Back-To-School Lunches

The annual back-to-school season brings a flurry of activity to every household with school-age children. There's lots of shopping and planning to do to ready the youngsters for the busy year ahead.

As the school year settles down into a normal routine, one of the first things to lose its sparkle is the school-day lunch. Lunchtime can be a real problem in those areas which do not have school food service, for lunch must be brought from home. It takes ingenuity to plan varied noontime school meals day after day which satisfy food energy and nutritional requirements, yet appeal to youthful appetites at the same time.

Modern food wraps, such as Handi-Wrap plastic lunchbox wrap, help to solve lunch-packing problems. A wrap which protects flavor and freshness, provides leak-proof protection and allows you to see clearly what's inside is one of the handiest "school supplies" on your kitchen shelf.

Here are some lunch-packing tips from Handi-Wrap to help you pack a more satisfying school lunch.

* Children between six and 10 years old require 1700-2100 calories per day, depending on height, weight, body structure and activity. One-third of these food requirements should be met by the school lunch.

* Avoid bulky sandwiches and heavy foods in a packed school lunch—these are more likely to end up in the waste basket. Cut sandwiches in small sections and peel, section and wrap fruit separately for ease of eating.

* Include nutritious snacks in the lunchbox to discourage children from too many sweets. Such foods as dried prunes, raisins, peanuts, corn chips, tomato slices, carrot sticks, celery, cereal cookies or cereal snacks are healthful and pleasing.

* Pattern a packed lunch after the Type A school lunch meal which includes:

- 1/2 pint whole milk
- 2 ounces meat, fish, poultry or cheese or 1/2 cup cooked dried beans, peas or soy beans or 1/4 cup peanut butter
- 6 ounces or 3/4 cup of raw, cooked or processed vegetable or fruit
- 1 serving bread, muffin or other hot bread made of whole wheat or enriched cereal
- 2 teaspoons butter or fortified margarine

Chinese Reds Are Lining Up Splinter Groups

LONDON (UPI)—High Communist sources said today that Communist China is lining up left-wing or splinter Communist groups for a Peking-controlled Communist international to rival Moscow's.

Behind the strategy lies the Chinese belief that the minority status of the Peking camp will soon be changed to majority. The Chinese feel that time is on their side and that more and more Communists will swing over to their hard line in foreign policy.

The sources said Chinese Communist agents are contacting open opponents of Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's peaceful coexistence and also those considered potential opponents.

Moving Toward Split
High Communist informants saw in these developments a move towards a two-camp Communist international, although Moscow at present commands the undisputed backing of almost all of the world's parties.

But Peking's apparent determination to rip into the Moscow-controlled Red alignment was causing Khrushchev "very serious anxiety," the sources said. In Europe the Communists are solidly behind Khrushchev, although there are small splinter groups of Peking liners both in the satellites and in parties in West Europe.

But there may be more response eventually to Peking's wooing in Asia, Africa and Latin America.

Confirm Split Activities
Confirmation of Peking's splitting activities and Russia's uneasiness came from Communist, the Soviet party's ideological journal accusing the Red Chinese of "propagating anarchy in the Communist ranks."

The latest issue of the Moscow journal complained about the widespread propagation by the Chinese party leaders of their own views "among party members in various countries, above the head of the leadership of those parties."

The sources said that so far, the Peking tactics have merely "nuisance value" in as much as the support they can muster is held negligible. In any showdown at a world Communist rally, reported under consideration by Moscow, Red China now would find itself virtually isolated.

Mme. Nhu Planning Strenuous Schedule

NEW YORK (UPI)—Mme. Ngo Dinh Nhu begins a whirlwind round of speaking engagements today that she hopes will silence her critics and those of her brother-in-law's regime in South Vietnam.

Mme. Nhu, who arrived here Monday night for an unofficial visit that has met strong congressional opposition, should be rested and well-prepared for her strenuous schedule which includes television interviews and a lunch address.

She and her 17-year-old daughter, Le Thy, remained in their mid-Manhattan hotel room Tuesday and through the night. It was believed that she and her staff were working on her forthcoming talks.

While Mme. Nhu was quiet, her father, Tran Van Chuong, spoke to a club meeting a few blocks from her hotel and again rebuffed her, saying he did not intend to see his daughter during her three-week visit in the United States. Chuong, who did express a desire to meet his granddaughter, said he would refuse to see Mme. Nhu because "I am fully conscious of the harm that has been done to my country by the Diem family to which she belongs."

Kosciusko County Sheriff Honored

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (UPI)—The Indiana Sheriffs Association at its convention here picked Howard Holbrook, sheriff of Kosciusko County as "Sheriff of the Year" for his solution of the "Bible Belt" slaying.

Holbrook, 48, was credited by state police to the arrest of Mark Wilson, 19, Warsaw, in the slaying of Mrs. Louise Bollinger, Winona Lake, earlier this year. Wilson is now serving a life sentence for the robbery-slaying.

Decatur Man Fined In Van Wert Court

JIMMY DOW PRICE, 30, of Decatur, pleaded guilty to defacing a center line and was fined $10 and costs in Van Wert city court.
