do so, Frick replied: "That's their problem. I would not care to comment on Mr. Rickey's remarks beyond my statement today."

Frick did not explain his "that's their problem" phrase but it was interpreted to mean it was the new league's job to find players.

Fort Wayne Komets Even Playoff Series

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (UPI)—The Turner Cup will be at stake tonight when Fort Wayne's Komets battle St. Paul's Saints in the seventh and final game of the International Hockey League playoffs.

Fort Wayne's eastern division and overall league champions during the regular season, trailing St. Paul's western-division champs throughout the series, deadlocked the playoffs at three games apiece Sunday with an easy 8-4 triumph.

Fort Wayne lost the first two games at St. Paul, and the Saints assumed a 3-1 lead last week before the Komets rallied to take the next two, thus setting the stage for tonight's finale.

Led by Bob McCusker's two goals, Fort Wayne broke a 1-1 tie in the first period Sunday. The Komets then scored two more tallies in rapid succession and were not again threatened.

Aggie Kukulowicz paced the Saints with two goals, running his playoff total to six.

Lamar Lundy Signs Rams' Contracts

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (UPI)—Lamar Lundy, former Purdue University football star from Richmond, Ind., has returned signed contracts to the Los Angeles Rams for the 1960 and 1961 seasons, it was announced today.

Lundy is a veteran of three seasons with the Rams and has been playing both offensive and defensive end.

Give Courtney Until May 10 To Recover

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI)—The Baltimore Orioles have given catcher Clint Courtney until May 10 to recover from a finger infection and join the club. Otherwise he will be returned to the Washington Senators.

General Manager Lee McPhail of Baltimore said Sunday Courtney was suffering from an infected index finger on his throwing hand when he and infielder Ron Samford were recently traded to the Orioles by Washington for infielder Billy Gardner.

Little League Meets Thursday Evening

An important meeting of the Decatur Little League will be held at 7:30 o'clock Thursday evening at the city hall. L. E. Beal, president, asks all officers, managers and coaches to attend this meeting, and also extends a special invitation to any one interested in the Morning league to be present.
