

UAW To Intensify Get-Out Vote Move

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI)—The United Auto Workers responded to President Kennedy's call for political trail blazing today by charting plans to elect 20 to 30 more liberal congressmen this fall.

Intensify its get-out-the-vote drive this year in an effort to reverse the historic trend that would normally result in a loss of Democratic House seats this November.

"We have a good President, but we need a better Congress," said Walter P. Reuther, UAW chief, following Kennedy's appeal to the union to "help move this country forward" by supporting his legislative proposals.

new enthusiasm for political action among the 2,800 delegates. Roy Reuther, brother of the UAW president and the union's top political expert, said it had a tremendous impact.

Meantime, the convention turned attention this morning to elections within its ranks. Walter Reuther is unopposed for a new two-year term as head of the million-member union.

three new executive board members-at-large — new posts created this week — and other national officers.

Backs Negro

It appeared certain that a Negro, Nelson (Jack) Edwards of Detroit, would be elevated to the UAW executive board for the first time in its history. Edwards is backed by Reuther's caucus for one of the member-at-large spots.

Moore Is Chairman Of Founders Board

NEW YORK — Roy W. Moore, New York, chairman of the board of Canada Dry Corp., will be chairman of the national founders board of the Salk institute for biological studies, it was announced today by Gerard Piel, president of the institute.

Moore will organize support among leaders of business and industry for the campaign to build and equip the institute now under construction at San Diego, Calif. The National Foundation-March of Dimes has undertaken a $15 million building fund campaign from June 1 through 15 to give the general public an opportunity to contribute to the undertaking. Moreover, the National Foundation has committed $1 million a year for operation of the institute as well as an additional $1 million a year for 10 years to create an endowment fund. The institute will be directed by Dr. Jonas Salk, who developed the polio vaccine bearing his name.

Moore will head a national board comprised of civic and business leaders from more than 100 areas throughout the nation. They will invite their local business communities to support the Salk institute building fund campaign through special gifts.

Accepting the chairmanship, Moore said, "As a business man, I am happy to assist in creating this great center for study of fundamental biological questions affecting life, health and disease. Only a healthy nation can be a prosperous nation."

"Business, therefore, has a direct interest in seeking better health for all, particularly so when it is sought through the traditional, voluntary methods that are typically American. The Salk institute will truly exemplify freedom of inquiry in the biological and medical sciences, and is worthy of the support of business and of all segments of society." The Salk institute will concentrate maximum resources of present knowledge and equipment toward achieving understanding of the basic procession of life, Moore declared.

Dr. Salk plans for a staff of eminent scientists from many parts of the world in the fields of biology, genetics, biochemistry, physics, mathematics and related disciplines, he added.

A resident of Southport, Conn., Moore is also a trustee of the National Foundation, and served as chairman for the Greater New York March of Dimes campaign in 1958 and 1959.
