Warns Order To Slow Home Construction

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Association of Home Builders has told President Kennedy that an executive order barring racial discrimination in housing could cause a 75 per cent drop in new home construction.

Association President Leonard L. Frank said Sunday a survey showed 51 per cent of the builders replying to a questionnaire believed the anti-discrimination order would force cutbacks if it applied to Federal Housing Administration (FHA), Veterans Administration (VA), and privately financed housing. Forty two per cent predicted a decline if the order applied only to FHA and VA financing, he said.

Of the builders expecting a cutback, Frank reported, one third predicted it could be as deep as 75 per cent.

A total of 5,905 of the 15,335 members of the association replied to the survey.

Frank offered Kennedy a plan designed to help lessen the impact of the proposed federal order.

He suggested that the White House organize "a major, nationwide education campaign to lessen tensions over housing discrimination."

Kennedy told his news conference Thursday he would sign the non-discrimination order at a "useful and appropriate time."

Frank said he felt a national program could develop greater public awareness of the significance and consequences of housing discrimination. He said it also could stimulate means of "improving community acceptance of changing living patterns."
