TAKING THE MARRIAGE VOWS—The Archbishop of Canterbury unites Princess Margaret and Antony Armstrong-Jones in matrimony in Westminster Abbey. At right: the royal family.

Royal Couple On Caribbean Cruise

LONDON (UPI) — The royal yacht Britannia steamed across the Atlantic today, carrying newlywed Princess Margaret and Antony Armstrong-Jones on a five to six week dream cruise to a Caribbean "destination unknown."

As one of the world's most luxurious yachts headed down-channel Friday night at the outset of the $3,000-a-day honeymoon, shore stations signaled the customary "whither bound?"

"Destination unknown — high seas," the Britannia replied, before closing its radio to any but official messages.

Planes Watch Yacht

Planes of the British Air Force's coastal command soared high above the yacht today, aiding Vice Adm. Peter Dainy by keeping a radar check on the course — a precaution that will be observed along nearly half of the 4,000-mile route to the Caribbean.

When the Britannia headed down the Thames River from London Friday, Margaret could be seen on the bridge brushing confetti and rose petals from her husband's shoulders.

The newlyweds dined Friday night in the seclusion of their suite aboard the Britannia. Dainy postponed the usual formal dinner with the yacht's officers at the Armstrong-Joneses request.

Given Fantastic Sendoff

London gave the happy couple a fantastic sendoff. Early today, the rear guard of an estimated million persons who turned out to cheer the newlyweds could still be seen roaming restlessly through streets hung with silken banners and garlands of flowers in honor of the wedding.

When they return from the honeymoon, Margaret and Armstrong-Jones will have been occupying — she at Clarence House, he at Buckingham Palace — to a house sandwiched between a storehouse and a museum at London's Kensington Palace.

The house, known as "apartment 10," is the smallest in which anyone as close to the British throne as Margaret has ever lived.

Mexico Frees Murderer Of Leon Trotsky

HAVANA, Cuba (UPI) — Jacques Mornard, assassin of Communist rebel Leon Trotsky in 1940, was believed in danger of assassination himself today following his secret release from a 20-year prison term in Mexico City and deportation to Cuba.

Mornard said before leaving Mexico City that he was a Czech national and would go to Czechoslovakia after a few days in Cuba. Mexican authorities believe he is a Spaniard.

The Mexican Interior Ministry announced Friday night that Mornard had been freed after serving all but four months of his sentence. He was put on a plane to Cuba before the announcement was made.

Informal sources said he was accompanied by two Czechs with diplomatic passports. He had a Czech passport himself under the name of Jacques M. Bardredesch.

Cuban airline officials confirmed that the holders of the three Czech passports arrived here, but Mornard immediately went into hiding and could not be traced.

It was generally believed in Mexico City that Mornard put his life in danger the moment he left the penitentiary Friday night because he knows too many details of the plot to kill Trotsky. Stalin's bitter enemy, believed to have been directed from Moscow, Mornard murdered Trotsky with an alpenstock, a sharp pick used for mountain climbing, after gaining the exiled Soviet leader's friendship and confidence.

Trotsky, dying from his brutal head wounds, told his guards: "Don't kill him. He must talk."

Refused Right Name

But Mornard refused even to give authorities his right name during his trial and imprisonment and has remained silent about his mission and who directed it.

At the airport before leaving, however, he said he had no fears for his life. His attorney, Eduardo Ceniceros Rios, said Mornard left extensive notes on his past for a book to tell the "entire story," but he refused to discuss details.

With the aid of mysterious funds, Mornard lived the life of a VIP prisoner in Mexico City's federal penitentiary. His cell was a home-like affair with carpeted floor, television set, and radio.

His mistress, Raquel Mendoza, arrived for frequent visits in an expensive American car.

Fort Wayne Man Is Fined For Evasion

CHICAGO (UPI) — A Fort Wayne, Ind., business executive was fined $2,000 in Federal Court here Friday on his guilty plea to a charge of individual income tax evasion.

Elbert J. Hubbard, Jr., 55, an executive of the American Pulley Co., Fort Wayne, pleaded guilty to evasion of $4,012 in taxes.

Federal Judge Walter J. LaBuy said he levied a fine in lieu of a prison sentence because of Hubbard's poor health.

Hubbard was charged with evasion of taxes on $11,703 in unreported income from the sale of steel scrap in 1952 and 1953.

Federal authorities said Hubbard was president of the Hubbard Spool Co., Gary, Ind., until he sold it in 1953 to the American Pulley Co. and became executive vice president of the Fort Wayne firm.

Knapp Is Certified Grade C Operator

Harry Knapp has been certified as a grade C operator by the Indiana sewage and industrial wastes association, Oral H. Hert, secretary of the certification committee, announced today. Knapp successfully completed a written test and meets all other requirements.

The association has recently adopted a program to encourage the voluntary certification of Indiana sewage works operators, and in one year 102 operators have been certified in various degrees. The type of certification depends on the type of plant in which the worker is employed.

Both Parties Hold County Conventions

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — The biennial Indiana political party reorganizations began today with a series of county conventions in all of the state's 92 counties.

A total of 4,299 precinct committees from each party, plus 4,299 vice committees appointed by the committees who were elected at the primaries last Tuesday, met in separate Democratic and Republican conventions in county seat cities this afternoon.

In each case, they will elect a county chairman and vice chairman.

The new county chairmen and vice chairmen will meet in congressional district sessions next week to select district officers. The district chairmen and vice chairmen, who make up the membership of the state committees, will meet later in the week to reorganize on a state level.

The outcome of today's county conventions may have a lot to do with whether there are any changes in the state chairmanships next week.

Most observers believe, however, that Democratic chairman Charles E. Skillen and Republican chairman Edwin W. Beaman will be re-elected.

Republican district meetings will be held Tuesday, May 10, at Gary, Winamac, LaPorte, Fort Wayne, Marion, Crawfordsville, Bloomington, Huntingburg, Austin, Rushville and Indianapolis. The state committee meeting will be held Wednesday, May 11.

Democratic district meetings will be held Wednesday at places yet to be selected, with the state meeting following Thursday.

Wisconsin Lashed By Snows, Rains

United Press International

Heavy snows and rains lashed Wisconsin Friday and the state's rivers responded by rising ominously toward new flood crests.

The Wisconsin River was repelled out of its banks at Merrill, Portage and Wausau and observers predicted a crest three feet above flood level along the lower Pecoscania.

Several highways were reported under water and state police warned of hazardous driving from two inches of slushy snow on roads.

New tornadoes struck near Theodore, Ala., and about 10 miles south of Mobile, Ala., early today, apparently inflicting extensive property damage. The twisters followed on the heels of tornadoes which wrought death and destruction to a widespread area of the South and Southwest this week.

Meanwhile, three midwest states braced for threatened tornadoes which didn't come.

Tornado warnings went up Friday night for parts of southern Illinois and northeast Illinois, southwest lower Michigan and northwest Indiana.

The warning was lifted early today with only one funnel cloud reported. That lone twister whirled close to Chester, Ill., but did not touch ground.

High winds smashed communications lines in Crawford County, in southern Illinois, and toppled a tree across a highway near Mount Carmel, Ill.

Four inches of rain drove small creeks from their banks in Iowa. The artesian well at Elkader, Iowa, overflowed for the first time in more than 20 years.

Drenching thunderstorms struck Louisiana, scene of some of the spring's worst weather. New Orleans reported 2.35 inches of rain and Baton Rouge had an even two inches.

Temperatures cascaded as much as 25 degrees as cold fronts moved into Wisconsin, eastern Iowa and parts of central Texas.

The U.S. Weather Bureau predicted more showers and thunderstorms today from extreme northern Florida through the eastern Tennessee Valley into parts of lower Michigan and eastward to southern New England and most of the Atlantic Coast.

An investigation was ordered to determine whether the missing night watchman, Yosaburo Yamamoto, perished in the blast.

Hoffa Launches New Political Machine

CHICAGO (UPI) — Teamsters President James R. Hoffa Friday night launched his union's new political action wing before 12,000 wildly cheering members.

"Just as sure as we have organized over 1,600,000 workers, we will have a political machine that will treat the politicians as they treat us," Hoffa told the giant rally.

"We will use whatever funds are necessary to let our political action committee let you know what is happening, and tell you when you are being brainwashed and controlled as robots," he said.

"We will fight this to the end," Hoffa took the occasion to label the Landrum-Griffith labor reform bill "dishonest and corrupt" and Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) "a man born to the silk, the silver and the gold—a young millionaire who tries to kid you."

A third of the crowd which jammed had drifted away before Hoffa finished his 70-minute speech. But the rest chanted "No! No!" when the labor leader said:

"They would have you believe that your union is run by racketeers. They would have you believe that Hoffa is controlled by racketeers."

The rally marked the kickoff of the Teamsters Volunteers in Politics, described by union officials as a nationwide move to elect friends of labor to Congress.

TVIP is the political educational arm of a drive announced in the April issue of the union magazine. The drive aims at encouragement of registration and voting among union members.

NOON EDITION

MOSCOW (UPI) — Premier Nikita Khrushchev said today the pilot of a U.S. plane shot down in Soviet territory May 1 is alive and will be put on trial because he confessed he was on a spy mission 1,300 miles inside Russia.

Khrushchev said the American civilian pilot, Francis C. Powers, 30, Albany, Ga., confessed he had left the U.S. Air Force base at Injirik, Turkey, and was flying all the way across the Soviet Union to Norway to spy on Russian defenses.

The premier exhibited what he said were aerial photographs taken by Powers and said the pilot was equipped with suicide weapons but refused to use them.

Other Nations "Accomplices"

Khrushchev told the Supreme Soviet (parliament) the espionage mission was "in preparation for war in the future." He said Turkey, Pakistan and Norway were "proved accomplices" of the United States in a hostile act against the Soviet Union.

"The Americans have been caught red-handed," Khrushchev said, "a poor preparation for the summit and for President Eisenhower's visit to the Soviet Union."

Butler, whose outspoken comments have stirred controversy in his own party, said his action will "make some Democrats happy."

Robs Supermarket, Escapes With $1,500

SULLIVAN, Ind. (UPI) — A gunman wearing a faded red jacket and a baseball cap held up a supermarket here Friday night and escaped with about $1,500 in cash.

Police said the man, armed with a .32-caliber revolver, walked into the Falconburg IGA store, obtained the money at gunpoint and fled.

A short time later, a car was found abandoned in a ditch about one mile south of here. In it, officers found a gun and a jacket which matched the description of the one worn by the bandit.

"That reminds me, I am taking to Khrushchev—if I go—a new boat that has no propeller. A jet operation that just pushes water and air through the boat."

After news bulletins of the President's remark were flashed around the world, White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty let them stand. He declined to put any interpretation on the President's statement. Eisenhower was aware he was surrounded by newsmen when he spoke.

Khrushchev lashed out bitterly at the United States Thursday in one portion of his speech to the Supreme Soviet, after claiming that the Soviet Union had shot down a U.S. plane which allegedly violated the air space of Russian Armenia.
