Three Rookies Look Good In Spring Camps

By FRED DOWN
United Press International

In the spring of a baseball manager's fancy turns to rookies—and right now there are three mighty fancy ones strutting their stuff.

They're outfielder Donn Clendenon of the Pittsburgh Pirates, catcher-first baseman Gene Oliver of the St. Louis Cardinals and infielder Jake Gibbs of the New York Yankees.

There may be many a called third strike between now and opening day but as of the moment big things are being planned for each of the trio.

Clendenon, who hit .290 for Columbus last season, drove in seven runs with a three-run homer and a grand slam Wednesday and may win a regular berth in the Pirates' outfield.

Starts Behind Plate

Oliver, who hit 36 homers and batted .302 for Portland in 1961, was named to start behind the plate when the Cardinals open their exhibition schedule Saturday against the New York Mets. Oliver also is being considered as a sub for left-hitting first baseman Bill White when the Cardinals face left-handed pitching.

Gibbs, a 270-hitter at Richmond and one of the Yankees' leading candidates to replace shortstop Tony Kubek, hammered out a long homer in the world champions' intra-squad game. The former University of Mississippi All-American's drive shared the spotlight with Roger Maris' first "homer" of the spring.

Veterans Joe Adcock and Eddie Mathews of the Milwaukee Braves and Brooks Robinson and Jim Gentile of the Baltimore Orioles also showed that their batting eyes are sharp for the exhibition openers.

Adcock Homers

Adcock, pinch-hitting for both teams in an intra-squad game, hit a homer and three singles while Mathews, also pinch-hitting in the informal game, had three singles. Robinson had a single and a double and Gentile a two-run single in the Orioles' intra-squad game.

Joe Cunningham, acquired from the Cardinals in a winter deal, delivered two hits to highlight the Chicago White Sox' camp game. Rookie Joe Horlen, 12-9 for San Diego last season, pitched two hitless innings.

Other camp news: Rookie third baseman Don Wert suffered a black eye when hit by a bad-hop grounder during the Detroit Tigers' workout. Chris Short, Dennis Bennett and Eddie Keegan will

Providence Plays Invitation Opener

NEW YORK (UPI)—Defending champion Providence College will play in the opening doubleheader of the National Invitation Basketball Tournament at Madison Square Garden next Thursday night.

However, the Friars' opponent won't be determined until Friday night when St. Joseph's meets Temple in the Middle Atlantic Conference playoff at Philadelphia. The winner will enter the NCAA tournament and the loser will play Providence College in the NIT opener.

The other game on the opening NIT doubleheader will pit Wichita against Dayton.

Holy Cross will face Colorado State and Duquesne plays Navy in another twinbill on Saturday afternoon, March 17. There will be another doubleheader on Saturday night, but pairings for that program have not been drawn.

Four teams drew first round byes—St. John's, Loyola of Chicago, Houston, and the Missouri Valley Conference runner-up (either Cincinnati or Bradley).

The quarter-finals are scheduled for Tuesday night, March 20, the semi-finals for Thursday night, March 22, and the final for Saturday afternoon, March 24.

Fast ballers, Don Drysdale, Sandy Koufax and Joe Moeller were named to pitch for the Los Angeles Dodgers in Saturday's Grapefruit League opener with the Kansas City Athletics. Catcher Earl Battey homered in Minnesota's intra-squad game but there's still no word from holdout pitcher Camilo Pascual, 15-16 with eight shutouts last season.

Most Colorful Tourney Cast At Capital

By KURT FREUDENTHAL
United Press International

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI)—It's a cinch that Saturday's Central semi-state of the Indiana high school basketball tourney has the most colorful cast.

There is unbeaten Madison, probably slightly favored to gain the state finals.

Anderson, the Cinderella quintet virtually overlooked in pre-tourney speculation.

Muncie Central, in the "Sweet 16" despite a fact it had to do without two key players suspended because of a hazing incident. And Connersville, a team sure to shoot the works since it has everything to gain.

It will be Connersville against Madison and Anderson against its North Central Conference cousin from Muncie in the preliminaries before a full house of 15,000 at Butler Fieldhouse. They met during the season exactly the way they are paired off for the afternoon round.

Cubs Blasted Spartans

Madison, sporting a 23-game winning streak and ranked third in the state, outclassed Connersville last November, 86-38. The independent Cubs are built around 6-4 Larry Humes, one of the best shooters in the state, and Larry Cheatham. They haven't played as tough a schedule as some of the major contenders still alive, but they won at strong Seymour and beat tough Evansville Bosse by eight points, both late in the season. They have yet to be challenged seriously along the tourney trail.

Connersville, 17-8, wasn't at full strength early in the season, but coach Bill Brewer figures the return scrap with Madison could be an entirely different story. The Spartans' answer to Humes & Co. is 5-10 senior guard Jim Crone, who averages nearly 20 points a game. Jack Lockhart at 6-3 is Brewer's tallest player.

Anderson Big Surprise

Anderson, the surprise package of the whole shooting works, electrified this 32nd annual championship by dumping Indianapolis At-tucks and Southport in the Indianapolis regional.

The Indians edged Muncie on their home floor nearly two months ago, 60-59, and on the basis of their performance last weekend should be favored. But Muncie has even more tourney tradition than Anderson, and although the Bearcats are operating without Bill Dinwiddie and Brian Settles, they may be hard to handle.

Anderson checks in with a 17-8 record. Muncie is 21-5. Madison hasn't made it to the four-team finals since 1950, when it took home the crown. Connersville has been there twice, but not since 1930. Three-time state champ Anderson is shooting for its 12th final four berth and first since 1948.

Muncie, still chasing that elusive fifth state title, considers the state finals "old stuff." The Bearcats have been there 12 times, more than any other team. The last time was just two years ago when they were upset by East Chicago Washington in the title game.

Temporary Writ Is Dissolved By Court

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI)—The Indiana Supreme Court Wednesday dissolved a temporary writ which had enabled the State Election Board to hold a public hearing on polling time last December.

The high court also denied a permanent writ to the State Election Board which had sought the restraint against Johnson Circuit Court and Special Judge Jack Rogers.

The temporary action, taken by the high court on the day of a scheduled public hearing cleared the way for the hearing to proceed. The public hearing was considered a necessary step in a pronouncement by the board that Central Standard Time shall prevail for opening and closing of voting polls and for voter registration and candidate filing deadlines.

However, the high court decided Wednesday that a technical flaw existed in the petition filed on behalf of the State Election Board. It pointed out that the State of Indiana was not specifically made a party to the action and upon these grounds dissolved the temporary writ and denied a permanent one.

AFL's Anti-Trust Suit Is In Recess

BALTIMORE (UPI)—The American Football League's $10 million anti-trust suit against the National Football League was in the "calm-before-the-storm" stage today.

The suit, in which the AFL charges the NFL with monopolistic practices, was recessed Wednesday until Monday, but fire-works in the form of AFL player testimony looms when the case reopens.

The latest testimony in the federal case, being heard by Judge Roszel Thomsen without a jury, came from President Kenneth S. Adams Jr., of the Houston Oilers Wednesday. Adams testified that he was offered an NFL franchise in Houston and hope for an NFL franchise in Dallas was held out for Lamar Hunt, who was founding the AFL, in an apparent move to block competition in New York and Los Angeles.

Adams said Edwin Pauley Sr., an owner of the Los Angeles Rams, made the offer in the fall of 1959. He said that he was warned by Pauley that the AFL would lose money and NFL franchises were dangled before him and Hunt.

Pauley said that one of the conditions, if the NFL gave him and Hunt franchises, was that the NFL would not take AFL proposed teams for Los Angeles or New York, already represented in the NFL, or Denver.

Other standout teams in this year's field include defending champion Wittenberg, the No. 5 team in the final UPI ratings; Southeast Missouri, the 1961 tournament runner-up, and Mt. St. Mary's, the fourth-place finisher last year.

Wittenberg (19-4) will open defense of its crown by facing Gannon (16-7) in the Midwest playoffs at Akron, Ohio Friday night. Florida A&M (24-0) plays Youngstown (15-11) on the same bill.

Here are the pairings for the other regional playoffs starting Friday night:

Northeast at Rochester, N.Y.—St. Anselm's (16-3) vs. Northeastern (15-7); Fairfield (19-4) vs. Rochester (17-3).

Marquette edged Detroit, 93-92, on a last-second basket by Dave Erickson at Milwaukee and Louisville spanked Western Kentucky, 88-71, behind Bud Olsen's 27 points at Louisville.

Third-ranked Kansas State remained alive in the Big Eight Conference race by swamping Nebraska, 84-60. If Kansas upsets Colorado Saturday night, the Buffaloes and Kansas State will wind up in a tie for first place and will have to meet in a playoff to determine which team enters the NCAA tournament.

Small College Playoffs Open This Evening

By TIM MORIARTY
United Press International

The scramble for the NCAA college division (small college) basketball championship starts tonight with the South Central regional playoffs at Evansville, Ind.

Southern Illinois (17-9), which finished sixth in the final UPI small college ratings, plays Union (Tenn.) (14-11) and Evansville (13-10) meets North Carolina A&T (19-6) in the opening twinbill. The winners clash Friday night for the regional title.

The seven other regional playoffs in this 32-team tournament will be held Friday and Saturday nights, with the winners moving into the championship flight at Evansville, March 15-17.

Evansville, as a two-time champion, must be considered the favorite to sweep through the South Central playoffs on its home court. However, the Purple Aces may not be strong enough to go all the way this year.

Other standout teams in this year's field include defending champion Wittenberg, the No. 5 team in the final UPI ratings; Southeast Missouri, the 1961 tournament runner-up, and Mt. St. Mary's, the fourth-place finisher last year.
