Oden, Mich., Sept. 5, 1898.

DEAR DEMOCRAT:

There is an old saying which says, at a certain season of the year, "home-ward the swallow flies," and it will apply to the numerous resorters who have been spending their vacations in northern Michigan, as in the past four days about sixty have left this restful and delightful village, mostly people from Cincinnati, Ohio; a large majority of them of the circumcised tribe of Israel who have gone there for the purpose of getting their pound of flesh from those attending the meeting of the G. A. R. The Adams county people returning home were R. K. Allison and two children, French Quinn, Doll Christen, Mary V. Allison and others, including P. W. Smith and family of Richmond. Unfortunately for them, they went a little too soon, as I am informed they arrived when the weather was beastly hot. Those who have returned who are fond of fishing have missed the best sport of the season as there were some very fine strings of small mouthed black bass caught since. One string of twenty-seven Friday averaging three pounds, and another of five that weighed seventeen and one-half pounds caught after six o'clock p. m. by two gentlemen from Frankfort, Indiana, who are a part of a jolly party who are now camping across the street from our cottage. I think from this on we will get all the fish we want. Among those visiting Oden from Decatur I will mention Alex Bell, D. Railing and wife, J. W. Vail, wife and two brothers, one from Kentucky and the other from Ossian, Indiana. Dan Sprang and wife helped make up a party of merry bathers who spent several hours here. J. W. Vogelwede and brother Garret also came up on the excursion and spent a few days with the writer, and although they did not do any fishing enjoyed themselves hugely while here. They are most excellent men and I assure you I miss them. Last Thursdays, Friday and Saturday were certainly the warmest days I ever recollect of in this country, the mercury registering as high as 90 in the shade at two o'clock p. m. Friday. Sunday, however, a high gale prevailed all day and cooled off the atmosphere so that we could have stood a light fire in the evening. Israel Miessie came here on Saturday night from Cheboygan and spent Sunday with me. I must tell a story on Is. He came up on the excursion but instead of getting off at Petoskey with others from Decatur, he went directly to Cheboygan to see an old sweet-heart of his, but on his arrival found her married. However, she treated him nicely and recommended a couple of her sisters to him. J. J. in relating the circumstances to me was so excited that you could scarcely understand him and the words were so slow coming from his lips you could have taken a nap between them. He left for Petoskey this morning on his way home intend to stop off at Grand Rapids. We have had the pleasure of entertaining Mrs. Ellingham and baby, the Studabakers, Mrs. Morrison and daughter, John Niblick and many others since coming up here and I assure you I have enjoyed their society ever so much as they could give me much news from home which I could get no other way. Sam Simison of Berne came up on the excursion on the 30th bringing along five carpenters who went to work in building a fine cottage for him and will certainly have it completed by the time the limit of their tickets expire next Thursday. This country is coming to the front in the cultivation of fruits as well as vegetables. A gentleman by name of Jas. Honts living adjoining Oden brought me a sample of two varieties of apples he raised this year on trees only four years old, and I must say it is as fine fruit as I have ever seen, large, firm and finely flavored. Then another in this neighborhood engaged in the cultivation of apples, pears and plums and the samples of plums are very fine both in size and flavor. It will not be many days now till everybody except hay fever subjects will have gone to their homes further south and it will be decidedly lonesome up here. Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Allison and Miss Cook will leave about the 15th inst for home, they being the last Decaturites in this village. May your shadow never grow less and your subscription list increase immensely is the wish of your friend, MAJOR.

NEWS FROM COMPANY B.

Another Letter from Edward Tracy, Our Regular War Correspondent.

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 4, 1898.

Friends of Old Adams.—The 160th, as you are aware, have now pitched their tents upon Kentucky soil and we have a beautiful site for a camp, except shade, but as we have our large tent again we can hide ourselves from the sun's rays to a greater extent than when we used our pup tents.

Lively was the camp when we left Indianapolis for Chickamauga as we thought we were advancing to the field of action, and the same enthusiasm was expressed yet on a greater scale when we were ordered to Newport News, but the move to this point and the stay here has been quite different. We notice that there is something lacking. Something to cause those hearty hurrahs that used to go up for the officers. We all, I say all, as I verily believe I speak the sentiment of 95 per cent. of the privates, thought that the enthusiasm expressed by our line and regimental officers was that of true patriotism as it was with us, and now when it is a choice of either return to one's home cares and livelihood or do garrison duty under regulations governing the regular army we find those who draw well upon Uncle Sam's purse the only ones who wish to go, while 95 per cent. of the privates have signed papers to the effect that we wish to be released and return to our homes.

The Colonel of the Fifth Illinois, like a gentleman, asked his men who wished to go and do their two years garrison duty to make it manifested, and but twenty-four of the enlisted men wished to go. Our Colonel has not done so and we wonder how he knows that two-thirds of his regiment wishes to go, as we understand he has telegraphed Governor Mount. There is not twenty-five men in the regiment who would join the regular army and we are puzzled to know where our home papers get such items as appeared in last week's issue. We, the enlisted men of the regiment, enlisted to defend our flag in time of war, but never could we be induced to live two years within the lines of a military camp, where we know or see nothing of the happy holiday excursions, never go to the races, attend church festivals, see the elephants at the big show, or even have the privilege of going to church or Sunday school, unless we run the guard line and go to some city church as many of us did last Sunday. We haven't heard our Chaplain chirp since we left Chickamauga. The boys say he is too busy issuing "gold bricks" or the checks good on the regimental stand. The Chaplain sees to it and that takes up all his time. It would do no good for him to expound the gospel to the boys now as they would naturally think he was drumming up trade for his "brick work." We can buy nothing anywhere but at the stand and we pay good round prices for what we get as they have guards placed around the stands near our camp and allow them to sell to none but civilians and no peddlers are admitted within the lines. Our regiment is camped alone on a little hill and there are 140 guards around us, more guards than would be placed around three times as many prisoners of war. Yet we are claimed to be the best discipline and behaving regiment that visited Newport News. We of course once tried to go to town and get the "nigger" that shot Andrews, but the people of the city or in fact no one except the Colonel held any other opinion but that we were in the right. Our tents are being flooded with lumber furnished by the citizens of Lexington. The people of this city deserve and have our heartfelt thanks for all favors shown the boys in blue.

When the Colonel thought that we were in danger of being forced to the front it seems he had no inclination to go, and he severely and continually called down Company B and placed us at the bottom of the roll of honor. But things have changed now as our Captain was one of us who wished to go to the front against the Colonel's will and still wishes, with good reasons undoubtedly and respected by all, to remain in the services, by which he and the Colonel are now of one mind and his highness sends us his compliments and wishes to thank us for our civil action and also tells us personally that we marched during dress parade review better than any of the other companies. And now when we go to the mess table we are told to get all we want instead of taking what we get and only come once as before. We also received $25 as a company fund with which to buy delicacies. It is of no use to try to "jolly" us now, because the case is too plain and as most of the enlisted men thought upon entering the army that the war could not last much, if any longer, than four months, and have left their homes, friends, families and work for that length of time expecting to return to them should they return at all, and resume the responsibilities of a true citizen's life.

As far as the health of the regiment is concerned we have sustained but one death on account of disease, one by accident and one was murdered in cold blood. Very few are now in the hospital.

is with pleasure we tell our home people that we consider it just as brave to be ready to return to our home cares as it was to volunteer our services to our country in time of need. Hoping the higher authorities will soon be able to gain an understanding of our circumstances through more reliable channels, we remain your friends, THE BOYS OF CO. B.

His Worst Offense.

When it was proposed to lessen the list of crimes punished by death, Lord Eldon objected to the noose being banished in cases of petty shoplifting. "The small shopkeepers will be ruined by this exemption," said the old Tory lord chancellor.

Another Tory, a judge, so venerated the sovereign that he included in his regard any article belonging to the king, no matter how far removed from actual possession. A tailor had been condemned for the murder of a soldier, and the judge tacked on this addition to the sentence of death:

"And not only did you murder him, but you did thrust or push or pierce or project or propel the lethal weapon through the belly band of his breeches, which were his majesty's!"

Pass Salaries of Actors.

A number of autograph letters of Edmund Kean supply some interesting information about the salaries of actors early in the century. One relates to an offer by Mr. Ellingron offering Kean £3 a week as acting manager of "the new theater in Wych street." Later this rose as high as £25 a month. In 1826 Kean was offered $12,000 a year to go to America. In the prime of his popularity he received £200 for a week in Edinburgh, and apparently reached the highest point when Mr. Bunn wrote from the Theater Royal, Dublin, on Feb. 8, 1829, and offered him £50 a night to play in Dublin and Cork.—Liverpool Mercury.

Life of a Battleship.

Naval experts have put down the active life of a modern battleship at about 15 years. A hundred years ago battleships lasted nearly six times as long and were on active service nearly the whole time of their commission.

The Victory, for instance, was 40 years old when she acted as Nelson's flagship at the memorable battle of Trafalgar. A line of battle ship, the Royal William, was built at Chatham in 1670 and was not broken up until 1813, being rebuilt several times before her final demise.

The Laplanders drink a great deal of smoked snow water, and one of the national drinks of the Tonquines is arrack flavored with chickens' blood.

The sacred crocodiles of Egypt were buried with her proudest kings.
