INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — A "Farmers' Day" parade of costumed children and their equally talented pets will touch off a salute today to the citizens who form the backbone of Indiana's agriculture on the fourth day of the State Fair.

Sale of the grand champion steer will highlight livestock competition, which also includes choosing of the 4-H dual purpose and beef showmen and the best swine showman.

Pamela Jo English, 10, Clayton, will lead her 946 pound Aberdeen Angus to the auction block today. She at first said she "wouldn't sell" her sleek "Sharonnean Boy." But the knowledge that her champion's little calf was waiting to be raised for the 1965 fair convinced her to follow tradition.

The reserve grand champion picked Monday was a Hereford shown by Jim Clark of rural Monon. Winner in the Shorthorn steer class was shown by Jill Jordan, Rensselaer.

Sells Champion Barrow
Mike Callahan, Rensselaer, sold his grand champion barrow for $6.15 a pound for a total check of $1,346.35 from Hygrade Meat Products Co. The reserve

Cracked Window

If a short crack appears in one of your window or door panes, you can prevent it from eventually spreading across the glass by scoring short arcs on both sides of the glass near the ends of the crack. Use a glass cutter to make these arcs, and scribe them carefully, making them not more than a half-inch in length.

Stamping Stamps
To prevent new postage stamps from sticking to one another when stored, place them in pockets made from folded waxed paper stapled together.

Handy Funnel
The spout-shaped cap from a plastic mustard or catsup bottle makes a handy funnel for refilling bottles with small openings.

Supreme Court Is Under Fire Of Clergymen

NEW YORK (UPI) — The U.S. Supreme Court was under new fire today by nine Protestant, Jewish and Roman Catholic clergymen for "virtually promulgating degeneracy as the standard way of American life."

A statement issued Monday by the nine high-ranking members of the clergy bitterly attacked the court's recent decision that failed to find obscene Henry Miller's novel "Tropic of Cancer" and the French film "The Lovers."

Earlier charges of alleged Supreme Court immorality followed the historic school prayer ban decision.

Four archbishops were among the signers of the new charge that was issued under the sponsorship of Operation Yorkville, an anti-pornography group, and the New York Board of Trade.

"These (Supreme Court) decisions cannot be accepted quietly by the American people if this nation is to survive," the statement said. "Giving free rein to the vile depiction of violence, perversion, illicit sex and, in consequence, to their performance, is an unerring sign of progressive decay and decline."

The obvious and regrettable conclusion is that the community standard prevailing among the five judges (who constituted the majority) is far below the standard of the people of the nation, upon whom they do not hesitate to sit in higher judgment."

They referred to Justices Hugo L. Black, William O. Douglas, William J. Brennan, Arthur J. Goldberg and Potter Stewart, and urged that "religious leaders of all faiths in all communities stand together vociferously decrying the fact that the court has presumed to recast the moral law."

The statement was signed by the Rev. Wilburn C. West, president of the Eastern States Mission of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints; Bishop Lloyd C. Wicke, presiding bishop of the New York Conference of the Methodist Church; the Most Rev. W. Scott Morton, executive director of the University Christian Foundation, New York University, Presbyterian Church.

Also, the Most Rev. Leo A. Pursley, Catholic bishop of Fort Wayne, Ind.; The Most Rev. Aloysius J. Willinger, Catholic bishop of Monterey-Fresno, Calif.; the Most Rev. John King Russo, Catholic bishop of Steubenville, Ohio; Rabbi Julius G. Neumann of Manhattan's Congregation Zichron Moshe and founder of Operation Yorkville; Rabbi Jehuda Melber of Briarwood Jewish Center in Queens; Rabbi Chaim Lipschutz, editor of the Brooklyn Jewish Press; and Henry I. Lambert, president of the New York Board of Trade.

"In approving 'Tropic of Cancer' five judges disapproved the rulings of the courts of several states, including Illinois, Florida and New York, which had found the book to be vile and obscene," the statement charged.

The religious leaders decried the views of the five as being "as confused as they are deplorable."

Portland Jaycees Will Hold Barbecue

If present plans are realized, Steed field will become a municipal airport in the near future. An improvement program which will cost $135,000 is well underway. Included will be a hard-surface 3,200-foot long air strip.
