Ike To Brief Sen. Kennedy

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI)—President Eisenhower today prepared to formally offer presidential candidate John F. Kennedy and his running mate top-deck foreign affairs briefings but it was clear he would exclude intelligence fill-ins for Democratic go-betweens.

The President scheduled an afternoon meeting here with his deputy assistant, Gerald Morgan, to work out the method of providing Kennedy and Democratic Vice Presidential Candidate Lyndon Johnson authoritative information on the "international scene."

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said Sunday night, after talking with Eisenhower, that the formal offer would go forward "within a day or two."

Victim of "Misunderstanding" Hagerty said Kennedy was the victim of a "misunderstanding" when he assumed Saturday in Los Angeles that the offer already had been made.

The press secretary also left little, if any, doubt that the President will not agree to Kennedy's announced idea of having former Illinois Gov. Adlai Stevenson and Connecticut Representative Chester Bowles receive these "briefings" for him.

Eisenhower plans, Hagerty said, to offer briefings by a "responsible official of the Central Intelligence Agency." The President envisages briefing on the basis he received in 1952 and Stevenson in 1956. These were "solo" deals, with no aides present or acting as liaison men.

"Happy to Participate" Kennedy said in Hyannisport, Mass., where he is on vacation, that he and Johnson "will be happy to participate in any confidential briefings the President or his administrative officers may suggest."

He made it clear that he had named Stevenson and Bowles as his liaison men with the White House with the knowledge that only he and Johnson could personally have access to the intelligence briefing.

Kennedy said he and Johnson wanted to take part in the briefings and he emphasized that "they desire to cooperate in every way during this period with the President."

Watermelon Supper Winds Up FFA Tour The Adams Central FFA members toured two members' farms Friday, ending up with a watermelon supper at the Daniel Lantz farm.

At the Arlen Gerber farm the young men examined the hog project, the five-acre corn plot, and the variety plots. At the Lantz farm, Junior Lantz showed them his steer project. A total of 17 boys made the tour.

Highway Blocked By Railroad Car The sheriff's department was called to the Adams-Alken county line Sunday night as a railroad car was blocking the road. The car was being moved on the Pennsy railroad when it got away, coasted down the track and jumped the track, coming to rest on the roadway, splitting the county line. Deputy Charles Arnold and Fort Wayne authorities set out flares and guided traffic around the car.

Youth Found Guilty, Sentence Postponed Leon G. Hey, 19, Willshire, route 1, was found guilty of malicious trespassing in city court this morning but his case was continued for two weeks, at which time he will be fined and possibly sentenced.

Hey was the youth who tore down part of the wall at the Drive-in theater July 9. After the accident he left the scene but was caught a few days later when his car was found in the barn at his home stripped of the damaged parts.

Defense Loses Move In Morgano Trial

KENTLAND, Ind. (UPI)—The defense lost a move today for further delay in the trial of Tommy Morgano, 60, Gary, on charges he tried to bribe a Porter county vice and crime rights.

Morgano's trial opened this morning in Newton Circuit Court here, where it was sent on a change of venue.

But before selection of jurors began, Morgano asked for a postponement in order to call Albert Steele, a Porter county carnival operator, as a witness.

State's attorneys, however, objected. They said Morgano had had enough time to bring in Steele.

Circuit Judge Russell Gordon of Monticello overruled the motion.

Thirty-two prospective jurors were in the courtroom as the trial started. By noon, however, preliminaries and early questioning of the panel had taken most of the time and no jury was selected.

Young Farm Worker Drowned In Wabash

HUNTINGTON, Ind. (UPI)—A young farm worker from Arkansas drowned in the Wabash River southeast of here Saturday as he was looking for a place to fish and swim. The victim was Eli Hampton, 26, Magnolia, Ark. Authorities said Hampton slipped into the water below a dam at Markle as he attempted to cross the river with several companions. Hampton was working as a tomato picker at the Doyle Pusfall produce farm.

Hold Man For Death Of Elderly Father

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UPI)—St. Joseph county authorities held a New Carlisle man today in the slaying of his elderly father, who was bludgeoned to death with a rolling pin late Saturday before the horrified eyes of his invalid wife.

The victim was Samuel F. Butts, 86, New Carlisle. The body was discovered by Butts' son, Morell, 48, when he returned home from work Saturday night.

Butts' other son, Howard, 56, was picked up at Michigan City on a public intoxication charge and taken to the county jail here. He was not charged formally with the murder, however.

State Police said the old man died of multiple skull fractures inflicted by a rolling pin while his wife, Edith Mae, 80, looked helplessly on. Authorities said Mrs. Butts, who is unable to talk, could give them little information concerning the slaying.

Howard Butts confessed the slaying Sunday, police said. "I don't know why I did it," officers quoted him as saying. "A feeling came over me."

Even if more sisters were available, there would be no place for them to live until the new convent is completed.

—Moroccan troops wearing the blue helmet and arm band of the United Nations were dispatched from Leopoldville to Matadi, at the mouth of the Congo, which mutinous, Congolese troops seized 10 days ago from the Belgians.

—U.N. troops from Tunisia and Ghana took up position in Leopoldville between Belgian paratroopers and Congolese soldiers.

—Unconfirmed reports said the Polish freighter Stettin had arrived off the mouth of the Congo River with a cargo of 300 tons of Communist arms; Belgian troops took over the islands of Bula and Bamba, presumably to try to intercept the reported arms shipment. These reports were questioned by observers in Poland, who noted that Congo is not a normal stop for Polish ships.

—The Soviet Union announced it was sending 10,000 tons of food including 1,000 tons of Cuban sugar to the Congo by plane and ship. The United States is supplying 18,000 tons of food.

—The British Foreign Office announced in London it had received a request for recognition of Katanga, the mineral-rich province which announced its secession from the Congo Republic. The situation in Katanga was complicated by claims the assembly had "unanimously" approved independence for Katanga and by reports two members of the central Congo government had been arrested at the Elisabethville airport.

—Brussels. He was recalled after the Russian ambassador to Belgium rejected a Belgian note as unacceptable because it contained expressions "offending the Soviet government." Recall of the ambassador was just one step short of breaking off diplomatic relations.

A Leopoldville dispatch disclosed today that Andre Rijckmans, son of the former governor-general of the Congo, had been shot by rebel Congolese troops.
