Public Nuisances

Indiana law is specific about dogs allowed to roam at large — they are public nuisances, and it is the duty of every sheriff, town marshal, police officer, constable, member of the state police force and game warden to cause such dogs to be captured and placed into city, town or county dog pounds. (Burns 16-330)

Specifically, this law provides that after June 15 every dog without a tag, whether on his master's property, or not, shall be picked up, and held 20 days. If the owner brings the dog license he is then charged up to 25 cents a day for the dog. If he doesn't show. The dog may be sold or destroyed as the impounding officials decide.

In addition, Sec. 502 of Chapter 80, Acts of 1951, provides that no owner or person responsible for any domestic animal shall permit such animal to run at large.

"Domestic animal" is defined as meaning dog, cat, cattle, calves, horses, mules, sheep, goats, or poultry.

An owner can be fined up to $500 for the first offense, and imprisoned up to six months; each violation is a separate offense, and a second offense can bring a $1,000 fine.

Now that's a pretty stiff penalty for trying to enforce something that should be common sense to any dog or cat owner.

An animal is personal property, and taxable. It belongs to its master, and its master is responsible for it. The master is expected to take the same care of a pet that he would of a child — watch it, care for it, etc. Letting dogs or cats run at large destroying other people's property, spreading disease, etc., is illegal and immoral.

The law (Burns 16-204) allows those living in the country to kill a dog found "over the country unattended by his master or owner or his owner's agent."

And the owner of any dog that bites a person peaceably conducting himself as a mailman or on state business, may be held liable for damages. (Burns 16-214)

With the possibility of rabies this Spring, with hot weather, and all the children playing outside, let's not take any chances. Prevent a terrible tragedy by keeping your pets at home, by making certain that they have their rabies shots, and that no one has a chance to get bitten by them.

Gov. Welsh Backs Soil Stewardship

Soil Stewardship Week will be observed in Indiana May 27-June 3 with special church services and other events sponsored by district soil and water conservation supervisors and others.

Governor Matthew E. Welsh has called on Hoosiers "to join in this worthy movement and to give assistance in every possible way in the conservation of Indiana's soil and water resources."

R. O. Cole, Purdue University specialist in soil and water conservation, says the past year has been a good one for conservation in Indiana.

Since the soil and water conservation program began some 25 years ago, the 85 soil conservation districts assisted by the Soil Conservation Service, Cooperative Extension Service, ASC and others, have developed many farm plans. They have cooperated with 35,930 farmers in establishing conservation practices and assisted in providing 20,292 basic conservation plans.

Some 10,418 farm ponds and 160,189 acres of waterways were constructed. They also assisted with drainage practices on 1,022,035 acres and planned conservation cropping systems on about 1,316,326 acres.

When the issue came before the lower court, it held that the advertisement was valid, that is, that it satisfied the legal requirement. But upon appeal, the next higher court found that the publication did not come within the definition of a "newspaper." The one involved admittedly blanketed the city but it was primarily an advertising sheet had no editorial staff and only one of its eight pages was devoted to news.

This incident illustrates the importance of full compliance with the laws governing public notice. It also emphasizes the preferred status enjoyed by the bona fide newspaper whose primary purpose is news and information and which has built up a voluntary paid following in the community.

AMA In Attack On Medical Care Plan

NEW YORK (UPI)—The American Medical Association (AMA) mounted an unprecedented assault on President Kennedy's medical care program Monday night, calling it a step toward nationalized medicine which still would not protect the neediest.

Udine a paid television forum (NBC network), AMA speakers tagged the King-Anderson bill to finance hospital care for the aged through Social Security "a cruel hoax and a delusion."

"It wastefully covers millions who do not need it," declared Dr. Edward R. Annis of Miami. "It heartlessly ignores millions who do need coverage. It is not true insurance. It will create an enormous and unpredictable burden on every working taxpayer. It offers sharply limited benefits."

"It will undercut and destroy the wholesome growth of private, voluntary insurance and prepayment health programs for the aged which offer flexible benefits in the full range of individual needs."

Predicts Higher Taxes. Annis, a surgeon and chairman of the AMA speakers bureau, claimed the King-Anderson bill would increase payroll tax deduction.

The nationwide association of doctors spent possibly as much as $100,000 to present the program—"Your Doctor Reports"—over a 190-station network just one day after President Kennedy took to television to rally support for his program.

The AMA telecast was staged amid the litter left in Madison Square Garden by the 18,500 persons who cheered Kennedy — but without an audience. The program was taped shortly after the Kennedy rally.

In a case some years ago the sheriff's sale of a piece of real property was set aside on the technical ground that it was not properly advertised. Specifically the suit turned on whether the foreclosure had been advertised in accordance with the law in such cases. The house in question belonged to a widow.

Presumably she had fallen behind in her mortgage payments and the holder finally took steps to foreclose, as he had a right to do. As the law provides in such cases, notice of the forced sale was duly published in what purported to be a newspaper. The property in time was sold at public sale. But the woman then brought suit to void the sale on the ground that the publication in question was not, in point of legal fact, a bona fide newspaper.

medicine—then let them tell us so honestly," Annis declared. "Why sneak it in piece by piece on the backs of old people first?"

"The King-Anderson crowd intends to take us all the way down the road to a new system of medicine for everybody—and don't mistake it. England's nationalized medical program is the kind of thing they have in mind for us eventually."

Annis' declarations brought a swift reply from Abraham Ribicoff, secretary of health, education and welfare, who issued a statement at 2:45 a.m., EDT, today calling the AMA presentation "just another staging of 'let's fool the American people again.'"

Minimizes Tax Hike. Ribicoff said the 17 per cent hike in payroll taxes cited by the AMA would amount to only about $2 a month. He denied AMA charges that the American system of medicine would be destroyed, saying the only difference would be that hospital bills would be paid through the Social Security system.

SPECIAL WASHINGTON REPORT

LEADER SEES BOOM IN OVERSEAS TRADE

By U.S. Rep. Carl Albert
National House Majority Leader

President Kennedy's Trade Expansion Act of 1962 is new in many respects. A new kind of authority is being requested to eliminate, over a five-year period or more, all tariffs and other trade restrictions on those manufactured items where we and the members of the new Common Market in Europe together account for 80% or more of world exports. (This excludes trade with or within the Communist bloc.)

The President could then negotiate an historic trade agreement with the Common Market. Our exporters can then share in what is one of the fastest growing free markets in the world in return for accepting more competition from European imports here at home.

At the same time the President is asking for a new safeguard to help individual firms and groups of workers who face genuine hardship adjusting to import competition.

Trade Adjustment Assistance, as it is called, will provide loans and tax benefits to firms, and adjustment and relocation allowances to workers who face the prospect of unemployment as the result of import competition without the resources to adjust to more competitive production.

Unlike tariff protection, which amounts to a direct subsidy, Trade Adjustment Assistance is a self-help plan, designed to help firms and workers get into more productive work.

In judging the merits of this Act, just as with the eleven previous ones, Congress will look hard at the way that the President has used the authority delegated to him in the past. And when the record is laid bare, I am confident Congress will support the Trade Expansion Act of 1962. Taking all the tariff negotiations held since 1947 together, the United States

We have granted tariff concessions on some $3 billion worth of trade and obtained concessions on about $4.8 billion. Furthermore, over the past four years our European allies have removed almost all of their quotas and other quantitative restrictions on dollar imports except in the area of competitive farm products. Here trade the world over is still set about with quantitative restrictions designed to protect farm price support programs. This is generally true in the case of our own farm program.

Tariffs are now the major obstacles to freer trade between ourselves and our allies in Europe. The Common Market across the Atlantic, when Britain and other Western European nations join, will be bigger in population than our own.

We have the first real opportunity in our history to extend the principles of free competition beyond our borders in a market which is becoming every day more like our own.

As wages and incomes rise in Europe—Europeans will be buying a standard of living ever more like our own. We can share in this growth and gain strength for our own economy if we are willing to bargain now.
