ATTENDS SECOND ANNUAL SEMINAR

Ruth Kiess of Decatur, was among more than 65 leaders in the cosmetology field attending the second annual seminar in advanced cosmetology at Tri-State College, Angola, August 16-21.

Enrollees completing the course received certificates presented by Dr. Richard M. Bateman, president of the college.

Open to all members of the national hairdressers and cosmetologists association, seminar participants included beauticians from Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, and Illinois.

A continuing education program for progressive cosmetologists, the seminar included professional subjects and courses in business operations. Course coordinator, Earl Sharrow, director of extended services for Tri-State College, was aided by Lucille Whitman, Angola, member of the official hair fashion committee of the national association.

Hairstyling workshops were directed by Paul Barnes, Oklahoma City, leader in the field, with members of the Indiana hair fashion committee as his assistants. Professional subjects were taught by Jay Moore, Englewood, N.J.; John Gilman and Lloyd Hayes, both of Cincinnati. Tri-State College faculty members were instructors for classes in salesmanship and merchandising, effective speech, and human relations. Art applications and sketching were taught by Marge Sharrow, Angola art instructor, with Mrs. Whitman in charge of charm and personal hygiene classes.

So successful was the initial cosmetology seminar last year at Tri-State College, that the program was again offered this year in response to requests from members of the cosmetology profession. Founded at Angola in 1884, Tri-State College offers bachelor of science degree courses in five fields of engineering, and in three areas in business administration, in addition to a one-year certificate program in drafting and design, and a general studies program of basic liberal arts and science subjects.
