"WHO IS JOHN W. KERN?"

[Albany (N. Y.) Daily Press-Knickerbocker, Ind. Republican.]

"Who is John W. Kern?" asks William E. Corey, the multimillionaire steel magnate, who gained notoriety by marrying Mabelle Gilman, the actress.

In the first place, John W. Kern is an old fogey. He has such old-fashioned notions that he despises a man who would divorce his wife and the mother of his children in order to gratify an insane passion for an actress. John W. Kern is one of those back numbers who place honor above dollars. He would not sell his soul for gold, even though the devil offered him all the yellow metal there is in the bowels of the earth. He has remained a comparatively poor man all his life rather than enter a combine to rob the people and drive competitors out of business. He never, so far as we have been able to learn, either founded a public library or endowed a college. Having lived an upright, wholesome, God-fearing life all his days, he has never felt the necessity of apologizing to his Maker or offering penance in the form of lucre for his sins.

William E. Corey is about as sharp a contrast to John W. Kern as could be found within the boundaries of the United States, with the possible exception of James S. Sherman, the other candidate for vice president. No man who holds dear the honor of this country can contemplate the possibility of James S. Sherman becoming, through an act of Providence, the president of the United States without shuddering, whereas, if John W. Kern should be called upon to step into the highest office he would grace it.

"Who is John W. Kern?" asks the faithless nabob who cast off his faithful wife, the woman who had bravely shared his days of poverty and had struggled with him to build up his fortunes, as a man throws away a lemon after he has squeezed all the good out of it. Such impertinence deserves no answer, were it not for the sake of calling attention to the brazen effrontery of men of Corey's stamp who had, through the medium of protected monopoly, grown to be the greatest menace that confronts this nation today. Anarchy can be stamped out by force, but the insidious evil imposed upon this long-suffering people by men whom President Roosevelt designates very forcibly as "malefactors of great wealth," is even more to be dreaded than anarchy.

Whiting, Ind., Sept. 14.—Positive declarations have been adduced that the Standard Oil company, victims of Judge Landis' $29,000,000 fine, will support the republican candidates for national office in this year's campaign. The information was received yesterday by a Times representative from a reliable source and is absolutely of the utmost importance to local office-seekers as it gives them the assurance that they may be carried into power on the strength of the national ticket, at least.

CONSIDER THESE FIGURES.

The current numbers of the Indiana Bulletin of Charities and Correction, issued by the Indiana Board of State Charities, contains a report for the nine months ending June 30, 1908, the figures relating to the institutions under the supervision of the board, including the four hospitals for the insane, the school for feeble-minded, the soldiers' home, soldiers' and sailors' orphans' home, the village for epileptics, the state schools for the deaf and for the blind and the five penal and correctional institutions.

The maintenance expenses of these institutions for the nine months make a total of $1,392,304.52, divided as follows:

SALARIES AND WAGES.	$ 517,778.41
Subsistence	384,327.33
Clothing	63,580.70
OFFICE, DOMESTIC AND OUTDOOR EXPENSES.	257,114.81
Ordinary repairs	69,503.27

Total $1,392,304.52

The above figures are rather striking. They show that for nine months of this year the state has paid on account of the above named institutions the sum of $874,893.22 for salaries, wages, office, etc., expenses, while in the same time there was paid for food and clothing for all of the state's charges the sum of $447,908.03. In other words, only half as much money was spent for the inmates of the institutions as was spent in the way of salaries, etc. Did the inmates get too little or the officials too much?

STANDARD OIL WORKING FOR TAFT.

The trusts and monopolies are working with all their might for Taft and Sherman. The Standard Oil company is as busy as the rest of them. The following article, which is reproduced from the Gary Evening Times, a Taft paper, which printed it under big headlines, shows one line along which the Standard is working:

Receive Literature.

For several weeks, office employees of the Standard Oil company at Whiting have received the issues of Harper's Weekly, one of the dominant republican papers of the year. Articles of unusual strength, advocating the Taft-Sherman platform and denouncing Wattersonian ideas as advanced by Mr. Bryan have appeared weekly. The campaign waged by the Harper company has been virile in the extreme and will influence its readers to a marked degree.

There has been no charge made for these papers and the recipients have often refused to accept them from the postoffice, believing that they will some day receive a bill for the subscription.

Weeklies Gift of Company.

Investigation at the Chicago postal headquarters, through which the Harper magazines pass, revealed the fact that the weeklies are the gift of the Standard Oil company, who have paid a year's subscription in advance for upward of 200 of their employees.

The method of campaign managing has been kept very secret until discovered by The Times representative and is a new one in political circles. It is believed that other corporations will follow the example of the oil interests and elect their candidates by the distribution of such sensible campaign literature as that produced by the Harper company.

Labor in Politics.

[Evansville Advocate (Labor.)]

There is a plank in the platform of the Democratic party of such vital interest, not only to the trade unions of the United States, but to all those who labor that too much importance cannot be attached to it.

In the event of the election of the Democratic party in November, for the first time in the history of this union, will have a bureau solely to look after its interests. It will be dignified by a labor man being made a cabinet officer, a man of practical knowledge of conditions in the labor world, a man who will be a member of the president's advisory family.

This very essential point has been heretofore completely ignored by Republican administrations, who have seemingly felt that labor was not entitled to distinct and individual recognition. This is but further evidence of the sincerity of William Jennings Bryan when he announces as his slogan "Let the People Rule."

The great wealth producers of this country surely are entitled to this much recognition. Capital is important, but the man whose efforts have made this capital surely is entitled to greater recognition in the conduct of the affairs of this United States than he has heretofore received.

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 28.—(Special to Daily Democrat)—Representative Kniseley, of DeKalk county, today handed a statement to the Democratic state chairman, Stokes Jackson, its truth supported by his affidavit, in which he swears that Governor Hanly, in the presence of Senator Wickemire offered him (Kniseley) a two thousand dollar a year state job if he would vote for local option. Wickemire had denied the statement as false and malicious. The Democrats will use the affidavit in the campaign.

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 28.—Governor Hanly, after a conference with the republican state committee, announced today, that he will speak for the republicans during the remainder of the campaign, wherever they may decide to send him. He will devote as much of his time from now on to the election as is required for the benefit of the republican party.

The last will and testament of Rhoda McCullough, late of St. Marys township was probated. After providing for the payment of debts she gives all her rights and interest to a one-third interest in 80 acres in St. Marys township to John W. Brodbeck, who is to pay her daughter, Cynthia Christy, $500 and to another daughter, Emmeline Brodbeck, $400, and he, John Brodbeck is to keep and care for her grandson, Glen Gilpin, until he is 13 years old. She appoints John W. Brodbeck, executor. The will was written May 13, 1903, and witnessed by J. W. Teeple and C. H. Colter.

The trial of John Baker, another of the Woodburn men charged with complicity in the assassination of Marshal Croy, is set for January 11. Baker was arraigned in the circuit court Friday and to Judge O'Rourke pleaded not guilty. Baker will be defended by Elmer Leonard and Judge R. K. Erwin. Mr. Thomas will represent the state.—Fort Wayne News.

OFFICERS HAVE A CLUE

Suspicion Points to Man Who Worked Here as Automobile Thief.

It is rumored that there is a probability of landing the men or at least one of them who stole the DeWald touring car at Fort Wayne a few evenings ago. The officers it is said, have a good clue and that one of the men implicated formerly worked here. It is also given out that the first suspicion as to his guilt was aroused when it was discovered that a gasoline can which he knew of had been stolen and was left in the car. Further details may be given the public within a few days.

The Democratic speech to be made tonight at the court house by Ex-Congressman James Robison, the most popular politician in the Twelfth district, will be very interesting. Robison is a speaker of ability and able to interest any audience. Everybody attend and hear a fair discussion of the pending campaign.

Several Decatur Men Have Gone to Rome City.

Messrs. D. M. Hensley, F. E. Smith, Ansel Bremerkamp, Clem Vogelweide and Paul Hooper left Sunday morning for Rome City, where they will remain for several days on a fishing trip. These gentlemen are real fishermen, and if the funny tribe do not suffer it will not be the fault of the men. We can also expect a number of fish stories upon their return, and if Heck is chosen as spokesman for the crowd, he will be able to tell where and when each fish was caught.
