A report on a bill proposed by the Insurance Department to regulate bail bondsman ran into a snag when it developed that the measure did not do all it was intended to do.

Part of the measure was aimed at eliminating the sale of bail bonds on credit. Opponents of the system maintain that credit sales of bonds allow criminals to go free and then commit new crimes to obtain the money to pay for the bonds.

The snag developed when members noted that while the proposed regulation would require bondsmen to charge a premium for bail bonds, it said nothing about requiring cash payment for the bonds.

The State Board of Health asked the commission's endorsement of a proposal for a $20,000 study to determine means of providing home care for some chronically ill, aged and mentally or physically handicapped persons who now require hospitalization.

Dr. Robert Yoho said that providing care at home for such persons would free hospital beds for acutely ill patients.

Study Revisions Of Present State Laws

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — The Indiana Legislative Advisory Commission will take up at its Aug. 15 meeting proposed bills designed to bring many existing state laws up to date.

The commission had been scheduled to go over the bills Wednesday, but the day-long meeting was taken up by presentation of preliminary reports on legislation governmental departments or study groups are planning to recommend to the 1963 General Assembly.

It likewise misrepresents to the public the conduct of their business," he said.

Discussing Mrs. Gardner's report that the state payroll increased $3.1 million during the year ending June 30, Hatchett said it was the smallest payroll increase in dollars and per cent in at least seven years.

He said that $1.5 million of the increase resulted from expansion of personnel at mental and medical institutions. The increase was made necessary by legislation reducing the length of the work week to 40 hours at such institutions. Hatchett said the rest of the increase was accounted for by increased personnel in connection with the expanded highway construction and maintenance program.

Hatchett said that Governor Welsh "kept a tight rein on payrolls" in other departments under his control. He noted reduction in highway supervisory personnel and revenue department employees. Hatchett also reported that $1.5 million in funds appropriated for salaries was not used and was turned back to the general fund.

Hatchett reported that his department's figures showed a general fund surplus June 30 of about $26.5 million. Mrs. Gardner reported $28 million.

Hatchett said the difference in the figures resulted from handling $1.5 million in appropriated by unused funds. He contended the funds could not be considered part of the surplus while the auditor's office held that they reverted to the surplus at the end of the fiscal year, and then were reappropriated.

Says Summary Of Spending 'Misleading'

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — State Budget Director John Hatchett said today a summary of state spending released Wednesday by State Auditor Dorothy Gardner was "misleading," and included some double counting of expenditures.

The auditor's office had cautioned newsmen upon releasing figures that there might be some duplication of expenditures.

Hatchett said the duplication resulted from centralized purchasing and control of some expenditures. He said the summary listed the original purchase or payment by the supply agency as an expenditure and then, when the equipment was charged out to a state department, listed that as a separate transaction.

Hatchett said the purchase of a half-million dollars worth of automotive equipment by the state motor pool appeared in the auditor's report as the purchase of about $1 million worth of equipment.

He said there were duplications of about $90,000 in local telephone service, $44,000 in long-distance telephone and telegraph expenditures, and $85,000 to $90,000 in postage expenses.

Hatchett said the double counting "obscures actual savings made as in stationary, postage, telephone and the motor pool."

"It likewise misrepresents to the public the conduct of their business," he said.

Establish State Fishing Records

Adams county fishermen were sizing up their fishing tackle today to get ready to "go after" the new records to be established by the department of conservation for fish caught in the state, Jack Hurst, a conservation officer, said today.

Beginning as of Wednesday, any angler may send the vital statistics and a photograph of their "catch" to the department for consideration as a record fish.

The weekly fishing report stated that bluegill fishing is good in the lake district, with a few pike caught out of Lake Leonard and Lake James on minnows.

Waldron Lake and Barbee Chain reported bluegills taken on horse- and leaf worms.

Several Divisions

The largest fish reported will be recognized for each of the following divisions: largemouth bass, smallmouth bass, spotted or Kentucky bass, bluegill, redear, rock bass, yellow perch, crappie (any species), white or silver bass, walleye, sauger, rainbow trout, brook trout, brown trout, northern pike, muskellunge, freshwater drum (better known in Indiana as white perch), channel catfish, flathead catfish, bullhead (any species, carp, and bowfin or dogfish).

To be considered as an official Indiana record, the fish must have been caught legally by hook and line from Indiana waters. Catches from pay lakes, the Ohio River, and those taken with commercial fishing nets are not eligible. Entries of fish taken in private farm ponds will be accepted. Fish must be weighed before being frozen.

If you believe you have made, or will make, a possible catch in Indiana waters, clip out the following official blank, fill it in, and mail it with a picture to Indiana Record Fish, Department of Conservation, State Office Building, Indianapolis 4, Ind.

Agreement Reached On Algeria Crisis

ALGIERS (UPI) — Rival political factions announced today they have reached a three-point agreement to settle the Algerian political crisis and set the stage for national elections.

A joint declaration issued by Mohammed Khider, envoy of dissident Vice Premier Ahmed Ben Bella, and the leaders of the anti-Ben Bella faction announced agreement on:

—A political bureau to run the country.

—Elects for an Algerian constituent assembly.

—A meeting of the National Council of the Algerian Revolution (CNRA), supreme council and "parliament" of the revolutionary movement.

At the same time Khider announced that Ben Bella and other members of the political bureau will arrive in Algiers Friday.

The announcement was issued after the rival Algerian politicians met for the second day under military pressure to solve their dispute and start organizing Algeria as an independent nation.

Khider, the righthand man of Ben Bella, said the elections for a constituent assembly now probably would be held Aug. 27. They had been postponed from the previous date of Aug. 12 because of the Algerian power struggle.

Khider read the joint declaration of agreement to newsmen after today's meeting ended.

He said the meeting of the CNRA will take place about a week after the assembly election and will be aimed at settling the question of the political bureau and studying the Algerian situation generally.

Khider was blanked by a Ben Bella leaders when he made the announcement. They included Vice Premier Mohammed Bou

Aluminum Strike Ended After Day

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — The Reynolds Metals Co. joined the Aluminum Company of America (Alcoa) today in reaching agreement with the Aluminum Workers of America ending the one-day walkout by 16,000 workers.

Alcoa came to terms with the union Wednesday night. Early today Reynolds agreed on a similar pact with the Aluminum Workers of America.

The two-year contracts, providing improved pension and vacation benefits but no wage increases, were subject to approval by union locals, which may take as long as 10 days.

The Alcoa agreement covered all of its strikebound plants and workers began returning to their jobs.

Reynolds' agreement covered all but the Bellwood, Va., plant, where further negotiation may be needed on local issues before the strike ends, officials said.

The strike of 225 members of the International Association of Machinists and the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers continued at Reynolds' McCook, Ill., sheet and plate mill, largest of its kind in the nation. The walkout has idled 3,000 workers, most of them members of the United Steelworkers Union, which reached contract agreement with Reynolds June 23.

Neither Alcoa nor Reynolds officials could give any immediate estimate on the value per hour of the fringe changes in the new contracts, which contain provision for reopening of wage, pension and insurance clauses upon 90 days notice after June 1, 1963.

However, the Alcoa vacation and pension benefits alone were said to be worth an additional 7½ cents an hour. Most workers will get an additional half week of paid vacation. The pension improvement was up to 4½ cents an hour. In addition, employees will be guaranteed 32 hours pay for any week in which the worker was employed.

Reynolds workers will get improved vacation and pension benefits and a continuation of their 23 cents an hour cost of living allowance.

Report U. S. Soldier

Defects To Czechs

VIENNA (UPI) — A U.S. Army soldier stationed with a missile unit in West Germany has defected and asked for asylum in Communist Czechoslovakia, Radio Prague said today.

The station said the soldier, whom it identified as R. S. Hareld, reached Prague "during the past few days" with a West German woman named Margit Schlotter.

The broadcast was monitored here.

Radio Prague said the soldier was stationed with a U. S. Army rocket unit that had atomic capability.

Austrian security officials said an American ex-GI they identified as Raymond S. Hareld of Rhode Island was reported to have vanished mysteriously near the Austria-Czech border last May 30.

They said Hareld was last seen with a German girl near the little Austrian border village of Kitzeck. Shortly before their disappearance, officials said, they had lunch in a small restaurant close to the border.

Although they were warned by Austrian border patrolmen not to go near barbed wire barriers the couple apparently disregarded the advice, officials said.
