

Turnovers In Voting Affect Both Parties

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Vote turnovers in Indiana have deeply affected the fortunes of both the Republican and Democratic parties.

For many years, the GOP in this state counted heavily on a substantial bloc of the Negro vote, dating from the days of Abraham Lincoln, who freed the slaves.

Today, because of Democratic liberal policies and the vote of Sen. Barry M. Goldwater against the civil rights bill, Republican leaders believe that the party will be lucky to garner 20 per cent of the Negro voters next November.

Part of this vote defection will be made up by the "back lash" white element, which was responsible materially for the fact that Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace won more than 29 per cent of the Democratic vote in the Hodson presidential primary, according to the Indiana politicos.

Wallace's retirement from the presidential race may capture most of these votes for Goldwater, it has been argued.

Lake County Factor

The action of Hoosier Democratic chiefs in depriving Wallace of the three delegates he won in party's primary may help in switching the "back lash" total to Goldwater, it also was pointed out.

Wallace won these delegates in Lake County where racial unrest has been prevalent. He carried Lake and adjoining Porter County in the primary.

Conflict over an open occupancy ordinance in Indianapolis likewise may bolster the Goldwater cause, according to the politicos.

It takes an old timer to remember when Lake County, a Democratic citadel ever since President Franklin D. Roosevelt created the New Deal in 1933, once was a Republican stronghold.

The GOP climate in the Calumet was so pronounced that the Democrats charged that Sen. James E. Watson, then Senate GOP floor leader, was "counted in" by unscrupulous officials of Lake County in 1926 when Albert Stump was the Democratic senatorial nominee.

Bontrager's Explanation

While many Hoosier GOP chiefs are a bit concerned about Goldwater's defense of "extremism" as an encouragement of the Ku Klux Klan and the John Birch Society, Sen. D. Russell Bontrager, Republican senatorial nominee, takes a different view.

"I believe that the people of Indiana will take the position that Senator Goldwater's statement was the climax of a long series of statements dealing with justice in the framework of the law," Bontrager said.

Senator Goldwater had been talking about mobs and switch blade gangs."

New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, GOP liberal leader, however, has said:

"To extol extremism, whether in defense of liberty or in pursuit of justice, is dangerous, irresponsible, and frightening."

Two Adams County Entrants In Show

Purebred Holstein breeders throughout Indiana are growing their prize animals for exhibition at the Indiana state black and white show, which will be held Saturday at the 4-H fairgrounds, one mile east of Marion on state road 118.

At least two Adams county residents, Roland Liechty, route 1, Berne, and Harry Wullman, route 2, Berne, will have cattle in the show.

The affair will start at 9:30 a.m. with Dr. John L. McKittrick, of Ohio, a nationally known cattle judge, making the placings. There are 29 classes in the show, with ribbons for the first ten placings in the female classes, and in the first five placings in the bull and group classes. Special ribbons will be given for the first five 4-H animals in each class.

There will be trophies for all champions and all first place winners. The show is open to all purebred Holstein breeders in Indiana and all qualified 4-H exhibitors. There is no entry fee and no admission charge to the grounds.

4-H CLUB

Root Roving Rangers

The Root Roving Rangers 4-H club held its final meeting of this 4-H year Monday evening at the Monmouth high school, with William Journey in charge. A horse show was presented by Mary Lichle, Greg Schnepp and Ronnie Schnepp on the "keg bend" and "speed and action" routines.

Record books were singed for the final time. The refreshments were served by a committee consisting of co-chairmen Jerry Hakes and David Rice, Brennan Miller, David Franklin, Steve Hakes, and Karen and Karol Hakes.

June Bugs Invade Scouts' Jamboree

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. (UPI) — Poison ivy isn't a scourge among the 53,124 Boy Scouts at the jamboree here this week, but an invasion of June bugs has the boys sleeping with cotton balls in their ears.

Dr. William H. Smith, national director of health and safety for the Boy Scouts of America, said Tuesday there had not been one case of poison ivy at this historic encampment. At the 1950 jamboree, also held here, 18,000 Scouts were treated for poison ivy.

The June bug invasion had nothing but discomfort for the youths who sleep in tents here. The bugs climbed into the cavities of ears until an emergency shipment of 250,000 cotton balls was received from the Johnson & Johnson Co., New Brunswick, N.J.

The Army evacuation hospital set up here to treat any ills that strike the Scouts from 50 states and 42 foreign countries during their stay handles 65 to 75 cases a day, mostly minor cuts and bruises, Smith said.

Public health authorities, Scout officials and volunteer Scout doctors serve 31 sectional health lodges scattered over the 1,900-acre encampment. Three first aid stations also have been set up and are manned by volunteers from nearby communities.

The ratio of health services here is one doctor to each 400 residents of the tent city.

Sen. Goldwater Faces Trouble In Own Party

WASHINGTON (UPI) — GOP presidential nominee Barry M. Goldwater faced insurrection today in his own party, but Republican strategists hoped that its outward manifestations could be confined to New York state.

Both New York senators, in separate statements, announced Tuesday that they were withholding their support from the National GOP ticket. Sen. Kenneth B. Keating said he would conduct an independent campaign as a Republican if he runs for re-election this fall.

Keating and Sen. Jacob K. Javits said they were not bolted from the GOP. Both said they hoped Goldwater would alter his policies so it would be possible for them to support him.

Goldwater, working at home on the pile of mail received since his nomination in San Francisco, sent word he had no comment on the action by the New Yorkers. He did not appear on the Senate floor during a short session Tuesday.

Aides said he would be present today if the Senate began voting on amendments to President Johnson's anti-poverty bill which was scheduled for Senate debate.

Goldwater assailed the anti-poverty proposal by Johnson as a "Madison Avenue" scheme designed with the "single objective of securing votes." Goldwater expressed his views in a minority report on the bill.

Keating elaborated on his stand at a news conference and his replies seemed to suggest that similar disavowals might be expected from GOP "moderates" in other states. He said he had talked to some of them but would prefer that they speak for themselves.

One knowledgeable Republican leader said today, however, that the revolt against Goldwater's views could well stop with Keating and Javits.

Some other leaders are known to be receptive in view of Goldwater's comments on extremism and moderation, according to this informant, but they have not indicated a desire to join in open rebellion.

Music Rack Theft Reported To Police

Mrs. Fred Black, of 513 S. Fifth St., reported the theft of a music rack to the city police Tuesday.

She said her son had laid the rack alongside his bicycle which was parked at the Decatur high school building, and when he returned a few minutes later, it was missing. The article was valued at $3.50.

Warsaw Infant Is Electrocuted Monday

WARSAW, Ind. (UPI) — The funeral of Melissa Ann Dahlquist, 7 months, was held today. The baby was electrocuted in her home Monday when she touched a floor lamp and an electrical wire leading to a thermostat.

He charged that the GOP platform shows that "reactionary circles could go to the extremes and even unleash another war" if the West loses its economic battle with communism.

He compared the convention that nominated Goldwater to a Nazi party rally and said the nominee was campaigning "under the banner of unfettered anti-communism."

"We are not afraid of threats. We must clean our weapons and be ready for anything," he said.

U.S. Ambassador John Moors Cabot and British Ambassador Sir George Lisle Clutton both walked out of the fair because of the tone of Khrushchev's and Gomulka's remarks.

Cabot left after Gomulka charged that the United States and West Germany "had a common platform of militant anti-communism and of pushing the world to the brink of war."

Sheppard In Akron For Court Session

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard flew home to Ohio today, carried his new bride over the threshold of their home, and headed for a special federal court session to learn if he returns to prison as a wife slayer or continues his honeymoon.

Sheppard with his German bride of five days arrived at the Cleveland airport shortly after 9 a.m. EDT on a flight from New York.

They planned to go from Cleveland to Akron, an hour's drive away, in early afternoon for the scheduled 2 p.m. EDT hearing in court.

He immediately took his bride to her newly-rented apartment in Rocky River, a swank Cleveland suburb.

Sheppard In Love Seat

Sheppard carried the 35-year-old German-born bride into the apartment and looked around for a few minutes before he admitted a newsman. The couple sat apart at first but soon sat together on a love seat, where Sheppard said life was "just heaven all over again."

Sheppard, who has insisted throughout 10 tempestuous years he did not kill his first wife, was freed from the state penitentiary last week by a federal district court, which ruled his 1954 trial violated his constitutional rights.

The court in granting Sheppard his release told the state to try Sheppard again within 60 days or give him his freedom.

The judge also released Sheppard under $10,000 bond until the state makes up its mind whether to retry Dr. Sam for the bludgeon slaying of his pregnant wife, Marilyn, on July 4, 1954.

Sheppard went to Chicago with Mrs. Arianne Tebenn-Johns the day after his release. They were married Saturday and went to New York Monday.

The state, meanwhile, appealed the order granting Sheppard a new trial and filed another motion in federal court to revoke his bond. Those two issues came before three judges of the U.S. 6th Circuit Court of Appeals this afternoon.

Sheppard did not seem as confident of his continued freedom as he had been in the past few days, saying, "we'll have to wait and see."
