

Frigerio Pulling Argentine Strings

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

In Montevideo, Uruguay, across the broad River Plate from Argentina a mysterious figure once again is pulling strings in Argentina politics.

He is a stocky, bushy-browed self-made man in his late 40s whose name is Rogelio Frigerio. He describes himself as a friend both of former Argentine dictator Juan D. Peron and ousted President Arturo Frondizi. Right now the Argentine military have a warrant out for his arrest if he should be so foolish as to return to Argentina.

Which does not, however, eliminate him as a force.

Frigerio is mysterious because he seldom operates in the open. He did not even emerge as a figure in Argentine politics until after Peron's overthrow in 1955.

Busy Making Money

Before that he was too busy making money, first through a chain of men's shops and, later, in the textile business.

It was while trying his hand as editor of the news magazine Que closed under Peron in 1946 and reopened in 1956, that Frigerio began plugging Frondizi for president, a labor which occupied his attention all through 1957.

According to a story denied by Frondizi but claimed by Peron to be true, it was in 1957 that Frigerio went to Caracas, Venezuela, and signed a pact with a Peron representative guaranteeing the Peronists votes that led to Frondizi's election.

At any rate, Frigerio became Frondizi's all-powerful social and economic czar after Frondizi's landslide victory in 1958.

Involved With Cuba

He is the figure credited with being in back of Frondizi's reluctance to break with Cuba.

He also is credited with being the man responsible for the ouster of Roy Rubottom, U. S. ambassador to Argentina and former assistant secretary of state for Latin American affairs.

But he also is the man credited with Frondizi's appeal to Fidel Castro to break off with Russia, and with the decision to invite foreign investment and aid in the development of Argentina's oil industry.

He is, to say the least, controversial.

Within recent months he has conferred with Peron in the latter's Spanish exile.

As an individual, Frigerio is big business and speaks for big business — but Argentine big business. He likes President Kennedy but dislikes Wall Street.

Regroup The Masses

His objective is to bring three million isolated followers of Peron back into the country's political life in a union with the middle class followers of Frondizi.

The purpose, he said, is to give the masses greater benefits and to spur the nation's economic benefits.

The United States has endorsed the popular front idea and hopes the Argentine military will permit truly free elections next month. Such would seem to assure a victory for the combined Frondizi-Peronista forces.

At the moment, as Argentina drifts and its economy disintegrates, military decrees forbid either a Peronista candidate for president or a candidate openly supported by Peronists.

And whether Argentina would benefit by the return of the U.S.-hating Peron or his policies is at best extremely "iffy."

Miss Linda Jackson On Tour With Group

Miss Linda Jackson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sephus Jackson, 828 Parkview Dr., Decatur, is one of five Indiana Central College music students touring Indians and Illinois for singing engagements at conventions and at Evangelical United Brethren church camps this summer. At some camps they will also serve as camp counselors.

Miss Jackson, a 1959 Decatur high graduate, belongs to the Indiana conference north, and plans to be a music teacher. She sings alto in the quartet.

The other students in the quartet are Jean Warner, Culver, soprano; Lynn Youngblood, Terre Haute, tenor; and Philip Turley, Espanola, N.M., bass. Their accompanist is Joan Delle Brown, Camache, Ontario, Canada.

The group sang at the EUB women's convention at the college June 19, at the EUB camp counselors training program at Lake Wawasee June 21-22 and Camp Indicosa near Bedford, from Monday of this week until today.

Their further itinerary:

July 22-27: Illinois East Bay camp on Lake Bloomington, Indiana, Ill.

July 28-Aug. 3: Oakwood Park, where they will remain to serve as counselors for the following week, Aug. 4-10.

Aug. 12-14: Camp Indocoso.

Aug. 14-17: Oakwood Park, where they will complete their singing itinerary and work.

He is, to say the least, controversial.

Within recent months he has conferred with Peron in the latter's Spanish exile.

Endorses Bill For Debates By Nominees

WASHINGTON (UPI) —

Republican National Chairman William E. Miller today endorsed legislation to clear the way for a possible series of 1964 "great debates" between the presidential nominees.

Miller testified before a Senate subcommittee that the 1960 Kennedy-Nixon debates provided an excellent way for the voters to better understand the views of the nominees.

He cited estimates that 70 million people watched the four Kennedy-Nixon debates and that the exchanges influenced the votes of possibly half the viewers.

Miller supported legislation similar to that passed recently by the House to suspend the "equal time" provision of the Broadcasting Act for 1964, as it relates to presidential and vice presidential candidates. This would allow radio and television stations to present views of the top candidates without being forced to give equal time to fringe party candidates.

Miller said, however, he was against other legislation to extend the suspension to candidates for governor and Congress.

Other congressional news:

Taxes: Republican leaders of the House and Senate said the prospect was becoming "increasingly remote" for enactment this year of an income tax cut.

Civil Rights: Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz urged Congress to approve new tools for the government to fight job discrimination by employers and labor unions.

He assured a House hearing that the nation could absorb more Negro workers without forcing any one on relief rolls.

New Uniforms

The new uniforms are black with a white leather overlay, and matching white gloves and spats. All hats that accompany the uniforms are plumed. When the overlay is removed, the band members will have concert uniforms, Mrs. Singleton said.

There are also matching major uniforms for the baton twirlers of the band.

Mrs. Singleton said that contributions for the band uniform fund are still needed, and anyone wishing to contribute may do so by sending his donation to her.

Chicken Barbecue, Band Concert July 4

"Watch the skies this weekend," Mrs. Kenneth Singleton, president of the Decatur Band-Parents Association, explained to local residents this morning.

Leaflets will be dropped Saturday from an airplane telling of the association's July 4 old-fashioned chicken barbecue and band concert, weather permitted. If the weather is bad Saturday, then the leaflets will be dropped on the city Sunday.

The leaflets will be in various colors, Mrs. Singleton explained, but the blue leaflets are valuable.

Anyone finding a blue leaflet will be entitled to free chicken barbecue at the July 4 affair at Sunset Park.

Concert Feature

The old-fashioned chicken barbecue will be held from 5 to 7:30 p.m. on the Fourth of July, at Sunset Park, southeast of Decatur. A band concert will feature the affair.

Tickets are on sale at Sheets Furniture and Holthouse-on-the-Highway, and are priced at $1.50, and $1 for children under the age of 12.

Mrs. Singleton said that the organization hopes to have the new band uniforms by the start of the basketball season next November.

The choice of the new uniforms was recently made and approved by the Decatur school board and superintendent Gail M. Grubbs.

New Uniforms

The new uniforms are black with a white leather overlay, and matching white gloves and spats. All hats that accompany the uniforms are plumed. When the overlay is removed, the band members will have concert uniforms, Mrs. Singleton said.

There are also matching major uniforms for the baton twirlers of the band.

Mrs. Singleton said that contributions for the band uniform fund are still needed, and anyone wishing to contribute may do so by sending his donation to her.

Senate Passes Measure To Aid Depressed Areas

WASHINGTON (UPI) —

Overwhelming Senate approval of President Kennedy's aid to depressed areas program, brightened prospects today for a "second chance" try in the house.

The Senate, after two days of debate, Wednesday passed, 65-30, the bill to increase authorized funds for the Area Redevelopment Agency (ARA) by $455 million over the next two years.

The victory margin was two votes, more than the 63 senators who voted in 1961 to create the agency, which funnels loans and grants into communities afflicted with persistent unemployment.

Backers hoped the substantial Senate vote of confidence in the much-criticized agency would persuade the House to reverse its earlier rejection of the bill. In a stunning upset, the House defeated the measure, 209-204, two weeks ago.

House leaders were expected to bide their time, try to drum up support and count noses before submitting the issue to a second test.

Indications were that another attempt would not be made until the House has disposed of Kennedy's civil rights proposals. This would put a vote off until late August or early September.

House supporters hinted the program might be tightened up in committee, and the amount cut by $100 million or more to improve chances for passage.
