Consulate Attaché Killed In Accident

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (UPI)—Dr. Jack R. Gossen, 41, Clay City physician and commander of a unit of the Indiana Air National Guard with the rank of lieutenant colonel, was killed near midnight Thursday when his car smashed into a truck.

The accident happened on U.S. 40 a mile west of Seelyville. Police said the truck had just pulled onto the highway from a filling station. The truck driver was John S. Hennessy, 30, Seelyville.

H. P. Schmitt, Dick Macklin, Boyd Rayer, Pat Costello, and Ted Schieferstein, all of Indianapolis, were driving on the highway when they converged on Mobutu's home Thursday.

As some of the soldiers left Camp Leopold II, where Mobutu's split-level villa is located, they vowed they would be back today armed.

Another 700 soldiers who started to march on Mobutu's home Thursday were talked out of it by their officers.

Despite his claim to the contrary, the pay march indicated that Mobutu apparently is not in full control of his army.

Some of his soldiers are dissatisfied because they feel their pay is insufficient. This was one of the reasons these same soldiers mutinied on July 4 and plunged the Congo into utter chaos.

Mullin had served in Johannesburg, South Africa, before coming to Morocco. He is survived by his widow, an 8-year-old son and a daughter born earlier this week.

In the end, the United Nations had to foot the bill and on Sept.
