Why the Rest of the World Hates Us

Roy Kalver and the editor were talking about foreign affairs Monday afternoon, and he suggested some public discussion of one of our greatest problems — just why does the rest of the world seem to hate us?

Foreign affairs are funny. Like politics, strange bedfellows keep turning up. Democratic countries are allied with dictators; socialist countries with capitalistic countries; black with white, Christian with pagan.

Trade is the big reason. To get the millions of tons of goods which we need each year, it is necessary to trade with every country. Some of us were recently surprised to find out just how much we purchase from the Congo, and what they buy from us.

This goes on, year after year, quietly, without us knowing a thing about it.

So, we depend on world trade. But trade depends on stable governments. We cannot obtain goods if chaos, civil war, revolution, or civil disturbance prevent it. Roads must be good; railroads, airports, must be constructed.

All this takes government. Our government protects our companies that trade abroad. This is the key to the whole problem.

You see, our government, like every other government, is interested primarily in its own people, us. And we need, not freedom from the people of the Congo, or Cuba, or Saudi Arabia, or Israel, or Spain, or any other country — we need a stable government there.

So our government's primary interest abroad is to see that a stable government exists friendly to us in every country. If it does not, our country quietly brings economic pressure, like that taken against Nasser's Egypt, or Castro's Cuba.

The big disagreement between our government, and other peoples, is very simple. We, as individuals, are really more interested in ourselves than we are in foreign people. So, because of this self-interest, we permit our government to represent business abroad — the business for which we work, or in which we own stock, or which our friends and neighbors own.

But the people in those foreign countries do not see that. They may be living in squalor — no food, no jobs, poor houses, no farmland. They may lack religious freedom to worship as they choose.

They blame their government for this. They do not care about trade, because it does not profit them. They want change. But they do not know how to run a stable government without fighting, bickering, and interrupting trade, so our government fears them.

And these downtrodden people do not see us as sympathetic men and women — they see us as our government — keeping dictators in power over them, and preventing them from obtaining what we already have — political, religious, and economic freedom.

That's why the rest of the world hates us. When every nation learns to accept their Christian responsibility, and put up with a little disruption of trade so the masses of the people can enjoy the freedom which we firmly believe is every man's God-given right, — only then will nations respect one another with brotherly love.

Injured Woman Is Rescued By Copter

EAGLE, Colo. (UPI) — A 24-year-old Missouri woman, critically injured and paralyzed in the crash of a light plane Sunday afternoon, was rescued by helicopter early today from rugged mountain country near here.

The woman's husband, Dr. Ellis Lynn Shuts, St. Joseph, had summoned help Monday. He and two other men on the plane were injured less seriously.

An Air Force helicopter from Lowry Air Force Base in Denver airlifted Mrs. Shuts off a rainy plateau and took her to Eagle, where she was transferred to a C47 to be flown into Denver.

Rain and low clouds had threatened to delay the rescue, but Federal Aviation Agency official said the weather cleared up suddenly and the rescuers decided to go ahead.

Mrs. Shuts was injured seriously but rescuers said she rested well all night. It rained off and on throughout the night. An Air Force doctor and a ground party stayed with her.

Shuts, 24, walked 20 miles after the crash to a ranch home to get aid. He reached the ranch Monday afternoon, suffering scratches, shock and exhaustion.

A rescue squad was dispatched immediately to the scene. The two other injured men, Dr. A.W. Blue, St. Joseph, pilot of the single engine Piper tri-pacer, and T.L. Pursley, Nevada, Mo., were removed and hospitalized early today in Glenwood Springs, Colo.

Pursley was reported suffering multiple abrasions, and Dr. Blue was suffering lacerations and a possible fractured leg. Both were in good condition.

Shuts, near collapse from the long hike through the mountain wilderness, fell into a deep sleep after pin-pointing the crash scene for searchers.

Shuts said the crash occurred "when we ran into stormy weather." He said the going was "pretty tough" but that he was driven by worry about his wife and the other survivors.

The plane crashed shortly after taking off from Eagle on a flight to Provo, Utah. The four had left St. Joseph for a San Francisco vacation, and had been delayed at Akron in eastern Colorado while an engine valve was repaired earlier Sunday.

Girl Fatally Hurt As Auto Hits Tree

MARION, Ind. (UPI) — Susan Wood, 17, Matthews, died in a hospital early today, a few hours after an automobile in which she was riding went out of control on a gravel road and struck a tree. Injured were Phillip Creek, 18, Gaston, the driver; Davis Monroe, 16, Matthews, and his brother Ronnie, 13.

State Republicans Plan Press Bureau

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — The Indiana Republican Editorial Association today announced establishment of a press bureau to serve during the fall election campaign.

President Menno I. Lehman said the bureau will work closely with the GOP State Committee and under the direction of James T. Neal, Noblesville publisher and committee secretary.

Daughterly Valuation
 When the assessor first visited Andrew Daugherty at his residence (Section 8, Root Twp.), Mr. Daugherty was asked to place a value on his log house, 18 by 20 feet covered with clapboards, which he had chopped out of the logs himself. He truthfully replied "one dollar and fifty cents."

Indians Leave
 By the year 1873 the white settlers of Adams county saw the red cloud upon their real estate almost completely lifted.

It was fitting that the Miami Indians should be the last Indians to leave Indiana as a tribe or nation. At one time they owned or claimed all of what is now Indiana and about half of Ohio. By a series of treaties with the government between 1795-1840, they granted away all their remaining lands in Indiana with a few exceptions and agreed to leave for new lands in Kansas within five years.

It is said that the Indians left no enduring marks of their civilization in Indiana—that they simply passed away leaving no trace. But they have left their names firmly fixed on Hoosier waters. Nearly all of the Indiana lakes, rivers, and even creeks have significant Indian names in two or more languages. For example: St. Mary's—"mah-may-wah-se-pe-way"—or Sturgeon Creek is one Indian name. Indiana itself suggests lang of the Indians. These place names are colorful reminders of our first Americans. A poet has said, "Their name is written on your waters, ye may not wash it out."

Almost any Root township resident can prove the existence of the red man in these parts by the relics he has uncovered. One of the best collections of the township belongs to Gerald Grandstaff. Mrs. Sherman Kunkel has told us about relics uncovered near an old cemetery on their farm at a place close to the St. Mary's river. She has a very interesting pipe which was found on their farm, perhaps of French design. Mrs. Ralph Rice reports that the deep gully on the road east of the Monmouth school has been the source of innumerable arrowheads.

These relics are uncovered year after year as additional reminders that their names are on the land, a sort of memorial to the passing of the Miami Indians from Indiana.

Nuclear-Powered Cruiser Is Delayed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Construction of the first U.S. nuclear-powered cruiser is 18 months behind schedule. But the Navy may convert its embarrassment into a solid gain by using the delay to arm the ship with Polaris missiles.

It was learned today that the atomic cruiser Long Beach, once scheduled to join the fleet at the end of this year, now is slated to be commissioned in June, 1962. The estimated cost of the ship, heavily armed with anti-aircraft and anti-submarine missiles, has increased from $250 million to $300 million.

A proposal is now under consideration in the Pentagon to delay completion of the ship somewhat longer and add 16 Polaris missiles to its armament. If this is approved, the Long Beach would become the first surface ship equipped to hurt long-range ballistic missiles at strategic enemy targets.

The Long Beach, under construction at Bethlehem Steel's Quincy, Mass., yard, also would become one of the most expensive U.S. ships. Adapting it to handle the Polaris would add an estimated additional $50 million to its cost, making it considerably more expensive than the largest conventionally powered aircraft carriers.

The Polaris missile was designed for launching from submarines and the first two missile subs, George Washington and Patrick Henry, will go to sea late this year.

But the Navy has made no secret of its wish that the Long Beach could be likewise armed. The Defense Department wanted to see the Polaris work in submarines first.

The delay is attributed to the six-month strike in the Bethlehem shipyards this year, last year's steel strike and technical changes that always are made in a new type ship.

Colleges Of State Plan Pupil Census

CRAWFORDSVILLE, Ind. (UPI) — Wabash College President Byron K. Trippett announced today that Hoosier colleges and universities will conduct a comprehensive college student census at the beginning of the new school year next month.

Trippett, also president of the Indiana Conference of Higher Education, said the census will involve 45 institutions around the state and their branches with a combined enrollment of more than 100,000 college students.

Trippett said each student registering for the fall semester will be asked to fill out a blank calling for data on high school graduation, college level and course of study, distance from home to college, source of financial assistance, whether planning to teach, and what factors led to his decision to attend the particular college.

Trippett pointed out the conference has cooperated in studies of enrollment, salaries, needs and resources of its members during the past 16 years.

"These studies have been used to plan for the future of both public and private education in the state," said Trippett, "with a view toward assuring the qualified high school graduate the opportunity for college attendance."

Trippett said the conference believes the census will come up with valuable information to assist in further defining this role. The data will be tabulated by Raymond S. Butler, assistant professor of education at Indiana, and Wendell W. Wright, dean emeritus and professor in the I.U. School of Education.

They expressed the hope the census will include about 25,000 students enrolled in private trade, industrial and commercial schools.

With the information, Butler said, the conference will be able to plan for needed future expansion of present facilities and the costs to assure the residents of Indiana adequate post-high school education at the least possible cost.

20 Years Ago Today

Hoffa Donates To Campaign To Beat Landrum

By WILLIAM J. EATON
 United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Teamsters' President James R. Hoffa said today he has personally contributed $1,000 in an effort to block re-election of Rep. Phil M. Landrum, D-Ga., co-author of the 1959 labor control law.

The truck union leader also disclosed that Rep. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., the other co-author, has been marked for opposition by Michigan Teamsters.

Hoffa told United Press International that the union is supporting Quill Sammon, Landrum's opponent in Georgia's Sept. 14 Democratic primary election.

Asked if he had contributed anything, he replied: "You can bet on that . . . $1,000."

In addition, he said, international vice presidents of the union and business agents of four locals in Landrum's congressional district are voluntarily donating to Sammon's campaign fund.

Hoffa also reiterated his opposition to Democratic presidential nominee John F. Kennedy, whom he described as a major architect of the "Kennedy-Landrum-Griffin" law.

"Kennedy is not fit to be president because he doesn't understand the problems of workers," the Teamster chief said. "A worker can't go home on Friday night without enough money to pay his bills and get a million dollars from his father."

Hoffa is virtually the only nationally known labor leader who has come out against Kennedy, who is expected to win AFL-CIO endorsement this Friday.

Martin Sprunger To Attend Sales Meet

Martin Sprunger, owner and operator of the Sprunger Implement Co. in Decatur, will fly to Dallas, Tex., next Monday to attend the one-day sales meeting for the some 4,500 independent businessmen who have John Deere dealer franchises in the United States and Canada.

To accommodate the huge crowd to view the more than 230 tractors and 270 pieces of equipment, the Dallas memorial auditorium, the Texas state fairgrounds and the Cotton Bowl will be utilized for various parts of the meeting.

Coffee Klatches In Kennedy Campaign

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. John F. Kennedy plans to take his version of the Boston Tea Party to the nation during his presidential campaign.

The Democratic presidential candidate had outstanding success in his home state of Massachusetts in previous political campaigns by giving tea and coffee receptions for women voters.

Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, wife of Kennedy's running mate, and Kennedy's sister-in-law, Mrs. Robert Kennedy, scheduled a new conference today to discuss a pilot series of "coffee klatches" for women voters.

Kennedy's wife, Jacqueline, does not plan to take part in the series of receptions. She is expecting the couple's second child this fall.

Kennedy's election to the Senate in 1962 was attributed partly to the success of statewide tea and coffee parties given by his mother and sisters in Massachusetts.

The Democratic standard bearer defeated then-Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge in that race. Lodge, the present Republican vice presidential nominee, later was quoted as blaming those "damned tea parties" for his defeat.

Kennedy planned to stick close to the Senate today to participate in showdown votes on proposals to provide medical care for the aged.

He canceled a scheduled appearance before the Veterans of Foreign Wars convention in Detroit but planned to send a telegram to the gathering.
