OUR PREACHER Says

The only thing we have that can't be taken away from us without our consent is our character which is the sum total of all our essential qualities and our moral constitution. If a man's character changes, it is because he intentionally changes it or weakly allows outside influences to change it for him. Character represents the sum of all the moral choices we make and too many wrong choices can break down our moral fiber.
The more difficult our tasks, the heavier our burdens, the greater our obligations, the more necessary is our dependence on prayer. We need strength — and prayer gives strength of spirit. We need courage — and prayer gives courage. We need faith — and prayer strengthens faith. We need the divine presence — and prayer gives us the assurance that our Lord walks with us the paths of daily life. "Cast thy burden upon the Lord, and He shall sustain thee." So speaks the Word of Truth. Our tasks, our burdens, our obligations — to attempt them alone is to fail. To undertake them in the sustaining power of the great Burden-Bearer is to join the ranks of those who "overcome the world." Christian Observer.

A HAPPY HOME

Dr. Louis H. Evans, minister at large for the United Presbyterian church, has said: "Although this nation has been much more successful than others economically, we are fast receding. It was inevitable with our spiritual shallowness. The greatest area of recession has been in the American home, and when the home goes down, God always loses." The family is the most important influence in the life of an individual. It provides the seedbed for the development of spiritual maturity. Family experiences have great significance for the spiritual growth and development of family members. Family worship can and should be a part of these experiences. Although it is not always easy to find a regular time for family worship that will suit all members, a serious effort to solve the problems of time and place will be rewarded with a workable solution that can be of inestimable value to the well-being and happiness of the family.
