

Frauhiger Fund Is Over $1,000 Mark

Donations received during the past week have taken the Harry Frauhiger fund over $1,000, as the fund is now at $1,053.80. Another "long distance" contribution was received from Mr. and Mrs. Noah Schrock of San Diego, Calif.

Mrs. Frauhiger reported that Harry had a birthday Friday, Oct. 21 and received over 183 cards from his many friends. She also explained that the Hagerman employees, where her husband formerly worked and who have already contributed over $300, bought her husband a portable television set for his room at the hospital.

She stated that it will probably be around Christmas or after before Harry will be able to return home. Some skin grafting has to be done yet, and this process requires quite a bit of time. "Harry is in very good spirits though," she explained.

Nixon's Brother Denies Accusation

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Donald Nixon denied Sunday night that his brother, Vice President Richard M. Nixon, had ever had any financial interest in his company, Nixon's, Inc., or that he had ever asked his brother for government favors.

Donald Nixon accused columnist Drew Pearson of trying to smear the GOP candidate by attempting to link him with a $205,000 loan Donald received.

"I am deeply grieved and concerned to think that any individual would use my business misfortune to influence the outcome of the presidential election," he said.

Nixon, replying to charges Pearson made Wednesday, denied that the Republican presidential candidate ever purchased any stock or had "any financial interest in my company directly or indirectly."

Nixon said he received the $205,000 loan in 1956 through his long-time friend, attorney Frank J. Waters, who acted for financier Howard Hughes. He denied ever having met Hughes or ever attempting to get special government favors for Hughes.

"I have never asked my brother to do anything for me or anyone else in the government," Nixon said. "And if I did ask I knew he would refuse."

Pearson had charged in his Washington Merry-Go-Round column that matters involving Hughes' companies pending before the federal government received better treatment after the loan. At least one agency has publicly denied the accusation.

Pearson said in answer to Nixon's statement that "according to the records of the Los Angeles Corporations Commission (Richard M. Nixon) was an applicant for stocks purchased in his brother's company."

"The Howard Hughes financial empire, including Hughes Aircraft, TWA and Hughes Tool had business with the U.S. government at every turn from mail contracts, airplane contracts to air routes," Pearson said.

Donald Nixon said the whole transaction had been concluded two years ago.

Pearson claimed the property used to secure the $205,000 loan was worth only $60,000 (a claim Pearson repeated after Nixon's statement was released), but Nixon said the property actually was worth more than the loan.

Preachers Ignore Political Issue

United Press International

Spot checks by UPI indicated that a substantial majority of the nation's Protestant ministers conducted their usual worship services on Reformation Sunday and made no reference to the religious issue in the presidential campaign.

Some Protestant clergymen did warn from the pulpit against election of a Roman Catholic as president. Others preached sermons against bigotry. But according to the UPI survey, most of the ministers ignored the political issue.

The last Sunday in October traditionally is observed by some Protestant bodies, notably Lutherans, as the anniversary of the occasion on which Martin Luther nailed his famous "95 theses" on the door of a church at Wittenberg, Germany. Luther's action was the spark which ignited the Protestant Reformation.

Some fundamentalist Protestant groups had urged ministers to use this year's observance as an occasion for telling their congregations that religious freedom would be jeopardized if the Roman Catholic church achieved political power in America.

Sponsors of the idea denied that it was intended as an eleven-hour blow at the candidacy of Sen. John F. Kennedy, a Catholic. But that was the interpretation placed on it by the leaders of several major Protestant denominations, who urged their churches to have no part in turning Reformation Sunday into a "political rally."

The controversy that broke out in advance of the observance apparently made many clergymen wary of saying anything that could be interpreted as politicking from the pulpit. The sermons and prayers in a large majority of Protestant churches checked by UPI reporters were conspicuously unrelated to the campaign or to Catholicism.

The ministers who did discuss the presidential campaign took widely varied approaches to the subject.

Modern Etiquette By Roberta Lee

Q. I ran into an acquaintance on the street and, try as I could, I was unable to recall her name. Then another friend joined us, and I was at a loss to make an introduction. What can one do in a case like this?

A. All you can do is pause before starting the introduction and say, "I'm so very sorry, but for the moment, I cannot recall your name."

Q. Is it proper for a girl to light a man's cigarette for him?

A. Yes, if she has just lighted her own and her match is still burning or her lighter is still available. Otherwise, the man should always light his own.

Q. To settle a discussion we had recently, will you please tell me just what are the prime purposes of a dinner napkin?

A. To wipe the lips before drinking from the waterglass, so that the glass will not be smeared—and to wipe the fingers.

Q. I am very fond of my daughter-in-law, who will soon have her first baby. Would it be all right for me to give a stork shower for her?

A. You can do this only if friends and relatives have suggested it. Otherwise, you can hardly take it upon yourself to ask other persons to buy gifts for a member of your own family.

Q. Would it be all right for a private secretary, who has worked for a man for seven years, to give him some sort of birthday present?

A. If she thinks that much of him, yes. A small item for his desk or office would be appropriate.

Q. Are the folded thank-you cards proper for acknowledging wedding gifts?

A. A folded card with "thank you" imprinted on its face is all right—but a handwritten personal message must be added.

Q. When a man asks a girl what kind of flowers she would prefer for her evening dress, should she make any suggestions, especially if the flowers she likes are expensive?

A. It is always more tactful in this case merely to tell him the color of her dress, and let him choose appropriate flowers. The florist can help him there.

Q. I have just received an invitation to the golden wedding anniversary reception of an aunt and uncle, and the invitation has "R.s.v.p." on it. Would it be proper for me to phone my acceptance?

A. This would be quite all right.

Q. When placing a figured lamp in front of a picture window in the living room, which way should the figure-decoration face?

A. The decoration should face the room.

Q. When a man is living in a strange town and is marrying a girl who lives in that town, whom should he ask to be his ushers?

A. He may first ask any of his friends in his hometown, if he thinks they might make the trip—or choose from the bride's circle of friends.

Q. Should a doctor be addressed in the salutation of a letter as "Dear Doctor Porter," or merely as "Dear Doctor?"

A. Neither is correct. The word "doctor" should be abbreviated, the proper form being, "Dear Dr. Porter."

Q. I know it is not a "must," but if a girl wishes to give her fiancé an engagement gift, what should it be?

A. Usually some pieces of jewelry—cuff links, key chain, tie clasp, cigarette case, or lighter.

IT IS IN GIVING THAT WE RECEIVE—This happy scene of a girl in Hyderabad, India, giving a cup of milk to her brother must be repeated many times over if all the underfed children in the world are to be helped. And so the well-fed children in the U.S. are asked to donate the change they collect on their Halloween trick-or-treat safaris to the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF) to help buy that milk. The nationwide drive will be conducted through church groups and schools.

Baby Boy Is Born To Queen Of Iran

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — The queen of Iran gave birth to a plump and healthy son today, presenting her husband the shah and a joyous nation with an heir to the 2,500-year-old Peacock throne.

The 41-year-old shah, beside himself with happiness, danced a jig and spoke to the infant in baby talk.

His 22-year-old, dark-haired queen, tears streaming from her eyes, sighed happily from her hospital bed, "I've done it, I've done it."

Throughout this Moslem nation of 20 million the people started a wild celebration. They cheered in the streets, slaughtered sheep and cattle and shot guns in the air.

The palace proclaimed a three-day national holiday.

Waited 20 years

For more than 20 years the nation had waited for this moment. The requirement that the Peacock throne must be inherited by a male had cost Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi two previous marriages and at times threatened to topple the government.

His first marriage, to Princess Fawzia, sister of ex-King Farouk of Egypt, ended in divorce when they had only one child, a daughter, now only a year younger than the shah's present wife. His second marriage, to the half-German half-Persian Soraya, was terminated by divorce when it failed to produce any offspring in seven years.

The shah married Farah Diba, his present queen, last Dec. 23. She is the daughter of a wealthy Iranian family.

Doctors said the birth was a normal and easy delivery for the queen.

The husky infant's weight was announced as 4 kilograms—or 8 pounds 13 ounces.

Normal and Healthy

A hospital communique said the baby was "normal and quite healthy." It said the birth—under anesthetic and aided by forceps—was painless.

The infant, who will be named Reza Cyrus Ali, was born at

London Gold Price Drops To $36 Today

LONDON (UPI) — The price of gold dropped today to $36 an ounce, 15 cents under Friday's price.

It was the second lowest figure since Oct. 20 when speculators started a rush that sent the price soaring to $40.80.

The new price still was $1 higher than the U.S. fixed price of $35 an ounce.
