

Humphrey - The Best Choice

Before the 1960 convention we heartily supported Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey for the Democratic nomination for president of the United States. We felt very strongly that he personally personified the conscience of America in the Congress of the United States, and that he would make the best president, if nominated and elected.

Sen. Humphrey was not as popular with the public in West Virginia and Wisconsin primary races with then - Sen. Kennedy, and was defeated for the nomination. But he campaigned hard for the future president, and was his greatest asset in Congress in pushing hard for the Kennedy program. As Democratic whip, his ability to get along with Southerners and Northerners alike has been invaluable.

And today, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, Democratic Senate whip, and senior senator from the state of Minnesota, is our choice for vice-president on the Democratic ticket. We think he would make an outstanding presiding officer for the U.S. Senate, and would be the very best man to succeed his friend, President Johnson, if he were unable to fulfill office of president.

Sen. Humphrey represents the great midwestern farm - manufacturing - vacation state of Minnesota, a state much like our own northern Indiana, a land of lakes.

In 15 years as a nationally famous figure, Sen. Humphrey has built up an astonishing record of success in substantive matters. He is versatile, well-informed, and the most articulate spokesman for social justice in the Senate today. A warm, outgoing, optimistic extrovert, he is genuine, friendly, and open.

In this Humphrey contrasts so greatly with the secretive, unknown, reserved Republican vice-presidential candidate, a man of no national stature, who must be explained before he is introduced, that he would be a great asset to the Democratic ticket.

Humphrey possesses the same fantastic energy that has made Lyndon Johnson master of the president's office, an office that held the less Dwight D. Eisenhower captive for four years. He would thus be eminently fitted to succeed President Johnson, should he be unable at any time to fulfill his duties as president. He and President Johnson agree on main issues, and would work well together.

As author of the National Defense Education Act, the peace corps, (three months before President Kennedy took it up), nuclear test ban treaty, Arms control and disarmament, and many, many other bills.

In this farm area, he will be long remembered as one of the chief critics of the "soft" farm policy of Ezra Taft Benson, whose ideas still depress the farm markets today, where they are used.

In short, Sen. Humphrey combines many of the finest talents in such a way that his nomination would greatly strengthen the Democratic ticket, and America, if that ticket is the choice of the people this Fall.

New Modernism On Christianity Hit

By LOUIS CASSELL
United Press International
To a mere layman, it seems incredible that anyone should undertake to defend Christianity by abandoning its basic precepts.

But that is what some clergymen and theologians apparently are trying to do.

In the avowed hope of making the Christian faith more acceptable to "the modern mind," they are casting overboard doctrines which have been at the core of the church's teaching for 2,000 years.

This attempt to "re-interpret" the Christian Gospel has been underway for a good many years. But until comparatively recently, it was carried on in theological double-talk which few laymen could follow.

The new modernism first attracted widespread public attention last year when a Church of England bishop, John A. T. Robinson, published a book ironically entitled, "Honest to God."

Bishop Robinson argued that the Christian concept of God as a personal Being is outmoded and should be scrapped. He failed to make clear what concept, if any, he would put in its place. This led one reviewer of his book, Prof. Alasdair MacIntyre of Oxford University, to welcome the bishop into the atheist fold.

Rejecting the welcome, Bishop Robinson has insisted that he is not an atheist, and that he simply wants to revise the "imagery" used in speaking about God. But the archbishop of Canterbury says he doesn't see how the Robinson book can be read as anything other than a repudiation of orthodox Christian belief.

Whatever Bishop Robinson may have meant to say in "Honest to God," there is no doubt about the stand taken by a well-known American clergyman, Dr. Deane William Fenn, in a recent article published by the Christian Century Magazine.

Dr. Fenn, who is dean of the chapel at Mount Holyoke College in Massachusetts, said he regards several major doctrines of the Christian faith as "false, meaningless and irrelevant."

He argued that these beliefs should be abandoned, or at least "radically re-interpreted," so that the church can be intellectually respectable and get on with "weightier matters" such as the struggle for social justice.

Among the beliefs which Dr. Fenn proposed to jettison were:

1. "The traditional notion that God is a personal being 'out there' beyond nature and beyond history, a being who controls history and occasionally 'enters into' nature and history."

2. The doctrine of the incarnation, which holds that Jesus was "both fully god and fully man." Dr. Fenn was prepared to attribute divinity to Jesus only in the sense that "to be genuinely human is to be divine."

Laymen who are distressed to see basic Christian beliefs under attack by ordained ministers of the church should know that Bishop Robinson and Dr. Fenn are members of a small but highly vocal minority.

Most Biblical theologians feel that the Christian Gospel has been confirmed rather than contradicted by the experience of Twentieth Century man.
