"No-Sweat Coaches"

Phil N. Eskew gave a good run-down of the reasons for forming the IHSAA, his philosophy in running it, and his feelings on how all spectators can help, rather than hinder, their own athletes, from his own experience, while speaking to the "D" Club banquet of 350 Friday night.

As a parent, Eskew pointed out, he felt that his job was to see that his son was in good shape mentally and physically for every game, and it was the coaches job to plan to the game strategy; never try to second-guess or coach from the bleachers, or criticize the boys playing, was Eskew's advice after 35 years of experience.

He explained how he had learned this through his own family, when his son, under heavy pressure in a big game, bobbled a kickoff, and allowed the opposite team members to score a touchdown. Boos from the crowd nearly tore his son's mind apart, and kept him "down" for two weeks, until it just happened that All-American Tommy Harmon happened to do exactly the same thing in a big game — and showed him that even the best do it.

It's very easy, while sitting in the "no-sweat" bleacher seats, to tell those "on the field" how they should have played it. It's also very easy to ruin your team's chances by putting them in poor mental attitude. Let the coach do the directing, and sit back to enjoy the game, Eskew recommends. It's always easy to tell someone else how to run his job, but it is much more difficult to pitch in and help. Those who can, do — those who can't, complain "No-sweat coaches" are one of life's little problems in every field, from athletics to writing editorials!

Annual D-Club Banquet Is Held Friday Evening; Awards Are Presented

Greg Ladd was named most valuable basketball player and Alan Kalver and Sam Baumann co-most valuable wrestlers, by the Decatur high school Booster club at the annual D-Club banquet Friday evening, attended by nearly 350 members, wives, dates, and athletic fans from this area.

Several other awards were made during the evening, and Phil N. Eskew, commissioner of the Indiana high school athletic association, concluded the program by using much delightful humor to depict some of the background and working of the I.H.S.A.A.

Fred Isch, president of the Booster club, made the presentation of the awards. Ladd received his trophy for not only his selection as most valuable of the basketball squad, but for garnering the most rebounds during the season.

Kalver and Baumann, seniors like Ladd, were chosen as co-winners of the most valuable award in wrestling, the second year the trophy was given Mark Corral won the award last year.

Baumann's trophy was slightly larger, as he had won the most matches by pins during the recently-concluded season.

Other Awards Several other awards were presented during the banquet, including a plaque to sophomore basketball player Sam Blythe for the best free throw percentage during the season.

Arthur Ybarra, a sophomore, was presented with a cup in recognition of his becoming the school's first sectional wrestling champion in the meet at Marion last February.

The Booster club also awarded small plaques to each of the 11 lettermen, student manager Eric Kelly and coach Giessler of the wrestling team, in recognition of their outstanding season. Each plaque had the individual's name and the 10-3 season record engraved.

Daley Recognized Harry Daley, veteran teacher and golf team coach, was given a beautiful plaque by the club in recognition of his "outstanding work as a coach, teacher and friend," which was part of the inscription.

After the club's awards were presented, the four senior members of the wrestling squad, Kalver, Baumann, Deane Lehman and Steve Hazelwood, gave a huge plaque to their coach, Gary Giessler. The four young men had worked with Giessler since he started wrestling in Decatur three years ago and presented him with the plaque as a token of their appreciation.

Greg Ladd, president of the D-Club, the school's letterman organization, presented an athletic blanket to Isch. Ladd had spoken on behalf of the D-Club in welcoming everyone and thanking the club, the many fans and the parents.

Teams Introduced Each of the high school coaches was introduced by athletic director Bob Worthman, emcee of the banquet, and they in turn introduced the members of their various teams. Bill McColly introduced lettermen of the basketball, baseball and cross-country teams; Giessler, the wrestling team; Wally Yeoman, the football and track teams; Daily, the golf squad; John Butler, rifle team.

McColly, in introducing his lettermen, gave special thanks to Larry Lehman, a student manager for McColly all four years he was in high school. McColly told the crowd there was no doubt that Lehman was "all-NEIC."

Assistant coaches Jerry Mitchell, Steve Brandenburg and Charles Abel were also introduced by Worthman. Worthman also thanked the junior high coaches, Tony

San Francisco Evens Series With Hawks

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Thanks to what Coach Alex Hannum termed a "bust out night," it's a brand new series today between his San Francisco Warriors and the St. Louis Hawks for the NBA's Western Division playoff title.

"We needed a bust out night after the pressure that built up following Wednesday's loss to St. Louis and we sure got one," Hannum said after the Warriors had demolished the Hawks, 120-85, last night. "No team ever has played a better defensive game in this league than ours."

Deadlocked with one win apiece, the clubs now move to St. Louis for resumption of their best of seven series Sunday and Wednesday. Then they return to San Francisco for a Friday game.

The survivor meets the Eastern Division champs for the NBA title. Action in that playoff resumes Sunday at Cincinnati where the Boston Celtics go after their third win in as many games against the Royals.

The Warriors, who bowed to St. Louis at USF gym on Wednesday while blowing a 20-point lead, ran the Midwesterners to distraction on the Cow Palace hardwood the second time around.

Bob Pettit, who averages around 27 points per game for St. Louis, came out of this one with 14 while fellow gunner Cliff Hagan only accounted for six more.

Wilt Chamberlain of the Warriors paced all the scorers with 28 points but their real hero was Guy Rodgers. The wheeler-dealer guard triggered a destructive fast break and also poured in 21 points of his own.

Experiments By Rigney Feature Angels' Camp

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the 18th of 20 dispatches on the 1964 prospects of major league baseball teams).

By SCOTT BAILLIE
UPI Sports Writer

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI)—Look for the Los Angeles Angels to turn Chavez Ravine into an open-air laboratory this season while hunting the formula for escaping ninth place.

After amazing the baseball world with a third-place finish in 1962, Bill Rigney's young club fell all the way down to the next to last spot in the American League last year. But it only was their third operation and so the experiments are in full swing.

To date, the first one is a fixzle. This called for sending the veteran Billy Moran from second to third base and turning the middle bag over to rookie Bobby Knoop. The latter is a fast fielder and considerably faster than the 30-year-old Moran.

Gets Sore Arm

But Billy came up with such a sore arm making the long throw over to first that he recently has had trouble even flipping the ball back to the mound during batting practice.

So Rigney is thinking of installing Knoop at third and restoring Moran to second. Last year's regular third sacker, Felix Torres, refused to sign after being put on the Hawaii roster and is somewhere in Puerto Rico.

Rigney feels that he would have a strong club down the middle if Knoop stayed at second base. He and star shortstop

Jim Fregosi have been impressive. Then there is Albie Pearson, the fleet "mighty mouse," in center and take-charge guy Bob Rodgers is slated to do most of the catching after being laid up twice last year with a broken finger and sprained ankle.

Another experiment is on in left field, where rookies Ed Kirkpatrick and Dick Simpson are getting the first shots at the vacancy created when Leon Wagner was traded to Cleveland. In the wings is the veteran Jim Piersall, currently not on the roster, who could solve the problem there.

Loss Hefly Hitter Wagner took a .291 batting average to Cleveland. He also hit 26 homers from the left side of the plate although he had his batting and fielding woes in Chavez.
