Hilda Growing To Hurricane Force

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Tropical storm Hilda, apparently growing to hurricane force, moved through the Yucatan Channel into the open Gulf today and picked up speed as it headed toward the U.S. coast.

Packing 65 mile - an - hour winds, Hilda, eighth tropical storm of the season and fifth this month, appeared to be following the same route used by destructive Hurricane Carla in September, 1961.

The storm was last reported 450 miles south of Mobile, Ala., and moving northwest at 14 miles an hour; two miles an hour faster than it was clocked only four hours earlier.

The New Orleans Weather Bureau said it would "slowly increase in size and intensity, likely reaching hurricane force."
