Final plans for the bazaar and style show were discussed. Mrs. Charles Buckley, chairman, reported that the stores showing fashions in the style show are Niblick and company, E. F. The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Simeon Schmitt urged all members to attend the Eucharistic hour to be held at the coliseum in Fort Wayne, Sunday. Elizabeth Kohne gave a display of rosaries for the mission and home use. An article entitled "Rosary Reflections" was read, giving the origin and meditation of the rosary. Alice Gage, accompanied at the piano by Rita Girard, sang "Ave Maria" and "My Rosary." Refreshments were served by the Mesdames Joe Murphy, Hugh Holthouse, Richard Walters, Bernard Clark and Miss Agnes Nesswald.

CORRECTION

The name of Mrs. Arthur Miller was unintentionally omitted from the list of those attending the 25th anniversary celebrating of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Small, as given in Tuesday's Decatur Daily Democrat.

Nobel Literature Prize Awarded Greek

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UPI)—Greek poet and diplomat Giorgos Seferiades won the 1963 Nobel Prize for literature today.

Seferiades is the first Greek ever to win a Nobel prize which this year carries a cash value of $51,158.

The Swedish Academy of Letters gave the 63-year-old poet-diplomat the award for the "unique thought and style and beauty of his language, which has become a lasting symbol of all that is indestructible in the Hellenic acceptance of life."

Seferiades, who wrote under the name of Seferis, recently retired as Greek ambassador to London after 30 years in the foreign service.

Born in what is now Izmir, Turkey, in 1900, Seferiades fled to Athens as a refugee from Turkish persecution in Asia Minor.

His first collection of poems, "The Turning Point," was published in 1931.

Widely admired among Greece's intelligentsia, Seferiades was named an honorary

Approve Computer For State Auditor

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI)—The old battle between State Auditor Dorothy Gardner and the administration of Governor Welsh over a computer for the auditor's office was a step nearer to an end today.

The Indiana Budget Agency Wednesday approved an expenditure of $1,700 to prepare Mrs. Gardner's office for installation of the computer of her choice.

Much of the work will involve installation of air conditioning since the type of machine to be installed functions best in a controlled temperature. The work also involves construction of a false floor to permit installation of electric lines.

Welsh at one time blocked Mrs. Gardner from proceeding plans to install the type of computer she wanted because it was made by a different manufacturer than the computer used by the state's data processing center. The objection was dropped after the acquisition of equipment to permit interchange of tapes between the two machines.

In other action Wednesday, the Budget Agency:

—Approved an additional $250,000 for work on Monroe Reservoir which is being constructed with both federal and state funds.

—Authorized Indiana University to spend a total of $1.3 million on a new power plant.

—Authorized the State Highway Department to spend $85,000 of its own funds for alterations to a building recently acquired in Indianapolis for use as a warehouse for signs and signal materials.

—Approved $45,032 for purchase of public hunting and fishing sites for the Winamac Fish and Game area.

doctor of literature by Cambridge University in 1960. The following year he won the William Foyle Prize in London for his translations of English poetry into Greek.

His works include "Mythistorema," "Gymnopedia," "Essays," "Poems 1924-1946," "Cyprus," and "The King of Asine and Other Poems."

No Americans were among the top contenders for the prize, according to sources close to the Swedish Academy of Letters, which selects the prize winners.

Novelist John Steinbeck was last year's winner and the prize is rarely awarded to writers from the same nation in consecutive years.

Other candidates listed by the sources were British novelist Graham Greene, philosopher and playwright Jean-Paul Sartre of France, Irish playwright Samuel Beckett, novelist Alberto Moravia of Italy, and Pablo Neruda, a Chilean Communist poet.

Heat Records Are Broken In State

By United Press International
Temperatures broke all records existing nearly a century again in Indiana Wednesday and threatened a new assault on the statistics today as unprecedented autumn heat and drought continued.

Although a little cooler weather was expected Saturday and scattered showers or thundershowers were indicated to put a crimp in the monotony of the most unique fall in Hoosier history, two more days of drought and warmth loomed first.

A high reading of 86 at Indianapolis Wednesday broke the record for Oct. 23, established in 1947, and marked the warmest temperature ever recorded so late in the season. The previous high was 86 on Oct. 21.

The mercury was due to hit the mid 80s in the capital city again this afternoon and was almost certain to break the record for the date of 78 set in 1886 and tied twice in 1899 and 1921. If it gets up to 84, it will set another new record high for so late in the season.

Other highs Wednesday included 88 at Evansville, 85 at Fort Wayne, 83 at South Bend and Louisville.

"MEMOS" from your Stylist

By: HENRY J. GREEN

Ever since a wit once observed that "gentlemen prefer blondes," there has been sporadic effort on the part of dark-haired women to become blonde.

When you come right down to cases, there are two basic types of blondes—the natural-looking blonde and her high-fashion sister. The natural blonde is often a tint, a process which deposits color on the hair, but does not strip it. The result: A flaxen blonde or topaz.

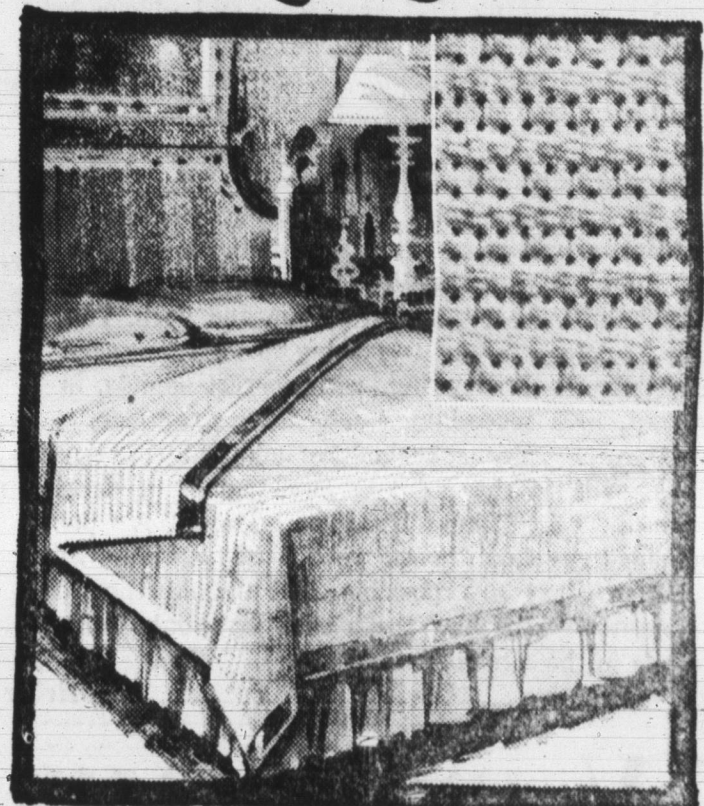

The high-fashion tones favored by actresses are a more complicated technique which lightens the hair before color is applied. The high-fashion tone may require two to four hours, a tint one-quarter the time.

Whether you desire a tasteful tint, a pleasing permanent or hair styling of uncommon charm, your guarantee of complete satisfaction is MI-LA-de STYLING SALON. Our operators take exceptional pride in their work at MI-LA-de STYLING SALON, U. S. Rte. 27, and Jackson. Phone 3-4478.
