Pay Attention

When driving, it is very interesting to see everything new that's going on, to look at, new homes, gardens, etc.

But it is also very dangerous. While you are looking, the car ahead may slow for a turn, or stop; someone may inadvertently dash in front of your car, or another car may turn onto the highway.

Careless driving, weaving back and fourth over the center line, is quite disconcerting to other drivers on the road, and makes it dangerous to pass.

Parking on the roadway is another dangerous act often practiced in the summer. Never stop with any part of your car on the highway.

If you see a warning sign, slow down. Cowboy driving is apt to put you in a ditch in a hurry.

Your driver's license is a privilege that makes you morally responsible — care in driving is a must. You cannot risk hurting others or yourselves by being careless with your precious driving privilege.

ASCS Farm Notes

DEADLINE FOR DISPOSITION OF EXCESS WHEAT:

Wheat producers having received excess wheat notices, have until June 11 (June 10, actual date, since the 10th falls on a Sunday, the time is extended one day) to adjust acreage to the allotment or permitted acreage, (whichever is the greater.)

Congressional laws require that a service charge be deposited in county ASCS offices, before a farm reporter may be sent to the farm to measure the adjusted acreage.

So, all producers are urged to call at the office and deposit $7.50 the service charge required, not later than June 12, in order that their eligibility to receive wheat marketing cards may be determined.

TURKEY REFERENDUM —
JUNE 18 - 22:

Forms "Certification of Turkeys Marketed in 1961" have been mailed to all known turkey growers and contract producers in Adams county.

It is very important to turkey producers, to complete and return the form to the county office, since this information will be used to determine the eligibility of growers to vote in the referendum which will be conducted by ASCS offices during the period June 18-22. Voting will be by secret ballot.

JUNE 8 was the final date of filing certifications of production.

Any turkey grower or contract producer who did not receive a certification form by mail are urged to call at the county office and file certification of production in 1961.

Those eligible to vote in the referendum will include "producer-growers" who marketed more than 3,600 pounds (liveweight) of turkeys in 1961 and "contract-producers" who in 1961 had a risk-of-loss contract in turkeys produced by a producer-grower.

Ballots will be issued to the producer with one envelope marked "ballot" and another bearing the producer's return address and the address of the county office in which his vote must be cast.

If he chooses to vote by mail, the plain envelope, sealed and containing the ballot, then will be placed in the second envelope and mailed to the ASCS office. If the producer prefers, he can mark his ballot in the county office, place it in the ballot envelope, seal it, and deposit it in the ballot box.

The results of the balloting will be announced by the secretary of agriculture.

Should the referendum indicate producer approval, and the order is issued, it will be binding upon all those who qualify as handlers under the order.

If the order is made effective, producers and handlers will nominate three candidates for each of 57 positions on the 60-member advisory board at elections held in each state. From these nominees the secretary will select a member and alternate for each position, and will also name three members-at-large and their alternates, to serve on the board.

Once the board is selected, it will nominate 38 persons from its membership, of whom 19 will be selected by the secretary to serve as the administrative committee, with the remaining nominees as alternates.

Neither of the supply-management provisions of the order can be placed in operation at any time unless its use is recommended by the advisory board and approved by the secretary. For 1962, the order provides that the only supply-management provision which can be placed in operation is one requiring handlers to set aside a percentage of all the turkeys they handle during a designated period. Supply management measures which would employ the establishment of a "desirable quantity" allocation bases, and allotments are permitted for use only after 1962, with or without the set-aside method.

There are 29 known turkey growers and 1 contract-producer in Adams county.

ATTEND TURKEY GROWERS MEETING:

Mrs. Mary J. Howard, office manager, and Mrs. Maxine Ford, clerk, attended a meeting for turkey growers at Bluffton, June 7. Lenard C. Pound, chairman of the Indiana ASC state committee, explained the details of the referendum to turkey growers and ASCS personnel from surrounding counties.

NEW CONSERVATION FACT BOOK:

New facts about the nation's private agricultural land and its needs for conservation treatment are featured in the 30-page USDA publication titled "Agricultural Land Resources." The results of a three-year on-the-ground study in every U. S. county of agricultural land resources of the nation—their capabilities, their uses, and their soil and water conservation needs.

Single copies of "Agricultural Land Resources," agriculture information bulletin 263, may be obtained from the Office of Information, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C.

COST SHARE FUNDS LIMITED:

Adams county farmers who have conservation problems, and have received no cost-share payments in previous years, may file a request for cost-share assistance in the county office, and receive approval from the county committee insofar as the county allocation permits. Available funds are limited and will be used for those farmers who have not previously received assistance.

Farmers are reminded that the request for cost-sharing must be filed before the conservation practice is started to be eligible for approval.

1962 WHEAT PRICE SUPPORT PROGRAM:

The basic minimum price support rate for 1962 wheat in Adams county has been set at $2.02, determined on the basis of $2 per bushel.

Final rates cannot be determined until after July 1, 1962.

1962 FEED GRAIN PROGRAM:

Farm reporters will start farm visits, June 11 to determine the status of those farmers who have signed-up to participate in the 1962 feed grain program.

Corn, diverted and conserving acreage will be checked. If at all possible, the producer should assist the reporter in measuring such acreage, if an actual measurement is required. This will be determined by the farm reporter.

Farm reporters are not permitted to compute acreages in the field. Notices of computed acreages will be mailed to the producer by the county office. By this method misunderstandings between the reporter and the producer are avoided.

ELIGIBILITY FOR 1962 SOY-BEAN PRICE SUPPORT:

Soybean producers are reminded that the average 1959-60 conserving acreage on the farm shall be maintained to be eligible for price support on 1962 soybeans.

$2.25 has been established as the rate for 1962 soybean price support, which will be available to soybean producers may be stored on the farm or in an approved warehouse. Approximately 45,000 bushels of 1961 soybeans were covered by price support in this county.

FARM STORAGE FACILITY
LOANS AVAILABLE:

Producers with grain storage problems are urged to call at the county office for information relative to the farm storage facility loan program which is available to farmers.

Loans are available up to 95 percent of the total cost, depending upon the capacity of the facility.

The application for a loan must be filed before the facility is purchased. However, the application must be accompanied by an invoice listing the total cost and the amount of the down payment required and show that this down payment has been made.

The farmer is required to pay a service charge of $5 or one percent of the loan value, whichever is greater at the time the application is filed.

Farmers should keep in mind the resale program as established under the price support program, at the time he checks his available storage.

This resale program was available for 1961 corn covered by price support, at the rate of 14 cents per bushel per year.

PLAN TO SURVIVE UNDER A NUCLEAR ATTACK:

Each family, both rural and urban, should provide an adequate shelter to be used for fall out protection in case of a nuclear attack. There should be a two-week supply of food and water kept in shelters at all times.

The U. S. department of agriculture is developing a national defense capabilities and create a deterrent to attack through knowledge that we are prepared to withstand assault.

ASCS county office managers are chairmen of USDA county defense boards.

County office personnel, Mary J. Howard, Eulalia M. Augsburger, Maxine Ford and Helen Johnson recently completed a course of "preparedness" conducted by Mark Stump, a teacher at Monmouth high school who is a resident of Portland, Stump is an official instructor of personal preparedness, having received his training under the civil-defense training program, provided by the federal government.

Shelter, warning, radiological monitoring, training and education are all parts of a total community civil defense program. The responsibility for integrating these needs, and capabilities of the community, necessarily falls on the state and local civil defense organization.

The federal government is prepared to help in major ways. It has already begun through the national shelter survey and instructor training, to make civil defense a reality.

Modern Etiquette
By Roberta Leo

Q. A group of us neighbors recently raised a fund for a needy family, and when the money was presented, the envelope contained a list of donors, but not the amount each gave. Was this correct?

A. Yes; it was more tactful, and in much better taste, to omit the amounts given by the contributors.

Q. Would it be proper for a young single man to invite two young women friends to make use of the spare bedroom in his apartment while they are in town?

A. The offer is perfectly proper.

SOCIAL
QUIZ

1. Q. — I am an ironworker, but work only six months a year. My earnings, however, are always over the maximum of $4,800 per year. Does this mean I am only getting credit for 2 quarters each year?

A. No. If you receive total wages of $4,800, or more during a year, you will be credited with 4 quarters of coverage.

2. Q. I am 62 years old and have a wife and 2 children under 18. If I decide to quit my job and file for reduced benefits under the new law, would my wife and children get benefits? If so, would their payments be reduced too?

A. Your dependents would be eligible for benefits for the first month you would be entitled to reduced benefits. The payments they would receive would be the same whether or not your payment was at the reduced amount. However, if the total family benefit exceeded $254 per month, then benefits to your wife and children would be reduced in order not to exceed the family maximum of $254.

3. Q. How many quarters of coverage do I need to get the maximum social security payment? I have been a painter all my life and have more than 40 quarters already.

A. Quarters of coverage are used only to determine if a person qualifies for social security benefits. When a person has earned 40 quarters, he is permanently insured and would be eligible to file a claim at retirement age. The amount of benefits, however, is determined by the amount of earnings. Contact your local social security office for the new pamphlet OASI-855. From this pamphlet you will be able to estimate your benefits.

4. Q. I have a mentally retarded child who will never be able to work or care for herself. Is there any provision in the social security law for her to draw benefits?

A. — If you have worked under social security long enough to have the required coverage, your disabled adult child may draw monthly payments at the time you become entitled to retirement benefits. Or, in the event of your death, she may become entitled to survivor's benefits.

5. Q. — I have 18 quarters of coverage and am permanently disabled, as I was injured on my job as a construction worker. Have the 1960 or 1961 amendments changed the work requirements for disability benefits?

A. — No, the work requirement for disability benefits remain unchanged. You must have five years of employment under social security during the ten-year period immediately preceding the date your disability began.

but to still any possible tongue-wagging, he should move out while they are there.

Q. I have two girl cousins, ages 11 and 6. Would it be proper for me to have the older girl serve as a junior bridesmaid at my wedding, and the younger girl as flower girl?

A. Yes.
