

Modern Treatment of Consumption

The latest work on the treatment of diseases, written by forty eminent American physicians, says: "Cod-liver oil has done more for the consumptive than all other remedies put together." It also says: "The hypophosphites of lime and soda are regarded by many English observers as specifics for consumption."

Scott's Emulsion

contains the best cod-liver oil in a partially digested form, combined with the Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. This remedy, a standard for a quarter of a century, is in exact accord with the latest views of the medical profession. Be sure you get SCOTT'S Emulsion.

A Musical Sentry.

The author of "With Plumer in Matebeleland" tells of some humorous sentry incidents.

A trooper had gone down to a water hole after the sentries were posted. On returning he was challenged, but, not knowing the countersign, the sentry refused to let him pass.

"Hang it all, you know me well enough! What's the use of playing the fool at this time of night?" pleaded the soldier.

"Can't be helped. You know the orders, and unless you give the countersign there you are, and there you will remain!" retorted the sentry. And he did remain there until the visiting officer admitted him in the small hours of the morning.

On another occasion the countersign was "Nordenfeldt," the name of a certain kind of gun. A soldier, on approaching the picket, had a hazy recollection that some sort of a gun had been mentioned as the countersign and in answer to the challenge gave "Maxim."

"That's not it," replied the sentry. "Oh, well, the other kind of gun!" hazarded the man.

"Well, that's near enough. Pass in," said the sentry.

An orderly officer, on going his rounds, was astonished to find the sentry singing at him in this fashion:

"Hi tiddle de hi ti! Who goes there?"

"What do you mean, sir, by challenging in that fashion?" asked the officer.

"The last time I was on duty, sir, I was told to challenge in a more musical voice, and that's the only tune I know, sir," replied the sentry.

The Evolution of the Sideboard.

The dresser began service in the kitchen as a table, advancing until it was composed of a top and two shelves below, supported by four legs. It was then used not so much as a place for dressing the meats as a serving table, on which dishes were placed before being allotted to the members of the household. At a later period a portion of the dresser became inclosed, and after that an extra shelf, with sometimes a hood, was placed on it. It was not then an article of kitchen furniture, but stood in the hall or living room. As a result of the desire to reduce the quantity of furniture in the hall the credence and dresser were combined as one article, with a closet and shelf below and several shelves above, the whole surmounted by a canopy. Then it was like some of our sideboards, though it was not known by that name until the eighteenth century, when it assumed the long, low table form, with drawers and cupboards below. The name sideboard prior to this had, however, been applied to tables as early as the sixteenth century.—Architectural Record.

Scotland.

Prior to the year 255, which witnessed its invasion by the Scots, a tribe who inhabited the northern portions of the country now known as Ireland, Scotland bore the name of Caledonia, literally the hilly country of the Caels, or Gaels. The word cael, or gael, is a corruption of Gadhel, signifying in the native tongue "a hidden rover," while Scot, derived from the native scute, means practically the same thing—i. e., a wanderer. The Caledonians were the inhabitants of the highlands, the termination dun expressing the Celtic for hill, fort, stronghold. The Scots were the invaders from Scotia, who appropriated the Hebrides and western islands, whereas the lowlanders were the Picts, so called from their description by the Romans, pecti, painted men.—"Names and Their Meaning."

A Peculiar Problem.

The Longbow gives some amusing pieces of Lewis Carroll's humor from the forgotten pages of Oxford pamphlets. During the election at Oxford in 1865 he gave vent to the following Euclidean definition:

"Plain superficiality is the character of a speech in which, any two points being taken, the speaker is found to lie wholly with regard to those two points."

A note is also given on the right appreciation of examiners: "A takes in ten books and gets a third class, B takes in the examiners and gets a second. Find the value of the examiners in terms of books; also their value in terms when no examination is held."

Sandy's Retort.

The parish minister of C— is a practical though not a cultured preacher. The other Sunday, when on his way home at the close of the afternoon service, he overtook Sandy Smart, the village hall wit, slowly trudging along, and, being a bit of a wag, addressed him as follows:

"You've got an excellent pair of shoes on, Sandy; but, loth, man, they're sadly in need of blacking!"

"Aye, sir," readily replied Sandy. "They're like yer sermons—unco destitute o' polish!"—Dundee People's Journal.

Both Well Posted.

There is a story current in Washington of a charming girl whose partner said to her as in waltzing they just missed a statue of the Venus of Milo:

"We mustn't dance too near that or somebody will accuse us of breaking it."

The girl turned her lovely eyes on the statue. "Why," said she, "somebody's broken it already."
