Radicals, Left and Right

The other day the editorial writer rode to a meeting with a very prominent group of men from all parts of Adams county. On the way the conversation turned to the subject of education at our state universities. The question arose as to whether our universities should permit their professors full rein to promulgate their beliefs in a tax-supported institution, or whether they should be required to keep quiet on such subjects as were controversial, and pertained to beliefs, such as economics and religion.

The editor stated that he felt a university professor should be encouraged to stimulate thought by giving his own opinions — that a student should be encouraged to think about why he believes as he does, and be able to justify, at least to himself, his economic, political and religious philosophy.

The statement, and the implication that it might be all right to discuss socialism, totalitarianism, or agnosticism in a classroom, apparently estounded the crowd, and led to an abrupt period of silence.

Later that same day, the editor was privileged to hear a vice president of Purdue University, and that university's dean of agriculture, Earl Butz, speak. They touched on this same subject. And oddly enough, although both men are considered extremely conservative in their political, economic and religious views, both defended the right of a professor, speaking on a subject in which he is competent, to hold to any view that he can defend before his students.

Freedom of information, and the training of our young people to understand their own and others' points of view, is vital in a democratic republic. Young people who are not prepared to defend their own views, and strengthen them, through the exchange of ideas are ill prepared to enter our society.

Certain groups, of both the left and right wing, believe that the dissemination of information should be curtailed, and only "our" ideas should be permitted, all others being wrong. True conservatives, middle-of-the-roads, and liberals shy away from this point of view.

ADAMS CENTRAL HIGH

By Barbara Tinkham

Congratulations to the Bears! The Greyhounds were defeated by the Bears in the finals of the county tourney Saturday night, January 13, by a score of 12-30. The Greyhounds started off with a terrific first quarter but just couldn't keep up. We are proud of our runner-up trophy.

— A. C. H. S. —
Central's seniors made further plans for graduation last week by ordering their graduation announcements and their name cards.

— A. C. H. S. —
Central won the county 4-H and FFA livestock judging contest, with Gerald Tonner, Bill Tonner, Robert Kershner, and John Steffen making up the winning team. The participants judged six classes of livestock and gave oral reasons to the official judge on their placings of three classes. The winning team will compete in the LaGrange county district contest April 14. We also placed third in the dairy judging held recently. Art Ringier placed tenth for AC.

— A. C. H. S. —
The Greyhounds played Thursday night in the county tourney and defeated the Hartford Gorillas by a score of 51-49. Thus we were engaged to play in the semi-finals against Pleasant Mills. The Greyhounds defeated the Spartans to go on to the finals and become runner-up.

DECATUR CATHOLIC HIGH

By Iris L. Hebble

No more will "When are these classes coming?" be heard in the junior conversations. The rings are here, much to the owners' delight. As soon as the juniors show them off, everything will be back to normal again for a while.

— D. C. H. S. —
Five senior students journeyed to Fort Wayne last Saturday to take their scholastic aptitude tests. They were Theresa Buckley, John Kohne, Stephen Blythe, and Gerald H.D.M. They also took the "Writing Sample Test," an essay writing exercise of one hour duration, which will be sent to the college of their choice to supplement the English score. The SAT is used to predict how well students are likely to perform in college.

— D. C. H. S. —
Junior and senior English classes participated in the Fourteenth annual handicapped essay contest. The topic for this year is "The role of the community in the employment of the handicapped." The five best essays will be sent to the state employment bureau, Indianapolis. The best in the state will be sent to the president's committee, Washington, D. C., and judged for national honors.

— D. C. H. S. —
A "breathing spell" will be given this week end to both teachers and students. Both will need it, the students, to recuperate from the quarterly and semester test week; the teachers, to check the papers and prepare semester reports to the parents.

— D. C. H. S. —
The Decatur Catholic Commodores and students wish to congratulate the Bears for their victory in the Adams county basketball tournament. Good luck in representing Adams county in future basketball games.

— D. C. H. S. —
The student council for social activities held a short-but important meeting last Thursday to check on the accomplishments of this rather new organization.

Rah! Yea! Jackets! Yes, Decatur beat the Huntstowntown Wildcats 81-67, Tuesday, January 9, in the D. S. gym. Dennis Bollenbacher was the leading scorer with 24 points. He was followed by Bob Walters with 16, Al Townsend with 11, and Max Eichenauer with 10. Nice game, team!

— D.H.S. —
Congratulations to Coach Gary Giessler and his wrestlers on their first victory over Pendleton 28-18, Wednesday, January 10.

— D.H.S. —
The Yellow Jackets now hold a 9-4 season record, and a 2-3 conference mark after defeating the Auburn red Devils 84-66 in an NEIC game at Decatur Friday evening. The Jackets had four players in double figures. They were as follows: Bob Walters 26, Max Eichenauer 13, Dennis Bollenbacher 12, and Ron Kleinknight 10. Let's keep that victory column rising!

— D.H.S. —
After the Decatur-Auburn game, many attended the dance, "Frost-ed Frolic" sponsored by the F.H.A. at the Community Center. An enjoyable time was had by all after Decatur's victory.

— D.H.S. —
The Decatur reserves traveled to the North Side gym Saturday afternoon to participate in the basketball tournament. They were defeated by Concordia, 50-43, in the first game, and also were downed by Elmhurst, 38-23, in the consolation tilt.

— D.H.S. —
The Decatur wrestling team also participated in an invitational wrestling tournament held Saturday at New Haven. New Haven won with a total of 68 points. Peru was second with 39, Howe Military third with 33 and Decatur last with 25. The following boys represented D.H.S.: Dave Adams, Allen Kalver, Dan Butcher, and Dale Wass.

— D.H.S. —
The Jackets Journals will be distributed Friday afternoon. Co-editors for the issue are Ruth Ann Soliday and Ron Kleinknight.

— D.H.S. —
All students, who have not already done so, are urged to pay their class dues before the first semester ends Friday. At this time, report cards will be distributed only to those who have paid their dues.

— D.H.S. —
The Yellow Jackets travel to Kendallville Friday evening to meet the Comets in another NEIC battle. Come on Jackets, let's even up our conference with another victory!!!

— D.H.S. —
Congratulations to Mary Bovine who was recently named winner in our school in the 1962 Betty Crocker search for the American homemaker of tomorrow. She becomes eligible now along with winners in other state high schools, for the title of state homemaker of tomorrow.

— D.H.S. —
The following speech students were selected to present their speeches on the constitution before the student body next Tuesday afternoon: Donna Corey, Max Eichenauer, Fred Frauhiger, and Joe McNeerney. Al Scheiderer will be master of ceremonies.

— D.H.S. —
This being the end of the first semester, I conclude my term as D.H.S. news reporter. I would like to take this opportunity to express my appreciation to all who helped me during my term of writing. I have thoroughly enjoyed bringing D.H.S. news to you and have gained much knowledge and value experience in doing so. I am now very happy to turn this column over to Kathy Shoaf who will bring second semester news to you.

HOAGLAND HIGH

By Barbara Hoffman

Last Saturday night was the date of the cheering event held in Hoagland's gymnasium. This event was the basketball game Hoagland had with Arcola. This game was very trying for the Hoagland Wildcats because the game was very close. In the last minutes of the final quarter Hoagland puled ahead of Arcola to make the winning basket which made the score in favor of Hoagland, 65-62.

— H. H. S. —
The student council held a pre-tourney dance after the Arcola game. This dance was to promote school spirit for the coming tournament. Featured at the dance were two groups of amateur talent. Those groups that performed were the senior quartet, including Nancy Diester, Ann Grealey, Eula Keinknight, Barbara Smith, and Jo Ann Jones, accompaniment; the other group were intramuralists, Gary Coker, Lynn Bradtmueller, Ron Wilkinson, and Jo Ann Jones, accompaniment. This was a fine performance and I think they should be congratulated.

— H. H. S. —
Last Monday-morning, January 15, was the date Mr. Lowes, principal of Hoagland high school "drew" for the county tournament. The school which we are to play is Huntstowntown at the Fort Wayne Coliseum Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock. We are all hoping those Wildcats will pull us through. Good luck team; Let's go all the way!

— H. H. S. —
Several seniors here at Hoagland have been taking various types of tests for the entrance of the colleges of their choice. Some students have already received the results of such testing, but others are just patiently, or should I say impatiently, awaiting to hear these results.

MONMOUTH HIGH

By Lois Scherer

The county tourney started Monday evening, January 8. The Monmouth reserves 14-6 defeated Pleasant Mills 35-26. Tuesday evening they defeated Adams Central 26-22, and went all the way to defeat Berne in the championship game Thursday night by a score of 37-32. Saturday evening they received the trophy for this well-played tourney.

— M. H. S. —
The varsity started their tourney Wednesday night at Adams Central. Monmouth played with a 59-54 victory. That placed them in the semi-finals with Berne. Although it was a hard fought game, the Eagles could not come out on top. The final score was 60-52. The Bears went on to win the title. Congratulations to Adams Central who won the sportsmanship trophy.

— M. H. S. —
No ball game is complete without a cheer block. This year the Eagle boosters wore black skirts and sweaters with yellow mums. They used black and gold shakers.

— M. H. S. —
The Monmouth twirlers presented the colors at the Wednesday evening, Thursday evening, and Saturday afternoon sessions of the tourney. You did very well, girls.

— M. H. S. —
The Monmouth band also played at the Wednesday night, Thursday night, and Saturday afternoon sessions of the tourney. Nice work, band.

— M. H. S. —
The annual March of Dimes drive to fight crippling diseases has begun in this area. Each student received an envelope for his contribution. Return envelopes to the office by January 19.

— M. H. S. —
An assembly program, "Bow Magic," was presented Monday at 10:30 a.m. Mr. Gordon presented a story of the history of archery, as well as demonstrations of bow and arrow shooting. Those participating from the audience were: Mr. Elder, Bob Auer, and Linda Deam. Boy, are they good shots!!

— M. H. S. —
The first semester of the 61-62 school year will come to a close Friday. Final exams are scheduled for this week, as well as a lot of studying. A reminder to the seniors that we are half way through.

— M. H. S. —
Saturday afternoon the Eagles will travel to Berne to play the Bears at their homecoming game. The game begins at 2 p.m. Come on, boys. We want the "bell."

— M. H. S. —
This being my final column, I would like to thank everyone who has assisted me with this column. I have enjoyed it very much. Starting next week Marsha King will relate the news of Monmouth to you.

— M. H. S. —
GO EAGLES! BEAT BEARS!!

Critics Ridicule

Memorial Design

By DICK WEST
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Behind many a newspaper editorial desk, cloaked in the anonymity of the all-embracing "we," sits a scrivener with the soul of a poet.

At least one such bard currently labors for the Washington Post and Times Herald, and this week he summoned the muses in a manner that I admired immensely. Taking his text from Edward Lear, the limerick man, he administered a versified bludgeoning to the proposed design for the projected Franklin D. Roosevelt memorial.

MAID OF COTTON—Fitter Giovanna Spencer adjusts a short date frock in solid and printed cotton velveteen on Penny Percy of Texas. Penny, "Maid of Cotton of 1962," was in New York setting her new wardrobe together.

In case you came in late on this controversy, I should explain that plans are afoot to monumentalize our 32nd President with an abstract arrangement of concrete slabs that would protrude from a prominent place in the capital.

Critics Ridicule Design
Some critics have ridiculed the design as being reminiscent of Stonehenge, a pre-historic pile of stones located near Salisbury, England.

The Post editorialist suggested, therefore, that this type of memorial architecture be known as "instant Stonehenge." In his view, however, it would more closely resemble "a neglected country churchyard."

This image aroused in him the dark suspicion that the design possibly was inspired by someone seeking to get revenge on the late President by creating "a sort of New Deal burial ground."

If such were the case, he continued, it might then be considered appropriate to have the slabs engraved, tombstone fashion, with epitaphs commemorating various New Deal measures that flopped.

Dwells on Inscription
For instance, he conjectured that a slab designating the National Recovery Administration might be inscribed as follows:

"Here lies beneath this pillar gray
"The late-lamented NRA.
"It lived and breathed and had its day
"But thank the Lord it went away."
