Future Farmers of America

The three Adams county FFA chapters are celebrating Future Farmer of America week at this time. The clubs were founded in Virginia in 1928; they have grown to 280,000 members in the U. S. and 10,000 in Indiana alone.

FFA chapters are sponsored by vocational agriculture instructors, and Adams county now has chapters at Adams Central, Berne, and Geneva.

Adams Central has the largest chapter in the county with 41 members, and Berne is close behind with more than 30 members. Geneva has about 20 members.

Martin Watson, of Adams Central, Doyle Lehman of Berne, and William Kipfer, of Geneva, are the vo-ag instructors who sponsor FFA chapters.

Adams county has had two state officers: Bill Kipfer, in the early 1950's while he was a student at Berne, and Dwight Moser, of Adams Central, a couple of years ago.

The Future Farmers have many interesting projects, and work closely with the county agent and the county 4-H clubs in helping develop agricultural science and conservation in the county.

So this week we take our hats off to the future farmers of Adams county in the FFA clubs of our schools.

101 Years of Service and Appreciation

50 Have Served As Rotary Presidents

The Decatur Rotary club, first Rotary club in a city under 5,000 population, has had 50 presidents in its 45-year history, a check of the records shows today.

The club was founded August 7, 1916, and chartered in June of 1917. Only one man has twice served as president, according to the records: Dr. Fred Patterson, who finished out the term of Carl Klepper for the first half of 1934, when Klepper moved to Huntington.

One man was elected president, but never served; William Schnepf was elected president in 1945, but resigned because of pressing farm duties. Cal E. Peterson was elected to serve in his stead.

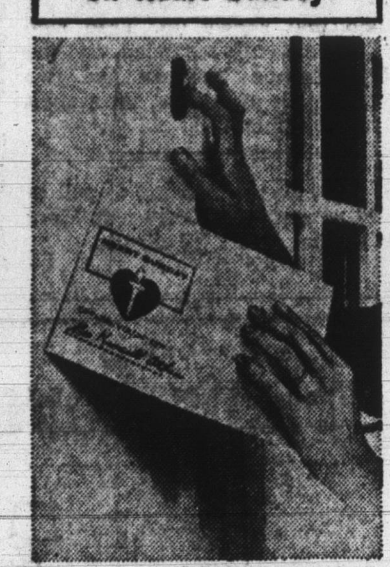

Two ministers have served as president: Rev. William C. Feller, in 1947, and Rev. Charles M. Prugh in 1936.

Traditionally the presidents have taken office in July of the year elected. Originally, the members chose five directors, and the directors named the officers.
