LIFE'S UPS AND DOWNS

VISITING THE GOOD PEOPLE OF THE WORLD.

Thousands of Acres of Prairie Land Burned Over - Electric Cars Collide - World's Fair Souvenir Coin - Killed by a "Live" Wire - The Wheat Yield - Severe Storms.

The severest storms ever known in Mexico have prevailed along the eastern coast of the Republic during the past several days, causing much damage to vessels and coast towns all the way from Tampico to Vera Cruz. In the state of Vera Cruz there has been great destruction to property. The Vera Cruz Railroad was compelled to suspend operations temporarily on account of lands slides which carried away the track in several places. The town of Santa Baranara was struck by a terrible cyclone and forty houses were razed to the ground. A large number of others were so badly damaged that they cannot be repaired. There was one person killed outright and several injured at that place. No further reports of loss of life have been received.

Prairie Fire in Dakota.

Huron (S. D.) special: A terrible prairie fire started seven miles northwest of this city, burning over a stretch of country ten miles wide and twenty miles long. The towns of Broadland and Hitchcock narrowly escaped destruction. Citizens turned out and fought the fire, aided by a large force of men from this place. The country burned over is thickly settled by prosperous farmers, many of whom have lost everything. This country was devastated by prairie fire last fall. The fire originated by men burning a fire break about a timber claim. The wind blew at a velocity of forty miles an hour, driving the flames before it at fearful speed.

The Wheat Yield.

The agricultural department's monthly report for wheat gives the State averages of yield per acre, ranging from six to twenty-two bushels and averaging thirteen bushels. The average for the principal wheat growing States are as follows: New York, 14.3; Pennsylvania, 14.7; Indiana, 14.3; Ohio, 13.2; Michigan, 14.7; Illinois, 14.7; Wisconsin, 11.5; Minnesota, 11.7; Iowa, 11.5; Missouri, 12.1; Kansas, 17; South Dakota, 12.3; Nebraska, 13.5; North Dakota, 12.2; Washington, 18.4; Oregon, 13.7; California, 12.8.

World's Fair Souvenir Coin.

The first World's Fair souvenir half dollar coin over which there has been such lively competition, among the business firms of Chicago, will bring at last a much greater price than the officials have hitherto hoped for. A number of firms have been raising back and forth until most of them were raised out by a bid of $1,050. There it stood for a while, but now the amount offered for the coin has risen to $1,000. The coin has not been sold, but is being held for yet higher bids.

Killed by a "Live" Wire.

Joseph F. Tolliver, an electrician in the employ of the Indianapolis Electric Company, was killed by a "live" wire in that city. He had just cut a "live" wire and was about to make a connection. He had placed one foot on a stone curb and was just starting to climb a step ladder when he accidentally took hold of a second "live" wire. Tolliver died in an instant. He received a shock of 2,000 volts.

Lost at Sea.

Seattle (Wash.) special: The Canadian Pacific Navigation Company's steamer Premier was struck by the steam collier Williams in a dense fog off Whidby Island about ten miles south of Port Townsend. Four men were killed, one drowned and seventeen badly injured. The steam tug Goliath has arrived here with three of the dead, all of the wounded and the other passengers.

Dead Broke.

Chicago special: The Western Union Telegraph Company has taken its wires out of the office of the Press News Association, a small news agency, which has had a struggling existence for some organization by James J. West some years ago. Three years ago it leased a wire from the telegraph company, but of late has been unable to pay for it and the service was discontinued.

Electric Cars Collide.

Two electric cars collided at Canton, Ohio, owing to a heavy fog. The cars were demolished, and the motorman, David Henderson and William U. Tyron, were severely injured. M. D. Spahr and John Meekley, conductors, were cut and bruised, and C. R. Frazier, a passenger, was badly lacerated about the head, and several others more or less hurt.

Serious Robbers.

Burglars pried open the doors leading into St. John's Collegiate church, Oshkosh, Wis., and stole two safes containing the church plate and jewels. Articles to the value of upward of $1,400 were stolen or destroyed.

Columbus' Bones.

President Ulises Honoreux, of San Domingo, offered the remains of Christopher Columbus to the United States for security for a loan of $100,000 at 6 percent interest. The proposition was not considered.

Health and Suicide.

Samuel Traxler, aged 63, committed suicide at Huntington, Ind., by shooting himself with a revolver. His health is said as the cause.

Murdered by Robbers.

Intense excitement prevails in the neighborhood of La Porte County, Ind., over what is supposed to have been a murder.

The body of Mrs. Michael Cook was found in a shed adjoining the family residence with a big wound in the side and head from which it is believed her death resulted. The body was found on a pile of straw and clothes when discovered. The house showed evidence of having been ransacked from top to bottom. The husband of the murdered woman is employed on the Lake Shore road and was absent from home. The assassin evidently used a pistol in killing her, and had evidently pursued her as she ran terrified from the house. Mrs. Cook was a native of Poland.

COMPLETE TRIUMPH.

General Crippe's Victorious Army Enters Caracas.

A special from Caracas, Venezuela, dated the 10th inst., says: A portion of Gen. Crespo's victorious army, 3,000 strong, entered the city last night amidst the plaudits of sympathizers and those too cowardly to fight on either side. The overthrow of the Government is complete. After defeating the army of the Government at San Pedro, Gen. Crespo began his march upon the capital. Gen. Crespo, with the balance of his army, remained at Calima, a short distance from the city, and entered the capital this morning. Had the advance troops of General Crespo's army been angels of peace instead of messengers of war their advent would not have been welcome to the people of Caracas. After the crushing defeat at San Pedro the Government pegged its last card had lost and Acting President Pulido and his cabinet fled before the advancing hosts.

The news caused an instantaneous exodus to the city. The stragglers and refugees from the defeated army came pouring into the city telling the terrified inhabitants that Gen. Crespo and his army were close at their heels. Confusion and disorder reigned and hundreds of persons joined the army of fugitives which had started for La Guayra. The first news of the disaster to the Government forces was received. Then a semblance of order was at an end. People who had been too cowardly to fight, either for or against the government and many of Pulido's soldiers took advantage of the situation to begin rioting and pillaging.

As Crespo's men marched into the city they were greeted with the applause of hundreds of the sympathizers who have long been shut up in the capital. It was a good account of themselves, too, that Crespo's troops gave to the inhabitants of the city by the businesslike way in which they dispersed the rioters wherever they encountered them and put an end to their nefarious work. United States Minister Sprague has sent word to Admiral Walker suggesting that fugitives be prevented from embarking.

DASTARDLY DEED.

An Attempt to Blow Up a Non-Union Boarding House at Homestead.

An attempt was made to blow up a non-union boarding house in Homestead with dynamite. No one was hurt but the house was badly damaged and the occupants badly frightened. Mrs. Morris kept a boarding house. All of her boarders were non-union workers in the Homestead mill, and there were thirty-five of them. A cartridge was thrown through a window into the dining-room. It struck the floor and a terrific explosion followed. All the windows were broken and a large hole was torn in the floor through which many things were hurled into the cellar below. The beds on the second floor were thrown six feet up in the air, and the occupants tumbled to the floor. No one was hurt, but the most intense excitement followed. The building, known as the Mansion house, had been surrounded by officers and the militia was called out. In the excitement and darkness the perpetrator escaped. The strike leaders claim that the deed was performed by others than strikers. They say it has been done with the purpose of keeping the soldiers here and also to again change public opinion favorably to the Carnegie firm.

REHEARD.

Albert Fink of Brooklyn, Meets with an Awful Accident.

Brooklyn special: Albert Fink, 24 years old, living at 45 Withers street, was killed in a horrible manner in a grain elevator at the foot of North Tenth street. Fink, when last seen, was engaged in oiling the machinery. Suddenly his bloody head rolled through the chute with the grain in the presence of several workmen. They cried out in terror and shouted for the engineer to stop the machinery. The revolving cog wheels had in the meantime drawn in the balance of the unfortunate man's body, twisting it into an unrecognizable mass of pulp. Blood was thrown in all directions and even to the floor below, where it dripped upon the men at work there. It was found necessary to remove the machinery before the body could be taken out.

Bad Wreck on the Wabash.

Running at the rate of forty miles an hour the Detroit limited train on the Wabash railroad plunged into an open switch at the east end of the yards at Hammond, Ind. Those injured were: John Mitchell, engineer, arms terribly scalded and severe cuts and bruises about head and body; fatally hurt. James McCall, fireman, thrown through the window of the cab and badly cut and bruised.

John Shoak, passenger in smoking car, two cuts on head and several severe bruises.

Maria Carr, Burlington, Iowa, passenger in ladies' coach, rendered unconscious by force of crash, severely cut in arm by broken glass.

Frank Price, baggage man, slightly bruised.

The wreck damaged rolling stock to the extent of $25,000.

The Post, Tennyson, Is Dead.

Lord Tennyson died at his residence in London. "His passing away was calm and peaceful. Sir Andrew Clarke, who attended the poet in his last hours, said, in an interview with a representative of the International Telegram Company, that he had never known a more beautiful man. 'In all my experience,' said the eminent physician, 'I never witnessed anything more glorious. There were no artificial lights in the chamber. All was darkness except for the silver light of the full moon which fell upon the bed and played upon the face of the dying poet, while the halo in one of Rembrandt's pictures.'"

A Lake Disaster.

Port Huron (Mich.) special: The mail steamer Nashua was found bottom up on Lake Huron. The entire crew are supposed to have been drowned. The names of the victims so far as known are: Capt. Archie, pilot, Port Huron; Capt. Richard Miller, Detroit; Mr. Putnam, engineer, Detroit; Charles Shepard, Brockway, Mich.; Mrs. Charles Shepard, Brockway, Mich. The names of the others of the crew cannot be learned here. The Nashua was loaded with lumber from Georgian Bay to Toledo. It was worth $15,000, and was insured for $12,000.

Death of Hon. James H. Rice.

Hon. James H. Rice, ex-Auditor of the State of Indiana, died at the Grand Hotel, in Indianapolis. He had been in poor health for a year and his death was the result of an attack of grippe. Four weeks ago he was taken with a severe cold which brought on pneumonia and for the past few weeks his physicians have had little hope of his recovery. The grippe almost took his life last spring and he has suffered from its terrible effect ever since.

A Fatal Fire.

Howell (Mich.) special: A fire broke out in the cellar of Isaac Rush's general store on Grand River street, and before it was gotten under control had burned a whole square of stores. While a number of persons were engaged in moving goods from Hickey & Goodrich's store an explosion occurred. The walls of the building collapsed and many persons were buried in the ruins. F. G. Hickey and Darwin Wines, a prominent builder of this place, were killed. A man named Isaacs was so badly injured that he cannot survive, and a dozen others are a bit injured, but not seriously.

Shocked to Death.

Peter Berthman, 35 years of age, a lineman for the United Electric Light Company of Springfield, Mass., was shocked to death while making a cut-out at the top of a high pole. He grasped both ends of a live wire and received 2,000 volts. As he fell he cleared the wires so there was no burning except on the hands, but caught on a pin and was half an hour hung head downward, fifty feet in the air. The unfortunate man leaves a widow and three children.

Senator Peffer's Son Killed.

A freight train on the Missouri Pacific railroad met with a bad accident about sixty miles west of Council Grove, Kas., going through a burning bridge. The engineer, C. T. Peffer, a son of United States Senator Peffer, and Clint Howard, fireman, were both instantly killed. Charles Hart, another fireman, was badly injured. After the accident occurred the wreck took fire, burning up sixteen cars in all. Both Peffer and Howard leave families.

At Both Celebrations.

The navy department will send the United States Marine band to New York on the 11th inst., together with a battalion of marines from the Washington barracks now on duty at Sandy Hook, to participate in the Columbian celebration. The Marine band and the marines will later proceed to Chicago to take part in the dedication of the World's Fair on the 21st inst.

Hanging in South Carolina.

Anna Tribble, colored, was hanged at Newberry, S. C., in the corridor of the jail for the murder of her infant last February. The trap was sprung at 1:51 p. m. and death resulted in less than two minutes. There was but very little struggling. Sheriff Goodrich was on the platform and fasten the noose by force. She made no statement, but protested her innocence to the last.

An Elevator and Its Occupants Drop.

The elevator cable at the Dean apartment house on Erie street, Cleveland, O., broke and the car fell from the fourth story to the basement with six women passengers and the elevator boy. All the ladies were badly shaken up and bruised. Mrs. William Horman sustaining a broken arm and internal injuries. The boys also badly hurt. The elevator was smashed to pieces.

Most Not Gamble.

Commissioner of Pensions Raus, has issued an order requesting all clerks in his employ to cease their visits to pool rooms and gambling resorts. He says that hereafter persons known to visit these disreputable places will be recommended for dismissal upon the ground that such conduct is calculated to bring discredit upon the personnel of the office.

Railway Wreck.

Winnipeg special: A serious accident on the Northern Pacific road occurred between here and Minneapolis. It was a collision between an express and freight. It is reported that two firemen and the engineer of the freight, and two if not more were killed, and the engineer of the passenger fatally hurt. Twelve passengers were also fatally injured.

Forty Lakes in Mars.

The New York Herald's special correspondent at Valparaiso, cables that paper as follows: Professor Pickering of the Harvard branch observatory, at Arequipa, says that he has discovered forty small lakes in Mars. He also confirms Professor Holden's observations on the limits and measured altitudes of the planet.

Trouble in Venezuela.

Washington special: The Concord, which has just returned to Colon, will probably be ordered back to Venezuela at once as reports received at the State Department indicate that matters are approaching a crisis in that country and that there is need for all three of Admiral Walker's fleet in those waters.

Mining Accident.

Wm. Thomas and Jos. Stewart, miners employed at Storrs' shaft, Dixon City, Pa., were fatally injured by being thrown from one of the cars at the shaft to the opening of the mine. The accident was caused by a misplaced switch. Thomas died from his injuries and Stewart is in an unconscious condition.

Marine Disaster.

A Seattle, Wash., special says: The Canadian Pacific Navigation Company's big passenger steamer, Premier, was run into by the Collier Williams, near Whidby Island, in the midst of a dense fog. The Premier was cut in two and four were killed and twelve badly wounded.

Georgia Election.

A special from the Atlanta says the returns from the election in Georgia give Northern Democratic Governor, a majority of 70,000.

WIPE OFF THE EARTH.

THE NOTORIOUS DALTON GANG EXTERMINATED.

Four of Them Drop in Their Tracks-Five Citizens Killed-Coffeyville, Kan. The Scene-A Most Daring Raid-The People Were Ready.

Good Work at Great Cost.

The Dalton gang has been exterminated, wiped off the face of the earth. Caught like rats in a trap, they were shot down, but not until four citizens of Coffeyville, Kan., yielded up their lives in the work of extermination.

Six of the gang rode into the town Wednesday morning and robbed the two banks. Their raid had become known to the officers of the law, and when the bandits attempted to escape they were attacked by the Marshal's posse. In the battle which ensued four of the desperadoes were killed outright, and one was so badly wounded that he has since died. The other escaped, but he is being hotly pursued.

Of the attacking party four were killed, one was fatally and two seriously wounded. The dead are:

BOB DALTON, desperado, shot through the head.

GRANT DALTON, desperado, shot through the head.

JOSEPH EVANS, desperado, shot through the head.

JOHN COONEY, alias "Texas Jack," desperado, shot through the head.

H. C. CONNELLY, City Marshal, shot through the body.

M. BALDWIN, bank clerk, shot through the head.

G. W. CROWE, merchant, shot through the head.

C. J. BROWN, shoemaker, shot through the body.

Thomas G. Ayers, cashier of the First National Bank, was shot through the groin and cannot live.

T. A. Reynolds of the attacking party has a wound in the right breast, but it is not considered necessarily dangerous.

Lais Deiz, another of the attacking party, was shot in the right side. He was found by the body of Bob Dalton, who had fallen dead upon it while he was escaping from the First National Bank. The other was found tightly clinched in "Texas Jack's" hand. The money was restored to its rightful owners.

LORD TENNYSON IS DEAD.

An Attack of Influenza Complicated with the Heart Failure.

Lord Alfred Tennyson, poet-laureate of Great Britain, died at his residence, Aldworth, Surrey, at an early hour Thursday morning. A slight cold taken a week before developed into influenza, which caused death.

Alfred Tennyson was born at Somersby, Lincolnshire, England, in 1802. His father, the Rev. George Clayton Tennyson, was the rector of Somersby and vicar of Bennington and Grimsby, while his mother was the daughter of the Rev. Stephen Fytche, of Louth. He was the third of a family of twelve children. The talent which gained for him the title of Poet Laureate of England began to develop itself in his early youth, for when 18 years old he, with his brother Charles, who afterward became vicar of Grimsby and assumed the name of Turner, published a small volume entitled "Poems by Two Brothers." The poet rapidly attracted some attention, those signed "A. T." receiving the highest praise, Coleridge declaring that they alone of the selections in the volume gave hopeful promise of a coming poet.

Bob Dalton Dies in His Bed.

Fearing to leave them behind, lest they should give the alarm before the bandits should be able to mount their horses and escape, the desperadoes marched the officers of the bank out of the door with the intention of keeping them under guard while they made their escape. The cashier explained that at the door of the bank just as Liveryman Spears and his companions of the Marshal's posse took their positions in the square. When the Dalton brothers saw the armed men in the square they appreciated their peril on the instant, and leaving the bank they fled, on the side of the bank building, ran for their horses. As soon as they reached the sidewalk Spears' rifle quickly came to position. An instant later it spoke and Bob Dalton, the notorious leader of the notorious gang, fell in his tracks dead. There was not a quiver of a muscle after he fell. The bullet had struck him in the right temple and ploughed through his brain and passed out just above the left eye. Emmet Dalton had the start of his brother, and before Spears could draw a bead on him he had decamped behind the corner of the bank and was making time in the direction of the alley where the bandits had tied their horses.

The shot which dropped Bob Dalton aroused "Texas Jack" and his men in the bank, where they were patiently waiting for the time of the safe to be sprung with the hour of 10. Running to the windows of the bank they saw their leader prostrate on the ground. Raising their rifles to their shoulders they fired one volley out of the windows. Cashier Ayers fell on the steps of his bank, shot through the groin. Shoemaker Brown of the attacking party in the square was shot through the body. He was quickly removed to his shop, but died just as he was carried away by a doctor.

Spears' Rifle Again Speaks.

The firing attracted the attention of Marshal Connelly, who, collecting more men for his posse and with the few that he had already gathered, ran hurriedly to the scene of the conflict.

After firing their volley from the windows of the bank the bandits, explaining that their only safety lay in flight, attempted to escape. They ran from the door of the bank, firing as they fled. The Marshal's posse in the square, without organization of any kind, fired at the fleeing bandits, each man for himself. Spears' rifle spoke twice more in quick succession before the others of the posse could take aim, and Joseph Evans and "Texas Jack" fell dead, both shot through the head, making three dead bandits to his credit.

In the general fusillade Grant E. Dalton, driver of the bank wagon, was killed, as were two surviving members of "Texas Jack's" squad, Marshal Connelly, D. M. Baldwin, and George Cubine were mortally wounded and died on the field. All Ogee, the only survivor of the band, succeeded in escaping to the alley, where the horses were tied, and making his way through the alley, fled south in the direction of Indian Territory.

Emmet Dalton, who had escaped from the First National Bank, had already reached the alley in safety, but he had some trouble in getting mounted. While waiting Ogee had already made his escape before Emmet got fairly started. Several of the posse, anticipating that horses would be required, were already mounted, and quickly pursued the escaping bandits. Emmet Dalton's horse was no match for the pursuers and he was pursued. As the pursuers closed on him, he turned suddenly in his saddle, and fired upon his would-be captors.

The latter answered with a volley and Emmet toppled from his horse hard hit. He was brought back to town, and died later.

Emmet Dalton was an able-bodied man, tall, with a high forehead, and a member of the gang of which he was a member. Allie Ogee had about ten minutes' start of his pursuers, and was mounted on a swift horse.

After the battle was over search was made for the money which the bandits had carried off. It was found in the trunk of a wagon which was found in the alley where it was found in the sacks where it had been placed by the robbers. One sack was found with the body of Bob Dalton, who had fallen dead upon it while he was escaping from the First National Bank. The other was found tightly clinched in "Texas Jack's" hand. The money was restored to its rightful owners.
