

Turkey Warns Greece Of Any Attacks In Cyprus On Soldiers Of Turkey

Nation Pays Respect To Gen. MacArthur

NEW YORK (UPI)—The body of old soldier Douglas MacArthur lies in public repose today to receive the last respects of the nation for which he fought as a general in three wars.

General of the Army MacArthur, who until his death was the nation's highest ranking military officer, lies in the armory of the Seventh Regiment which he served as a brigade commander in World War I.

The public was to be admitted to the Park Avenue armory at 10 a.m. EST where the big brass doors would remain open into the night — until there no longer were any mourners wishing to enter.

Before the public is allowed in to pay its respects, a brief memorial service will be held in the oak-paneled conference room where the body rests atop a four-foot bier. Clergy of the Protestant, Catholic and Jewish faiths will offer prayers and Lt. Gen. Garrison H. Davidson, commanding general of the First U.S. Army, will place a wreath at the casket as the personal representative of services were to begin at 9:30 a.m.

Body Is Moved
MacArthur's body was moved a few blocks from a funeral chapel to the armory at 4 a.m. EST. The flag-draped casket was transported in an eight-wheeled motorcade through nearly deserted Manhattan streets during a driving rainstorm. It was accompanied by eight military pallbearers, two color guards and 20 honor guards from the five armed services.

The body of the general, who died Sunday in Walter Reed Army Medical Center at the age of 84, is clad in a plain tropical worsted uniform, devoid of the many medals — including the Medal of Honor — which he won during a 61-year career as a soldier. Only the five stars of a general of the Army were pinned on his jacket. The steel-gray GI-issue casket in which MacArthur lies was open at the top with an American flag draped across the lower portion.

At the funeral chapel where the body lay Monday for private viewing by the late general's family and a small circle of personal friends, a five-man honor guard, one from each of the services, stood at parade rest near the casket — three at the head, two at the foot.

Visit Chapel
MacArthur's widow, Jean, and his son Arthur III visited the chapel at 5:15 p.m. and stayed for four minutes. They were accompanied by the general's long-time aide, Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney.

Many persons who came to the chapel in the rain Monday were turned away by police. They included retired Col. Anthony Story, the pilot who flew MacArthur home from Korea in 1951 after President Truman relieved him of his command there.

Wednesday morning, MacArthur's casket will be conveyed by horse-drawn caisson in a 50-minute procession to Pennsylvania Station on the first leg of a trip to Washington for further honors. About 2,700 military personnel, including nearly the entire corps of cadets from the U.S. Military Academy, will march in the cortege.

MacArthur's body will be taken by special train from this city, where he lived the last 13 years of his life, to the nation's capital where it will lie in the Capitol Rotunda from Wednesday afternoon until Thursday. Then it will be taken to Norfolk, Va., the general's chosen resting place, to lie in state until Saturday. It will be placed in the MacArthur Memorial, a 114-year-old building which once served as the Norfolk city hall and courthouse. After a brief memorial service, MacArthur will be entombed in a mausoleum at the memorial.

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI) — Turkey served notice on Greece today that it will land an expeditionary force on Cyprus if the troops it already has here are attacked by islanders of Greek descent.

A note delivered in Athens advised the Greek government that Turkey would regard such an attack as an attack on its own soil. The Turks do not recognize the right of President Makarios to repeal the treaty under which they maintain troops on Cyprus.

Turkish Ambassador Nedim Veysel said the note was delivered with urgency because the Turks had information that an attack on their troops was planned.

Greek Foreign Minister Stavros Kostopoulos, to whom Veysel handed the note, expressed astonishment at the hour of the delivery — 3 a.m.

U.N. troops patrolled strategic ridges in western Cyprus today, trying to enforce a shaky ceasefire between Greek and Turkish Cypriots.

The truce was negotiated by U.N. officers Monday night after four persons were killed in fighting around the towns of Kokkina and Pakhyammos.

Majorki Speaks At Lions Club Meeting

Announcement was made Monday night at the weekly meeting of the Decatur Lions club that local Lion Carroll Schroeder had been elected to the district Lions post of cancer control trustee. Albion was the scene of Sunday's district Lions club convention. Over 200 delegates and their wives represented some 60 area Lions clubs. Local Lions attending with their wives were Roy Price, Carroll Schroeder, and Smith Snively.

Monday night's program was presented by local golf pro Luke Majorki who, assisted by John Pfister, presented a filmed presentation of last fall's Decatur golf tourney. Majorki, through photography, illustrated some basic fundamentals of the golf stance.

Wednesday evening will be the first meeting of the newly reorganized Lions' Boy Scout troop under the leadership of Jack Coolman, scoutmaster. Coolman will be assisted by Explorer Scout Steve Hazelwood. Any boy interested, in becoming a member of this troop, may contact either of these leaders, any club member, or club president Dick Mies.

Lions were reminded of the local attendance contest running through April and May. Wives of the Lions are to be honored guests Monday, April 27, at which time the program will be presented by the Purdue Center glee club.

A brief board of directors meeting followed the regular meeting. Plans were finalized for the senior breakfast to again be sponsored this year by the Lions club. Committee appointments will soon be announced.

Buy New Equipment For County Farm

New equipment for the county farm, a petition for paving a Blue Creek township road, and the court house parking problem occupied the Adams county commissioners Monday afternoon.

The commissioners ate lunch while inspecting the county farm, and enjoyed the hospitality of the farm while making certain that the residents there are fairly treated and well fed.

The commissioners had Charles Morgan, county farm manager, check on the cost of equipment, and purchased a hay rake and cultipacker from Robert Eiting, Decatur Equipment, for $630. It was the lowest price of any of the five places checked, they stated. Bids do not have to be advertised under $2,000.

Four men from Blue Creek township, including William M. Burke, Marvin Haines, and Morris Miller, asked that county road 17, which runs two miles from the Salem road to their church, be paved. The commissioners took the matter under advisement.

The commissioners discussed the matter of parking, with the possibility of leasing indoor parking across the street, or building a parking lot on the court house lawn for court house employees, being discussed. No conclusions were reached.

The commissioners also examined the location of the master switch for the new elevator which was originally installed in the men's rest room in the court house. This has already proved very unsuitable, with the mechanism already damaged and parts stolen. The construction company has decided to move it to a new location, beside the elevator shaft.

The metal frame for the new stairway has been installed around the cement elevator shaft and it is hoped that the new stairway will soon be installed, so that it can be used for those having business upstairs in the court house.

Tornados Hit North Alabama

By United Press International
Tornado winds smashed several homes in a swath across north Alabama today.

Several injuries were reported. At least four communities reported that damaging winds struck during the morning. The Birmingham Weather Bureau described the storms as "small type tornadoes." Police said the damage might have been caused by one tornado skipping across the three-county area.

The twisters struck at the Longview and Vinemont communities north of Cullman, Arab and the Oak Hill community near Crossville, north of Gadsden. The line of damaged areas ran west to east across Cullman, Marshall and Dekalb counties.

Twenty homes were damaged and three destroyed at Longview. Several homes were destroyed at Vinemont, two at Oak Hill and a cafe was demolished at Arab.

The Weather Bureau issued a tornado forecast for the northern portions of Alabama and Georgia and western South Carolina.

Floods drove hundreds of persons from homes in Georgia and Mississippi and up to 14 inches of snow fell in the central Rockies. Canadian cold marched into Texas.

A 2-inch rainfall in 12 hours caused flash flooding along creeks near Chattanooga, Tenn. Wind gusts up to 70 miles an hour during the night damaged

Braun Heirs Ditch Approved By Court

The Braun heirs ditch, which is located in Washington township south of Decatur and which flows into a small creek that enters the St. Mary's river between Borum's Run and Yellow Creek, was approved Monday by the Indiana appellate court following ten years litigation. The appellate court upheld the earlier decision of Judge Myles F. Parrish, of the Adams circuit court.

John L. DeVoss, Decatur attorney, C. R. McNabb and Thomas D. Logan, Fort Wayne attorneys, represented those who wanted the ditch, which included Albert F. Braun, Herman L. Braun, Naomi A. Braun, Margaret M. Braun, Victor L. Baltzell, Alice M. Baltzell, Harry M. Bowers, Cigene L. Bowers, J. J. Yost, Ida S. Yost, Belle Walters, Freeman H. Walters, Earl L. Harmon, Ireta Harmon, Clem Colchin, George E. Thomas, Margaret T. Thomas, Wilbur R. Stanley, Elva M. Stanley, Floyd Mitchell and Veda Mitchell.

Losing the case were Thompson R. Noll, Allie Noll and Eloise A. Noll, represented by Hubert R. McClenahan of Decatur, Barrett, Barrett & McNaghy, and J. Michael O'Hara, of Fort Wayne.

Filed in 1954
The case was originally filed in 1954, but did not come to issue until 1962, when Judge Parrish ruled in favor of the ditch. It was then assessed at costs totaling $13,997 to those whose land was involved. The three objectors then appealed to the Indiana appellate court.

The appellate court decision, written by Justice C. J. Carson, stated that the action came under a decision of the trial court on issues joined upon the final decision of the surveyor and remonstrances thereto filed by the appellants (the Nolls) with reference to the establishment of a drainage ditch in Adams county. The lower court found against the remonstrators, and the appeal was processed.

The Inadequate
The ditch would replace a presently inadequate tile drain, which lies in the bed of the former Braun heirs ditch.

The appellate court held that the motion filed by Noll's attorneys failed to make a proper assignment of errors, and no error was presented for their consideration. Justices Cooper, Ryan and Faulconer concurred.

Maiden Flight Is Planned On Space Capsule

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — U.S. scientists today sidled the unique rocket test of a "flying thermometer" and turned their attention to Wednesday's planned maiden flight of a Gemini space capsule.

The 7,000-pound Gemini, unmanned but highly instrumented, was poised atop a two-stage Titan-2 booster for a flight to pave the way for space voyages by U.S. astronauts late this year or in early 1965.

The federal space agency wants to send the capsule into a low orbit around earth to test launching techniques. The craft is an early model of Gemini spaceships that two-man astronauts will ride.

On a launching pad several miles away, an Atlas missile with a 200-pound payload called "Fire-1" in its nose remained securely locked. An attempt to shoot the probe 5,000 miles across the Atlantic Ocean Monday was called off because of foul weather in the planned target area.

Scientists needed virtually unhampered visibility to track the probe as a second-stage Atlas rocket rammed it back through the atmosphere at a speed of seven miles per second. The test is designed to measure the sort of atmospheric heat that U.S. moonships would face on returns from lunar landing trips.

The launching of Fire-1, which one expert called a giant "thermometer," was rescheduled for Friday.

Scientists also were demanding nearly ideal weather — this time in the Cape Kennedy launching area — for the Gemini shot. Camera coverage will play a vital role in determining the success of the attempt.

On hand to witness the firing will be the nation's entire team of 29 astronauts, officials said. The first men to ride the Gemini craft into space will come from this group, and the pilots are expected to be announced within the next few days or weeks.

Soviet Press Keeps Up Chinese Attacks

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union today rallied more support for its ideological fight with Communist China and published new denunciations of Peking for "slander on the Soviet people."

The Communist party newspaper Pravda printed pledges of support from the Communist parties of Bulgaria, Poland, Czechoslovakia, West Germany, and from leaders of the Soviet party for the policies of Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev.

The Soviet press was keeping up the attacks on Peking at home while Khrushchev, touring Hungary, made anti-Chinese speeches abroad.

Pravda, following up a personal attack on Mao Tze-tung in Monday's Izvestia, said a meeting of the Uzbekistan Republic Central Committee denounced the "anti-Leninist platform and splitting activities of the Communist party of China."

Afraid of Cooperation
One speaker, K. Murtazayev, said the Chinese Communists "are afraid that cooperation with the U.S.S.R. might bring to China the fresh cleansing wind of the ideas of the 20th and 22nd party congresses."

It was at these congresses that Khrushchev started and carried through his denunciation of Stalin. One of the charges Moscow brings against Peking is that it is a Stalinist regime.

Izvestia Monday made a rare personal attack on the leader of a foreign Communist party when it accused Mao of promoting a personality cult, the same charges made against Stalin.

The government newspaper said of the Chinese: "They blow the fanfares for the whole world to hear about the major successes they have allegedly achieved without the aid of the socialist countries, about the grandeur and genius of the present day leadership of the Communist party of China and in particular Mao Tze-tung."

Transformed Into Idol
"He has been transformed into an idol, to bow before whom is in China the highest sign of devotion to communism."

It also charged that Mao showed "great admiration for Genghis Khan, the Mongol chieftain whose hordes conquered much of what is now the Soviet Union 800 years ago. "The 800th anniversary of the bloody conqueror Genghis Khan has been celebrated with much ado in China," Izvestia said.

Anti-Poverty Fight Renewed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An appeal for congressional action from Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy marked the renewal today of the Johnson administration's anti-poverty campaign.

Kennedy, brother of the late president and brother-in-law of poverty program chief R. Sargent Shriver Jr., was the first witness at the resumption of hearings by a House education and labor subcommittee.

Federal Housing Administrator Robert C. Weaver also was to lend his support to the proposal to spend $962 million to give new skills and environments to poor youths, finance local anti-poverty projects, establish a domestic Peace Corps and provide new funds for small businessmen and farmers.

The subcommittee heard testimony from five cabinet members in a week of hearings last month. On deck Wednesday are Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall and Small Business Administrator Eugene P. Foley, then the panel will turn to public witnesses.

Civil Rights: Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., a leading opponent of the civil rights bill, said he has "no objection" to voting soon on amendments to test the administration's resistance to change in the measure. Ervin said the crucial sections of the bill "have got to be changed very drastically." Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., speaking in favor of the measure, said its provision on use of federal funds rested on the "so simple, so sound" principle that taxpayers' money should not be spent to encourage discrimination.

Polygraphs: House investigators set out to explore the government's use of lie detectors (polygraphs); a practice that critics contend could shatter public confidence in federal officials. The government information subcommittee arranged a panel discussion with nationally recognized polygraph experts to discuss use of the devices.

Pesticides: A Senate subcommittee called on federal officials to testify on the possible effects on human beings of insect poisons used to spray food crops. James M. Quigley, assistant secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, was the first scheduled witness before the Senate group. He faced questioning about a recent Public Health Service report on fish-kills in the lower Mississippi.

Strike By Belgian Doctors Continues

BRUSSELS (UPI) — Thousands of workers angrily demonstrated against the Belgian doctors' strike today while judicial authorities investigated the deaths of a baby and a school teacher which may have been linked to the week-old nationwide walk-out.

Labor leaders at an outdoor meeting of some 3,000 demonstrating workers in the town of Gilly pleaded with the striking doctors to resume home visits to ailing children and old age pensioners.

At a Socialist party meeting in Fontaine Leveque, Parliament member Ernest Glinne urged the government to draft all doctors who hold military reserve officer ranks.

The magistrate in the Flemish city of Turnhout today announced an order for the formal arrest of two doctors taken into custody and questioned Monday about the death of an 18-month-old boy. His parents called for medical aid last Saturday but it took more than nine hours to get a physician because their family doctor was on strike.

The mayor of Bray in south Belgium today ordered a judicial investigation into the death of teacher Raymond Donnez, 42, whose widow claimed she tried vainly for an hour to contact a doctor.

Despite rising protests, the doctors gave no sign of abandoning their strike.
