

Indianapolis Mayor Enters Senate Race

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI)—Indianapolis Mayor Charles H. Boswell, predicting a Democrat will "re-tire" Senator Capehart to his heavily subsidized farm" next November, formally announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for U.S. senator Saturday night.

Judging by the platform he proposed, the 52-year-old Boswell appeared to be a more conservative candidate than his chief Democratic rival, former House Speaker Birch E. Bayh Jr., Terre Haute.

Other Democratic senatorial nomination aspirants to oppose Republican Sen. Homer E. Capehart this year are Marion Mayor M. Jack Edwards and Appellate Court Judge John Gonas of South Bend.

The announcement was made here at a meeting attended by several hundred persons including Frank M. McHale, former national committeeman, and 11th District Chairman Albert DeLuse, both of Indianapolis.

Absences Noted

Observers noted the absence of a number of other prominent Hoosier Democrats, possibly on the theory that "it's too early to get committed for senator."

Included were Alex Campbell, Fort Wayne, national committeeman, who at first was billed as a speaker; Sen. Vance Hartke, former Gov. Henry F. Schricker and Governor Welsh, whose potent Statehouse patronage may well decide the party's senatorial nominee. A number of fellow mayors from over the state, however, were present.

Touching on foreign aid in his speech, Boswell said, "I believe in helping only those nations that actively support our fight against the ambitions of the Kremlin leaders."

Other conservative principles advocated by the mayor included: —Maintenance of a balanced federal budget and opposition to deficit spending.

—Modern and revised tax and depreciation laws.

—"Home rule" legislation to give local government more voice in solving local problems.

—New industry and defense contracts for Indiana.

—Relinquishing by the federal government of certain taxing powers to the state and local governments so that the local property tax can be reduced.

Boswell also urged resumption of nuclear testing in the atmosphere "if it is needed to maintain our edge as the world's strongest nation."

Seeks Independents

Capehart, now seeking his fourth term, at various times has advocated nearly all of the programs suggested by Boswell, who has indicated he will campaign for support of independent voters.

The importance of the independent voter was stressed by McHale in his remarks. The Boswell backers contend that he is the only Democratic leader who can carry vote-heavy Marion County and also minimize the "Indianapolis curse," the prejudice of outstate Democrats against an Indianapolis aspirant.

Valparaiso Couple Are Killed In Fire

VALPARAISO, Ind. (UPI)—George H. Bowers, 59, who nearly defeated House Republican leader Charles A. Halleck in the 1958 congressional elections, was killed today in a fire which also claimed the life of his wife.

Bowers, a Democrat who missed beating Halleck in a 2nd District congressional race by scarcely 6,000 votes, and his wife, Dorothy, 57, were victims of a fire which swept their $20,000 home in the suburbs of Valparaiso.

State police identified the victims. They said a fire alarm was telephoned to the Valparaiso operator by a male voice believed to be Bowers'. At the same time, the operator told police, the man was calling to his wife to get out of the house. Then the line went dead.

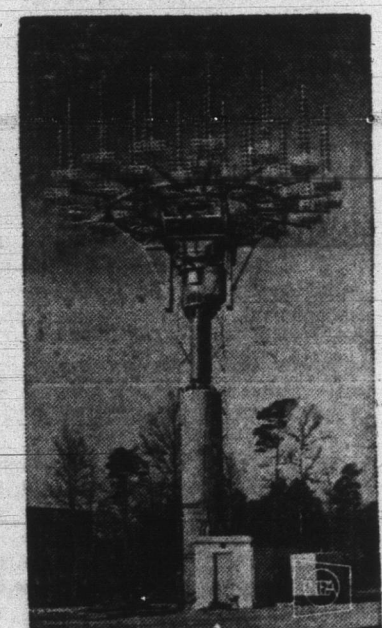

Firemen from Westville and Libertyville departments were called to fight the flames, which broke out shortly after 1 a.m. CST.

Firemen found Bowers' body near a bed. Two hours later, they found the body of Mrs. Bowers in the basement beneath the master bedroom where she apparently fell when the floor collapsed. Sparks from a burning log in the living room fireplace were blamed tentatively for the blaze.

The Bowers home was located about one-half mile from the intersection of U.S. 6 near Valparaiso.

Bowers, generally unknown in state politics before 1958, waged a major campaign to unseat Halleck, dean of the Indiana delegation in Congress where he has served since a special election in 1935.

In the 1958 off-year election, his 6,141-vote loss was one of the closest, if not the closest, margins by which Halleck ever won in the predominantly Republican district. Bowers ran against Halleck again in 1960 but did not make as good a showing.

Lead Fund-Raising Campaign Of IFYE

Larry Duff, Purdue University student from Hartford township, assisted by Connie Bergman of Root township, is chairman for Adams county of a state-wide fund raising campaign to send six Indiana 4-H club members to foreign countries under the IFYE program. This campaign is sponsored by the Purdue Collegiate 4-H club and by the Adams county extension office.

Under the international farm youth exchange program, six older youth from Indiana go to other countries where they actually work, play and live with foreign families. At the same time, similar young people from foreign countries are visiting in Indiana to learn about the way Hoosier farm families live.

The 1962 IFYE's are David Caldwell, Fayette county; George Loyd III, Floyd county; Bill Brown, Clay county; Lyle Gohn, Fulton county; Ann Thompson, Grant county; and Nancy Smith, Whitley county.

The following families of Adams county have been host families for inbound IFYE's: Mr. and Mrs. William Griffith, Mr. and Mrs. William Kohne, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Moser and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Koeneman.

Each year this IFYE program is financed by a campaign of this kind in the state from which the young people go. One-half of the $3,000 cost is paid by the National 4-H foundation, and the other $1,500 must be raised by contributions from Indiana people or organizations.

To date, Indiana has sent 44 IFYE's and has received 88 inbound IFYE's who have lived with 321 families.

Brunners Move In With Son's Family

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Brunner, who were burned out of their home at 620 Grant street Friday evening, temporarily moved in with a son, John Brunner, at 122 S. 8th street, Mrs. Wanda Oelberg, executive secretary of the Adams county Red Cross chapter, said today. The Brunners lost all of their home furnishings and clothes in the fire.

Some clothing has been obtained for the family, which has rented a home, and will try to get resettled as soon as they can. Anyone who would like to help them with furnishings for their home, or with clothing, may do so by bringing the gifts to the Red Cross office, or to the John Brunner home, telephone 3-4553. Clothing sizes are 18-18½ for Mrs. Brunner, and 40-44 for Brunner.

Television Wrecks Movie Star System

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Possibly or not, television has wrecked the movies' cherished star system, just as it has raised havoc with other filmland sacred cows.

Thanks to TV the word "star" in reference to a performer has become downright ludicrous.

In the salad days of flickers a star meant Mary Pickford, Doug Fairbanks, Rudolph Valentino. Even a score of years ago Clark Gable, Bette Davis, Gary Cooper were synonymous with stardom.

Once an actor reached that rarified eminence — and it took years — he resented an untitled newcomer being billed on the same screen as a star.

But everybody is a star on television — like an army with no privates, captains or colonels. Just generals.

Take Como Show

Take the Perry Como show. The TV blurb bills his program something like this:

"The Perry Como Show, starring Perry Como, Co - starring Cosmo Carter, Gladys Glutz. Also starring Phoebe Phipps and the Tanglefoot dancers. With special guest star Maurice Mandelbaum."

The situation is even worse on dramatic "specials" where everyone but the assistant makeup man is a star.

Consider the "stars" to be seen weekly in their own series. For instance John Ashley and Brian Kelly, a couple of clean - cut youngsters who star in "Straightaway." When Gloria Swanson appeared with them a few weeks back it seemed ridiculous for them to get star billing while Gloria (superstar before they were born) had to settle for the "special guest" category.

Television moguls deny the existence of a starless series.

One of the top five shows, "Bonanza," boasts four regular stars, Lorne Greene, Pernell Roberts, Dan Blocker and Mike London—all of whom were unknown two years ago.

In the beginning movies fell for TV's ersatz stars.

Gaffed Salmon

They put Liberace, George Gobel and other video regulars on the big screen and watched them lie there like gaffed salmon.

Movie audiences did not desert Marilyn Monroe, Frank Sinatra and Elizabeth Taylor for the new crop of stars. Gradually thick-headed movie - makers got the message: "TV stars ain't movie stars."

Then they decided to steal a page from the upstart medium and bill all picture players as stars. Thus, movie screens are filled with co-stars, also stars and special guest stars. Those stars accepting bit parts (a forbidden term) or supporting roles (never, never!) are now "cameo stars."

If you've ever been caught in a mob scene by a TV camera don't be ashamed to tell your grandchildren you once were a television star. There are hundreds of characters walking around Hollywood making the same claim—and with less time on the air than you have.
