"What Ever Happened . . .?"

A couple of months ago there was a big meeting at city hall. At least fifty people were there — some teenagers, some adults.

They talked about youth problems in Decatur and Adams county. The talk covered a lot of ground. It touched on recreational facilities, leadership needs, parental aid, school dropouts. It even got around to specific problems — teenage drinking, unemployment, driving, job opportunities, time wasting, drag racing and vandalism, to name just a few.

But the best thing about the meeting was that it was more than just a cataloging of difficulties. It produced some truly solid suggestions.

A committee of five was to be formed to draw up a constitution and bylaws for a permanent organization to coordinate county youth work. It was to contain two youths and representatives from local government, schools and churches. Once chosen, the committee was to analyze the finding of the meeting and report their work at a future meeting.

Their has been no meeting and no report. Local high school students are beginning to wonder where the project has gone. Some of them are more than a little disappointed.

What ever happened?

SURPRISED SPECTATORS—These workmen observed President Johnson's Thursday appearance from a second story scaffold on a construction project near Monument Circle. They were pleasantly surprised when Johnson returned their waves, then climbed a barricade and came inside the plywood enclosure surrounding the project. He spent about five minutes with the workers, and autographed the sweat bands of several "hard hats." —(Photo by MacLean)

SIGNS OF THE TIMES—Placards, humorous and otherwise, were the order of the day during President Johnson's Thursday appearance in Indianapolis. Most original offering read: "Sell TVA? I'd Sooner Sell Arizona." —(Photo by MacLean)

Youth Convicted Of Murdering Teacher

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (UPI)—A jury found Larry Lee Ranes, 19, guilty on first-degree murder charges Friday night in the Memorial Day slaying of Gary A. Smock, a Plymouth, Mich., school teacher.

Smock was one of five persons Ranes was accused of killing. One of them was Charles Snider, 32, Granger, Ind., beaten and shot to death in an Elkhart, Ind., filling station where he worked. Snider was killed in a robbery early the morning of last May 30, the same day Smock was slain.

After deliberating for about four hours, the jury of 8 women and 4 men rejected a defense insanity plea and found Ranes guilty of first degree murder and of murder in the perpetration of a robbery.

The verdict carries an automatic sentence of life imprisonment in Southern Michigan Prison at Jackson, but Ranes also has an automatic right of appeal.

Circuit Judge Raymond Fox told the jurors that the verdict was "amply justified." He postponed sentence pending a presentence investigation.

When the jury foreman read the verdict, Ranes broke into a smile and looked at his mother. His attorney, Eugene Field, dropped his head in a gesture of defeat.

Asked if he would exercise the right of appeal, Field said he did not know. "It depends on the boy," he said. Ranes has confessed to four other slayings in various parts of the country.

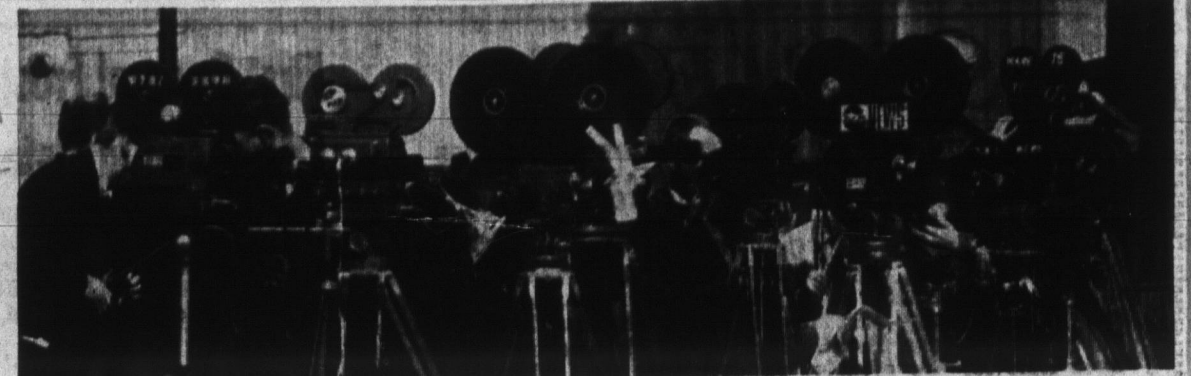

Smock's body was found in the trunk of his car after he had picked up Ranes as a hitchhiker. He had been robbed of $3.

Testimony during the trial brought out evidence that Ranes wrote bad checks and robbed to finance an illicit love affair with an older woman who had children.

A psychiatrist had testified that Ranes seemed to take special pleasure in "bringing big men to their knees to bet for their lives."

The entire defense was based on a plea of insanity. In final arguments Prosecutor John L. Schwendener asked the jury to look at the case "with clarity and without sympathy," while the defense said it did not ask for sympathy for Ranes, "but for help."

If Ranes had been found innocent by reason of insanity, he would have been committed to the State Hospital for Criminals Insane at Ionia. Field, in his summation, told the jury that Ranes preferred imprisonment to being an inmate at the state hospital, but they should help the youth by committing him to the Ionia institution.

Four Persons Die In State Traffic

By United Press International

Three southern Indiana accidents killed four persons Friday night and early today, raising the state's traffic fatality toll for the year to at least 1,025 compared with 986 a year ago.

Delbert Moler, 22, and Lorin Barnes, 24, both of Madison, were killed when a car driven by Moler crossed the center line of Indiana 56 east of Madison and smashed head-on into a car driven by Joseph Brown, 56, Madison.

Moler was alone, Barnes was riding with Brown, Brown was hurt.

Barbara Rose Hulman, 31, Vincennes, was killed when her car swerved off Indiana 67 near Switz City, careened 300 feet and bounced into the air, overturning on its top.

Thomas M. Epperson, 21, Bloomington, was killed early this morning on Indiana 37 three miles south of Bedford when a car in which he was riding collided with a big truck.

David D. Ray, 27, Bloomington, driver of the car, was injured critically and taken to a Bedford hospital. Authorities said Wayne L. Jeffers, 22, Lewis, driver of the truck, told them his turn signal was operating preparatory to turning into a restaurant driveway and as Ray started to pass he suddenly swerved into the middle of the truck.

Authorities believed Ray saw the turn signals as he drew even with the truck and attempted to avoid a collision.

Before the weekend flurry of wrecks began, the last previous fatality occurred late Thursday night when Mrs. Henry R. Berg, 34, South Bend, was killed when a station wagon she was driving was struck by a Grand Trunk Railroad passenger train at a South Bend crossing.

Modern Etiquette

By Roberta Lee

Q. When a business girl spends a weekend in a very good friend's home, a friend whom she has known for years, is it still absolutely necessary that she write a bread-and-butter letter?

A. Indeed it is. This is one of the most important indications of good breeding, and no matter how well you know a person or how often you visit her, that bread-and-butter letter is in order each time.

Q. Do you feel that a party of all girls or all boys in their middle teens can be given in the home of one of them in the evening without the parents or some other older person actually being in the house during the whole period?

A. Yes. A chaperone is needed only in mixed groups. However, children should have the support of their parents in such situations, and the parents should appear at sometime during the evening to greet the guests and lend the feeling of family co-operation.

Q. If a couple's engagement is to be a long one, is it still proper to publish an announcement of the engagement in the newspaper?

A. Quite proper and, in this case, the last line of the notice usually reads, "No date has yet been set for the wedding."

Q. Do you think a person is being improper or "gauche" when he asks a waiter the meaning of certain unfamiliar items on a restaurant menu?

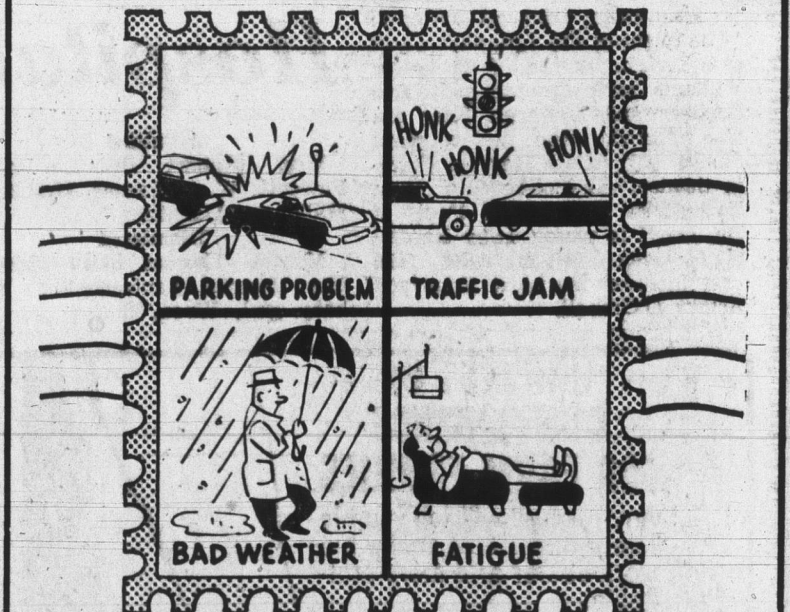

A. Not at all.
