KIRKLAND W. C. T. U. IN RECENT MEETING

The Kirkland W. C. T. U. met recently at the home of Mrs. Esta Ginter. The meeting opened with the group singing, "At the Cross," "The Way of the Cross Leads Home," and "The Old Rugged Cross."

Mrs. Frank Arnold gave the devotions, reading the 20th chapter of John, and leading in prayer. Each member answered roll call by reading a Bible verse. Plans were made for the spring county institute to be April 14 at the Antioch Missionary church. The state institute director, Mary Bly, will be the speaker.

The meeting was closed by the group singing, "Blest Be the Tie," Mrs. John Gage dismissed with prayer. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

FAMILY DINNER ON 25TH ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Sommer, route 2, entertained with a family dinner at the Preble Gardens March 25 in honor of their 25th wedding anniversary.

The white covered table was centered with a floral arrangement of pink carnations and white mums, flanked on either end with crystal candelabras and pink candles.

The couple are the parents of five children. Barbara (Mrs. James M. Cleveland) who resides at Shaw Air Force Base, South Carolina; John with the Army at Fort Knox, Ky.; Paul, recently released from the Navy, after serving two years on the USS Lake Champlain at Quonset Point, Rhode Island; and Roger and Becky, at home. They also have two grandchildren, Mary Dawn and Roger Neal Cleveland of South Carolina.

Mr. and Mrs. Sommer were married at the Methodist parsonage in Decatur by Rev. Robert Yonker, who was minister at the Beulah Chapel church at that time.

Mrs. Sommer was the former Ruth McBarnes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wade McBarnes of 340 N. 10th street.

Other guests attending the dinner were their attendants and their families; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hildebrand, Steven, Carolyn, and Tom, route 2, and Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Sommer, Janice and Mike, route 2, Berne.

MONROE W. C. T. U. MEETS RECENTLY

The Monroe W. C. T. U. met at the home of Mrs. John Gage. The meeting opened with the group singing, "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross." Devotions taken from the "Upper Room" were given by Mrs. Mary Jane Fosnaugh.

Business was conducted by the president, Mrs. Jack McBride. The spring institute will be held April 14 at the Antioch church. This will be an all day meeting with a sack lunch at noon time. "Inspiring Institute Meetings," was given by Mrs. McBride. A skit, "Come Let Us Reason Together," will be given by the Monroe ladies at the institute meeting. A leaflet entitled "Total Abstinence," was given by Mrs. Robert Gage. An item from the message by former governor Handley of Indiana was given by Mrs. Otto Longenberger. "Blest be the Tie," was sung by the group after which Mrs. Lawrence Michel dismissed with prayer.

Tanker Is Enroute To Port Under Tow

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI)—The stern half of the explosion-split tanker San Jacinto headed toward port under tow today with her captain and 34 crewmen sticking with the "mass of twisted steel."

The tug pulling the broken tanker was making only about three knots in the rolling seas and was not expected to arrive until Saturday morning. "The men seemed pretty impassive, just waiting," said Navy Lt. (j.g.) Tom F. Baker, who flew a helicopter over the ship Thursday. "Our executive officer lowered a note offering to take them off but they wanted to remain aboard."

The 554-foot tanker, en route from Portland, Maine, to Houston, Tex., was blown apart early Thursday morning by an explosion about 40 miles off the Virginia Capes. Chief Steward Martin Dotilla, one of two men who left the San Jacinto in a lifeboat to transport the ship's papers to safety, apparently mary. Welsh originally entered the primary to prevent Wallace from grabbing by default the 51 first ballot Indiana votes at the Democratic national convention. Under Indiana law, delegates must vote on the first ballot for the winner of their party's presidential preference primary.

Wallace's petition, bearing some 600 signatures, was filed Thursday by R. W. Lawley Jr., assistant news secretary to the Alabama governor. Welsh filed earlier in the week.

Jack L. New, Welsh's executive secretary, confirmed Thursday night that the Wallace petition was under investigation. He said there would be an investigation of "reported irregularities" in the Wallace petition and those of other candidates in the two presidential primaries.

Others who filed were Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and Indianapolis Negro attorney Frank Beckwith among the Republicans and Democrats Hugh Latham, Rockville, La. Daly, Chicago, and Faye Carpenter Swain, Greenhill, Ohio.

New said an examination of the Wallace petition showed signatures of residents of Kentucky and Illinois, batches of from two to four names written by the same person and the signatures of such persons as "Willie the Polack" and "Sam Sandwich."

The Stassen probe stemmed from reports that the candidate offered to pay the DePauw University Young Republican Club $500 to obtain the necessary 500 signatures for his petition. It also was reported that Latham, a Democrat, had signed Stassen's petition.

New noted that in 1948, Dixiecrat presidential candidate Strom Thurmond was removed from the Indiana ballot when it developed that most of the signatures on the petition to put his name on the ballot came from registered Republicans.

Interrupted Painting
When painting around your home in the evenings and on weekends, you can avoid the arduous job of cleaning your brush each time by wrapping it in paper and storing it in a tin of linseed oil.

here until Saturday morning.

"We have no idea if this (tank cleaning) contributed to the explosion and will not know until we have had a chance to talk to the master and some of the crewmen," said William Lyon, traffic supervisor in the marine department of the Trinidad Corp., in New York, owners of the vessel.
