A Program For '62

New programs at the start of a new year are not unusual, unless the program is unique. The Decatur Democrat is starting a new program which will be unique in its approaches to a problem. We are planning to concentrate on "Decaturizing Decatur" in 1962.

There has been considerable comment, both in these columns and on Second street, about the lack of community drive and spirit in our town and area. Some of the comment has been exaggerated, because community spirit is not extinct in Decatur. But, community spirit is not what it could be in the Decatur area, either.

We feel that the local newspaper should help assume the leadership in getting that spirit of friendly cooperation up to the proper level.

We hope to do this in several ways. A portion of it will be done through stories that highlight the features of Decatur's existing assets; while we want to go forward, it is always good to know where we are before we start.

Part of this message will be put over by the Democrat continuing to highlight more local news stories that will inform the public as to the actions of various boards and committees. In any group of people, the most damaging results to any program come from a lack of communication, a lack of understanding.

A part of the message will be delivered by advertising — from merchants, industry and from the Democrat. These ads will sell a product we all manufacture, Decatur's own particular brand of good will.

And the final part of the message will come from the people of Decatur. Too many times, some person or group will see real or imaginary flaws in proposals, but fail to say anything about these flaws in public. If good things are to develop from the various projects around the city, these projects must be analyzed objectively from every angle, the wheat separated from the chaff, and the total program made to work for our area.

It all boils down to the fact that if we want a good, prosperous and progressive city, we have to think in terms bigger than ourselves.

There is no reason why the Decatur area cannot continue to grow and prosper at a faster rate. We have good people, good industries, good facilities and good spirit. All we need to do is blend them together in the proper balance and put in some hard work.

1962 can easily see the growth of a new attitude in our area. We are planning to have a part in the development of that attitude.

Herter Urges
Unified Stand
By U. S. Allies

PARIS (UPI) — Former Secretary of State Christian A. Herter called on the United States and its Allies today to "take a courageous act of faith by political leadership" and to create "a real community of Atlantic nations."

Herter delivered this appeal in a keynote address to the opening session of the "Atlantic Convention"—a 15-nation "brain trust" conference of 98 prominent citizens from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries.

Herter, one of the prime movers in organizing the Atlantic Convention session, was unanimously elected chairman.

The former secretary warned that maintenance of world peace depends more and more on establishment of a close knit Atlantic community, perhaps equipped with a permanent parliamentary body.

Herter declared "The destiny of the Atlantic nations lies in a greater unity. We should fulfill this destiny regardless of whether Soviets hostility waxes or wanes."

Prof. Georges Portmann, first vice president of the French senate who presided at the opening of the conference, called for creation of an elected parliamentary body as an official NATO institution.

He also expressed hope that the convention, which is scheduled to last two weeks, will issue a closing manifesto proclaiming a new "international of freedom."

"Until our nations put behind them the illusion that purely consultative relations are adequate in the nuclear era, real political progress will be blocked," Herter declared.

"I am confident this illusion is fading and we are witnessing not the possible end of Western civilization but the growing pains of its youth."

Cattle Trail Drive
Revived By Rancher

WINNER, S.D. (UPI) — Rancher Don Hight, who revived the 19th century trail drive to save $2,000, appeared today to have all but won his mid-winter $350,000 gamble.

Hight's 1,800 cattle had completed all but 17 miles of the history-making 70-mile walk from Westover, S.D., to the railroad at Winner.

However, the drive will not end today as had been expected. Instead, Hight will bed down his herd outside Winner tonight.

"We'll take them in Tuesday," he said, explaining the cattle should have a rest before going into the market. They were bedded down Sunday night on the Pete Olson ranch, 17 miles northwest of here.

Hight also said he didn't want to arrive at the Winner livestock auction today because Monday is the regular market day "and we want to avoid as much of the crowd as possible."

Edison Daughters, co-operator of the auction market, said the 1,100 breeder cows and 700 steers would make the drive the largest single one-day consignment in South Dakota history.

He said Winner consignments usually averaged 100 head and sometimes went as large as 500 head, but never approached in size the Hight drive.

Hight had said he would "deliver the cattle in good condition" when he set out at dawn Thursday from his Westover, S.D., ranch. But he was troubled by weather along the way and expressed concern for the safety of his herd on Saturday night when blizzard-like snows and 50-mile-an-hour winds hindered progress.

However, he said the herd came through the storm in good condition "and we didn't lose a hoof." The cattle were eased into a sheltered ravine that night and fed on 400 bales of borrowed hay.

Sunday night, a truck from Hight's ranch drove out to the Olson pastures with 500 bales of hay, and another 500 bales were to be delivered at the pre-selected stop tonight.

The auctioneer said cows and steers have been selling between $175 and $225 a head and estimated the value of Hight's herd

Jesse and Ira Carpenter, 50 and 59 years of age, respectively, each received a six months sentence to be served at the state penal farm, in city court Saturday morning.

A third brother, Fred, 47, was fined $10 and costs, totaling $27, and given a 30-day jail sentence. He was arrested for public intoxication.

Jesse Carpenter, cited for driving while under the influence, was fined $100 and costs, amounting to $118.75, and given the six-month sentence. Ira Carpenter was arrested for disorderly conduct, and fined $10 and costs, a total of $27.

Ira, who was fined in the local city court October 9, and also given a six months suspended sentence at that time, had his suspension revoked by Judge John B. Stults, and will also spend six months at the penal farm.

None of the three Carpenters was able to pay his fine, and thus, will also have to spend extra time.
