The County Coroner

An attempt is being made this week to embarrass our present county coroner, Elmer Winteregg, Jr., for partisan political reasons — we predict it will fall flat on its face, as such partisan shenanigans should, regardless of party.

First, let us explain the duties of coroner, who serves a 4-year term, and may serve eight years of any 12. His office is determined by the constitution and by custom and law. The chief responsibility of the coroner is to determine if a person has died accidentally, by murder or by suicide, if he is found dead in unexplained circumstances.

When the coroner considers an autopsy necessary to determine which of these three things, he is required to employ a qualified physician under whose direction the autopsy must be made.

Locally, an autopsy ordered by the coroner costs the county $210. The number of autopsies must be determined in advance, and must be included in the budget. Eight years ago, Winteregg made a concerted attempt to get a larger allowance for autopsies — the county commissioners cut him back to enough for just two. They have not allowed money for more than two since that time.

One autopsy has already been held — in the case of a shooting this year. That means there is enough money in the budget to conduct one more autopsy, without a special appropriation.

This week a well-known man was found dying at the foot of a ladder on which he had been working. There was no question but that the death was accidental, rather than murder or suicide. There was a question as to whether the death was from a heart attack, electrocution, or injuries from the fall. The coroner determined that the man was alive and bleeding when found. There was no indication that the death was foul play or suicide, obviously, and an autopsy would only determine the exact cause for purposes of insurance.

Therefore, the coroner, and we feel rightly, determined that for county purposes, at county expense, no autopsy was necessary. Of course the man's family desired one, and have held one.

Anyone who feels that the Constitution of 1851 is outmoded, and that the office of coroner, as it now exists, should be abolished, is at perfect liberty to ask his state legislators to propose an amendment to the Constitution. But this would definitely change the character of the office from one in which a public servant determines to the best of his ability whether murder, suicide, or accidental death is involved, to one of determining the exact cause of death in every case — a rather expensive provision, when proposed at county cost.

Twenty-eight men have served in Adams county as coroner — four of these have been physicians. We know of no verified instance where they have performed better, or had more autopsies, to any advantage of the public, over the other 24.

Two Truck Drivers Hurt In Accident

Two Fort Wayne truck drivers were transferred to Parkview memorial hospital this morning following a one-vehicle accident on U.S. 27, a mile south of Berne.

Albert Kea, 32, of Jackson, Miss., and Earl Hart, 25, also of Jackson, were treated by a local physician after the 4:45 a.m. mishap, and then taken to Parkview. Kea was suffering from a badly-injured right ear, and a laceration over the right eye. Hart, less seriously injured, received several lacerations.

Kea was operating a North American Van Lines truck from Fort Wayne north on 27, with Hart as a passenger, when the accident occurred. He was passing another truck when a south-bound motorcycle appeared.

Kea wheeled the truck toward the ditch to avoid colliding head-on with the motorcycle, and the semi-trailer truck jackknifed along the left side of the road.

The truck's tractor was considered a total loss, while the trailer was only slightly damaged. Sheriff Roger Singleton, state trooper Gene Rash and deputy sheriff Warren Kneuss investigated.

Dorwin Chairman Of Panel At Meetings

Deane T. Dorwin, director of guidance in the North Adams Governor Matthew E. Welch will be chairman of a panel at three meetings in Indiana next week on college admissions problems.

Some 200 high school principals and guidance counselors from the northern third of the state will meet at Goshen College Monday. The meeting for central Indiana high schools will be held Tuesday at Indiana Central College, Indianapolis, and for southern Indiana at Evansville College Wednesday.

Serving with Dorwin on the panel, "The uniform transcript: its potentialities as a guidance and admissions instrument," at all three meetings will be Miss Elizabeth Good, guidance director at Frank Central high school at Action, and Harland White, director of admissions, Purdue University.

The keynote address for all three meetings will be delivered by Dr. John J. Wittich, executive director of the Western Personnel Institute, Claremont, Calif. The theme of this year's fourth annual meeting is "Reflections on admissions problems in the state of Indiana." These meetings are sponsored by private and public Indiana colleges.

Other panels to be presented are "Counseling the student denied admission," and "Admissions decisions." Members of these panels are chosen from high school principals and guidance counselors in each area.

Stephen Markley Is Reported Improved

Stephen Markley, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Markley, 428 Gage avenue, is reported considerably improved at the Adams county memorial hospital, where he has been a patient several days following injuries sustained at the Lincoln school, where he is an eighth grade student.

Markle Coin Club Show On Sunday

The third annual coin show of the Markle Coin club will be held at the armory in Huntington Sunday, with the show open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. No admission will be charged.

Outstanding coin displays will be on exhibit, and dealers will be present to buy and sell coins. Awards will be presented to top exhibitors.

Annual Meeting Is Held By Dairymen

Fifty Adams county dairymen and their wives attended the Adams county dairy herd improvement association annual meeting Thursday evening at the Dutch Mill in Bluffton.

The invocation was given by Ivan Steury route 1, Berne. Jerry A. Sprunger, of Berne, presided at the business meeting. Everett Rice of Route 1, Monroe, DHIA supervisor, explained the recent changes on award standards for herd recognition. Ernest J. Lesluk, county extension agent, discussed the changes taking place in the dairy enterprise, this included the production per cow, building and feeding practices carried out in Adams county.

Arnold Gerke, route 3, Decatur, showed color slides of his trip to Europe.

Election of officers was held with the following being elected: president, Ivan Steury; vice president, Arnold Gerke; secretary, Eugene Caffie of route 2, Geneva and Arnold Scheumann of route 1, Hoagland. The nominating committee consisted of two members, Martin Habegger of route 1, Monroe, and Carl Amstutz, route 2, Berne.

Valpo Scholarship To Cynthia Boerger

A scholarship to Valparaiso University was awarded at the Indiana state fair girls school to Miss Cynthia Boerger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Boerger of route 3, Decatur. Cynthia is a senior at Monmouth high school and will use her scholarship in the fall of 1965.

An outstanding 4-H club member of the Root township Senior Merry Maids where she has been enrolled for eight years, Cynthia has completed 54 projects in many phases of 4-H club work. Included in the list of projects she has enjoyed are: foods, clothing, crafts, poultry, pig, gardening, home grounds improvement, home furnishings, health and personality. In addition to her own projects she has assisted other club members by giving her time and help as a junior leader for four years.

Other 4-H activities Cynthia has participated in are demonstrations, judging contests, dress revue and radio programs, besides the many school activities of any interested high school student and her responsibilities of helping her family in the work of the home. These qualities were all carefully considered as selections were made for the recipients of all the scholarships at the state fair school.

Modern Etiquette

By Roberta Lee

Q. I've been invited to an announcement tea, and someone has told me that it is customary to bring the bride-elect a gift of a cup and saucer at this time. Is this correct?

A. This was customary some fifty or so years ago. But, so far as I know now, it is no longer practiced.

Q. When giving a formal dinner, should the dishes be left on the serving table, in case they are wanted for second helpings?

A. Dishes are never passed twice at a formal dinner. After being passed once, they should be returned to the kitchen.

Q. I am a widow and am about to be married again. I am still wearing my first wedding ring. Would it be proper, after I have remarried, to wear both rings?

A. Certainly not. And I'm sure your second husband would think the same as I do.

Q. Is it really improper to write social letters in pencil?

A. If you really MUST, you certainly should apologize and explain your reasons for not being able to write in ink.

EVERYBODY SHOULD HELP

Rev. James R. Meadows
The work of the church is the business of the whole community. There are some who pass this off by thinking that everything that concerns the religious, the minister can shoulder the burden of life of an entire community. Or that he alone can and should bear the burdens and responsibility of the work in a particular congregation. "It's his business; that's what we are paying him for." But is that fair and just? How is your business run? Does one man act as president, secretary, treasurer, purchasing agent, sales department, etc., etc? Even in the small unit of the family, is there not a division of responsibility? Therefore let us all work together with the church leaders and see the church attendance increase. Let us knock the T out of Can't and show that it can be done.

THIS WEEK'S BIBLE VERSE
"Fear not, little flock; for it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom." — Luke 12:32.
