ARMSTRONG IS GUILTY.

Corrupt Bank Case Juror Sentenced For 18 Months For Contempt.

JUDGE BAKER'S COMMENT.

Between Stannard Waives Examination on the Charge of Conspiracy and Furnishes a New Lead Pending the Grand Jury Investigation—Renewal of the Trial—General State News.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 1.—Alvin Armstrong, the Lawrence county federal juror who a week ago negotiated with Defendant Coffin in the famous bank case for a verdict of acquittal or a hanging of the jury, now languishes in jail as a convict under sentence of 18 months in the northern prison, where he will be taken today or tomorrow. His conviction was for contempt of court, and the prosecution laid before the judge the details of Armstrong's plans as outlined by Frank O. Stannard, the go-between. Armstrong made no defense save to introduce witnesses to prove a previous good character. In no other way did he or his attorneys attempt to condone the act by which he offered to violate his oath as a juror, and when the arguments were concluded Judge Baker passed the foregoing sentence, stating, however, that it should be without work. Armstrong appeared totally indifferent during the proceedings and as he was being taken to jail said:

"Well, the judge said I didn't have work. I don't care."

In pronouncing sentence upon Armstrong the judge said:

He should have reflected that if there is any one's presence, except the very presence of God, where virtue and honesty and fidelity to one's obligation as a man are required, it is where the solemn interest of the citizen is being adjudicated. I suppose the reason the United States congress has never put upon the statute books a law creating the crime of bribery or the attempt to bribe on the part of a juror—the attempt to accept a bribe on the part of a juror—was because it was supposed that sort of an offense, like the offense of piracy, was one that was hardly likely to be committed. While I feel thus with reference to the character of the crime on one hand, I cannot but feel a compassion for the wife, and family, and friends, but however strongly I may feel it, it would be misplaced if allowed to interfere with such performance of my duty as would make the crime of the juror a thing that should be hereafter indulged.

If it should come to be believed by the body of our people that courts would condone or tolerate the perversion of justice by corrupt means or practices, the last hope of our institutions would vanish.

On the charges of conspiracy Armstrong and Stannard each waived a preliminary hearing and were held to the federal grand jury in the sum of $4,000, a new bond being required and given by Stannard.

The bank case was renewed this morning with the work of securing a new jury.

Timothy Dyer's Rare Record.

A rare record is boasted by Mr. Timothy Dyer of Vinal Haven, Me., who is 90 years of age. Until he was 18 years old he never wore a shoe. He has never ridden on a car, and but once on a steamboat. He has never entered a tavern, never quarreled with any one, and a barber has never shaved him. And yet his life has not been destitute of excitement, for only last summer the old fellow pulled in unaided a halibut weighing three times as much as he does, Lewiston Journal.
