U.S. And Spain To Negotiate Over Bases

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States expects to negotiate renewal of rights to Spanish naval and air bases without too much difficulty once Spain discloses its bargaining position is not as strong as it might appear. Officials said today that, on the basis of reports from Madrid, Spain appeared to be overestimating the value of the big Rota naval base on the Atlantic as a bargaining lever to win defense and financial commitments from the United States.

Rota has been represented in many dispatches as vital to service the nuclear-armed Polaris submarines President Kennedy is putting into the Mediterranean next month after withdrawal of Jupiter missiles from Turkey and Italy. Actually, officials said, the U.S. Navy has its choice of three possible Mediterranean sites for Polaris bases, any one of which would be more convenient than Rota. They declined to disclose where they are.

Rota is regarded as an important installation, but not a key base in Polaris planning. Spain has advised the United States it will not be ready for full-scale negotiations for a month or six weeks. Deputy Defense Secretary Roswell L. Gilpatric postponed a planned visit to Madrid this weekend when Spain asked for more time to prepare for the bases talks.

Spanish officials have made it clear they want defense arrangements with the United States more equal to those the NATO powers enjoy. They feel they should have more to say about military strategy in return for American use of Spanish bases. The Spanish representatives expressed surprise, during preliminary talks with Pentagon officials, when informed that the United States felt Spain should pay part of the cost of an estimated $200 million to $300 million in new military equipment it wants over the next five years.

He is training officer at Headquarters & Service Co., 3rd Battalion, 2nd Marine Division. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Merrill V. Bernath of Wauseon, Ohio.

Others of the 312nd Marine Division officers participating in the march continued to hike throughout the night, but some got a night's sleep before continuing. The marchers began Tuesday on soggy ground and in humid weather. They wore combat clothes and carried a light pack, two canteens, a 45-caliber pistol and clip holders. Checkpoints were established every 6.3 miles where the men could replenish water in their canteens and pick up rations. The Marines are required to complete the 50-mile course in 20 marching hours or in three days time.

Calls On Union To Help Restore Cuts

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — The Democratic floor leader of the Indiana House called on the state AFL-CIO today for help in restoring funds cut from Governor Welsh's recommended operating budget by the House Ways and Means Committee.

Rep. Robert Rock, D-Anderson, who introduced the budget bill, spoke at an AFL-CIO "Legislative Day" session here.

He said the original bill would have provided enough money to stabilize local property tax rates and even "reduce them substantially throughout the state."

Rock said the cuts by the Republican-dominated committee will force increases in property taxes by reducing state aid to local schools.

He said reductions in funds for the state colleges and universities would lead to reduced enrollments, loss of faculty members, increased student fees and lower quality of education.

"You may be assured the Democrats will fight Thursday for the restoration of these cuts," Rock said. "If you believe as we do in a strong educational system, progress in mental health, conservation and in property tax relief, join with us now."

Marine Officer 1st To Complete Hike

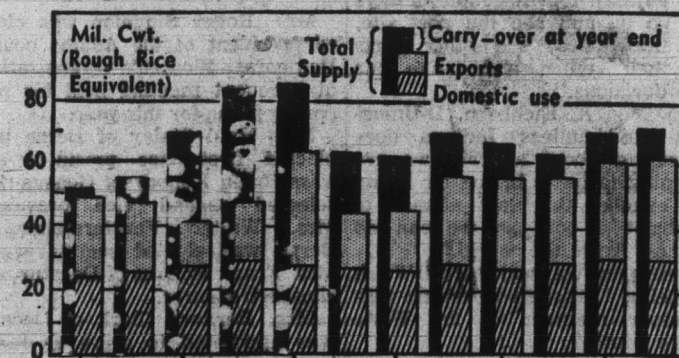

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. (UPI) — First Lt. Donald L. Bernath became the first Marine officer to complete a 50-mile endurance test here when he stepped across the finish line Tuesday night 11 hours and 40 minutes after beginning.

"I just pictured a bucket with my No. 10's ankle-deep in ice cold water," he commented when asked what kept him going. Bernath averaged 4.3 miles an hour on his marathon jaunt.

The speedy leatherneck entered the Marine Corps in November 1960, after graduating from Purdue University at Lafayette, Ind.

RICE SUPPLY AND DISTRIBUTION

JUST ABOUT AVERAGE—U.S. rice supply for 1962-63 is estimated at 70.1 million hundredweight, rough rice equivalent. (The 1963 bars on chart are estimates.) This is 8 percent above the figure for a year ago, but comes pretty close to the 1956-1960 average. Exports, at an estimated 32.0 million cwt., would be about 10 percent above those in 1961-62. Carry-over at end of the 1962-63 marketing year may total about 9.0 million cwt. Data: figured on marketing year beginning in August, as compiled by Department of Agriculture.
